Comfort in a Lower Carbon Society Elizabeth Shove, Heather Chappells, Loren Lutzenhiser, 2013-09-13 Current expectations and standards of comfort are almost certainly unsustainable and new methods and ideas will be required if there is to be any prospect of a significantly lower carbon society This collection reassesses relationships between people and the multitude of environments they inhabit in the context of increasing carbon intensities of everyday life In this bold and unconventional volume historians sociologists environmentalists geographers and cultural theorists provoke and stimulate debate about the future of comfort in a lower carbon society These contributions are then subject to critical commentary from a range of academic and policy perspectives The result is a book that promotes academic and policy discussion of the environmental consequences of indoor climate change around the world and that offers new perspectives and strategies for moving towards a lower carbon future This book was published as a special issue of Building Research Information

Understanding Meaningful Environments: Architectural Precedents and the Question of Identity in Creative Design Ali Guney, 2008-10-15 Understanding Meaningful Environments Architectural Precedents and the Question of Identity in Creative Design intends to put forward a discussion on the use of precedents and the production of innovative designs as well as to discuss the relationship between precedents and identity in a world undergoing a rapid process of globalization This publication provides insights into how the strategy of making use of design precedents as a source of knowledge rather than initiating a project from tabula rasa leads to efficient effective and or innovative results based in particular on the work of Le Corbusier and Santiago Calatrava In the sense that architects ideologies and intentions did not form a main position in this account one may say that it is not a value added approach However in this publication this other side of the use of precedents is explored i e recollection and intention because in addition to innovations the critical use of precedents seems to help in the production of buildings places that embody a critical notion of identity The goal of this study is to provide a reflection on the themes mentioned as well as to briefly discuss methods for precedent analysis

The Sustainable City IX N. Marchettini, C.A. Brebbia, R. Pulselli, S. Bastianoni, 2014-09-23 Containing the proceedings of the 9th International Conference on Urban Regeneration and Sustainability this book addresses the multi disciplinary aspects of urban planning a result of the increasing size of cities the amount of resources and services required and the complexity of modern society Most of earth s population now lives in cities and the process of urbanisation still continues generating many problems deriving from the drift of the population towards them These problems can be resolved by cities becoming efficient habitats saving resources in a way that improves the quality and standard of living The process however faces a number of major challenges related to reducing pollution improving main transportation and infrastructure systems New urban solutions are required to optimise the use of space and energy resources leading to improvements in the environment i e reduction in air water and soil pollution as well as efficient ways to deal with waste generation These challenges contribute to the development of social and economic imbalances and require the development of new solutions Large cities are probably the most complex mechanisms to manage However despite such complexity they represent a fertile ground for architects engineers city planners social and political scientists and other professionals able to conceive new ideas and time them according to technological advances and human requirements The challenge of planning sustainable cities lies in considering their dynamics the exchange of energy and matter and the function and maintenance of ordered structures directly or indirectly supplied and maintained by natural systems Topics covered include Urban strategies Planning development and management Urban conservation and regeneration The community and the city Eco town planning Landscape planning and design Environmental management Sustainable energy and the city Transportation Quality of life Waterfront development Case studies Architectural issues Cultural heritage issues Intelligent environment and emerging technologies Planning for risk Disaster and emergency response Safety and security Waste management Infrastructure and society Urban metabolism alternative political realities constituted The volume explores the methods and spatial practices required to activate the political dimension and the possibility for alternative practices to operate in the existing oppressive systems while not being swallowed by these structures Fostering new political consciousness is explored in terms of the following themes Events and Dissidence Biopolitics Ethics and Desire Climate and Ecology Urban Commons and Social Participation Marginalities and Postcolonialism Volume II embraces engagement across disciplines and offers a wide range of projects and critical analyses across the so called Global North and South This multidisciplinary collection of 36 chapters provides the reader with an extensive resource of case studies and ways of thinking for architecture and urban space to become more emancipatory Chapter 1 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution CC BY 4.0 license

The Vortex Frank Uekötter, 2024-04-18 Environmental challenges are defining the twenty first century To fully understand ongoing debates about our current crises climate change loss of biological diversity pollution extinction resource woes means revisiting their origins in all their complexity With this ambitious highly original contribution to the environmental history of global modernity Frank Uekötter considers the many ways humans have had an impact on their physical environment throughout history Ours is not a one way trajectory to sudden collapse he argues but rather death by a thousand cuts The many paths we've forged to arrive in our current predicament from agriculture to industry to infrastructure must be considered collectively if we are to stay afloat in what Uekötter describes as a vortex a powerful metaphor for the flow of history capturing the momentum and the many crosscurrents that swept people and environments along His book invites us to look at environmental challenges from multiple perspectives including all the twists and turns that have helped to create the mess we find ourselves in Uekötter has written a world history for an age where things are falling apart where we know what lies ahead and are equipped with the right tools technological and otherwise and plenty of experience to deal with environmental challenges but somehow fail to get our affairs in order

Urban Infrastructure in Transition Timothy Moss, Simon Marvin, 2016-05-13 Achieving sustainable energy and resource use is vital if cities are to thrive or even function in the long term Focusing on cities in the United Kingdom Germany and Denmark this book examines the mounting pressures for changes in the management style of utility services in Europe pressures that stem from a wide range of sources such as liberalization and privatization of markets tighter environmental standards new economic incentives competing technologies and changing consumption patterns The authors show how changes in the management of utility services can contribute to achieving greater sustainability in urban regions Whilst more efficient technology has a part to play truly significant improvements in quality of life will be delivered only when the flow of material and energy through cities is focused on the goal of sustainability in each local context
