The Environment and Christian Ethics Michael S. Northcott, 1996-09-28 This book is about the extent origins and causes of the environmental crisis Dr Northcott argues that Christianity has lost the biblical awareness of the interconnectedness of all life He shows how Christian theologians and believers might recover a more ecologically friendly belief system and life style The author provides an important corrective to secular approaches to environmental ethics including utilitarian individualism animal rights theories and deep ecology

The Environment and the Christian Calvin B. DeWitt, 1991

Should Christians Be Environmentalists? Dan Story, 2012-04-13 Did God instruct the human race to be His caretakers over nature If so is environmental exploitation disobedience to God Is it true as many critics claim that Christianity is the root cause of today s environmental problems or are all religions and cultures responsible How should the church respond Should Christians Be Environmentalists systematically tackles these tough questions and more by exploring what the Bible says about the environment and our stewardship of creation Looking at three dimensions of environmentalism as a movement a Bible based theology of nature and the role the church has in environmental ethics Dan Story examines each through a theological apologetic and practical lens

Christian Faith and Environmental Stewardship Daniel K. Lagat, 2019-03-15 This book covers the contribution of Christianity in the care stewardship and management of the environment It uses ideas from the logical position of a Christian created in God s image redeemed by God and given responsibility to subdue and keep the earth arguing that a Christian has the responsibility and mandate to care for the environment It shows that successful stewardship happens when a Christian is aware of God s intention for creation exerts effort to increase it and is expected to give an account to God for their actions toward it The book presents environmental concerns in Kenya as an opportunity for change describing situations and why they could become opportunities for change Seven worldviews are presented that discourage Christians who want to do environmental stewardship and Christian theological doctrines are discussed that could be used to cause ecclesial participation in environmental stewardship Finally the book envisions a Conserving Church with specific activities the church can do to successfully influence people to do environmental stewardship

Christian Faith and the Environment Brennan R. Hill, 2007-03-16 Although the environmental crisis has been recognized as an international threat Christian attempts to reconcile their religious traditions and the earth are just beginning Christian Faith and the Environment challenges churches to take a stand for environmental concerns Hill explores how twentieth century theologians such as Karl Rahner Bernard Lonergan and Pierre Teilhard de Chardin have taught Christians to build bridges between Christianity and creation Examining sacramental rites church documents and feminist theological insights on ecology Hill outlines a Christian environmental spirituality and traces the ethical challenges posed by our new awareness of our environment

Environmental Stewardship in the Judeo-Christian Tradition Michael B. Barkey, Acton Institute for the Study of Religion and Liberty, 2000 A fair and honest debate about religious responses to environmental issues should always distinguish theological principles from prudential judgments The Cornwall Declaration and the accompanying essays in this volume were written to do just that They were not written to provide theological rationale for current environmentalist fashion Rather they seek to articulate the broad Judeo Christian theological principles concerning the environment and to distinguish those principles from contrary ideas popular in the environmental movement

Diversity and Dominion Kyle Schuyler Van Houtan, Michael S. Northcott, 2010 Description This book records a set of dialogues between scientists theologians and philosophers on what can be done to prevent a global slide into ecological collapse It is a uniquely multidisciplinary book that exemplifies the kinds of cultural and scholarly dialogue urgently needed to address the threat to the earth represented by our super industrial civilization The authors debate the conventional account of nature conservation as protection from human activity In contrast to standard accounts they argue what is needed is a new relationship between human beings and the earth that recovers a primal respect for all things This approach seeks to recover forgotten resources in ancient cultures and in the foundational narratives of Western civilization contained in the Bible and in the culture of classical Greece Endorsements A refreshing critique of both evangelical and liberal North American environmental discourse a bold exercise in multi disciplinary conversation and a welcome retrieval of the virtues of creaturely humility and gratitude Ernst M Conradie University of the Western Cape South Africa This wonderfully rich book is a model of deep conversation on crucial challenges we face The most important issues are intrinsically interdisciplinary yet we often settle for talking at or to one another This is especially true among the environmental and religious communities The conversations in this book show that deep interdisciplinary engagements offer opportunities to re frame the questions and re describe the challenges in more promising and life giving ways transforming participants and the issues alike A terrific achievement L Gregory Jones Duke University Underlying the environmental movement are a set of mostly undiscussed ethical and theological assumptions about the nature of the world and our relationship to it In this pioneering volume scholars from various perspectives engage in a deep exploration of the relationship of ecology theology and ethics The results are often illuminating sometimes surprising and uniformly worth engaging Paul Root Wolpe Emory University Van Houtan and Northcott engage scientists ethicists theologians and other thinking persons in dialogue working to re ligate the torn academic and social fabric and bringing all to see and respond to the biosphere the awesome creation that calls for our guardianship and respectful service They have us join this dialogue motivating us gardeners all toward nurturing the kind of wisdom and humility that brings good news to every creature Calvin DeWitt University of Wisconsin About the Contributor s Kyle S Van Houtan is a Post Doctoral Fellow in the Program in
