Environmental Overdose:

The Ghost in the Addict Shepard Siegel, 2024-03-05 How withdrawal distress and cravings can haunt current and former addicts and what they can teach us about addiction and its treatments The dead drug leaves a ghost behind At certain hours it haunts the house Jean Cocteau once wrote In The Ghost in the Addict Shepard Siegel offers a Pavlovian analysis of drug use Chronic drug use he explains conditions users to have an anticipatory homeostatic correction which protects the addict from overdose This drug preparatory response elicited by drug paired cues is often mislabeled a withdrawal response The withdrawal response however is not due to the baneful effects of previous drug administrations rather it is due to the body's preparation for the next drug administration a preparatory response that can haunt addicts like a ghost long after they have conquered their usage Examining the failure of legislation the circumstances of overdose and the cues that promote drug use Siegel seeks to counter the widespread belief that addiction is evidence of a pathology Instead he proposes that the addict has an adaptive learned response to the physiological changes wrought by drug use It is only through understanding so called withdrawal symptoms as a Pavlovian response he explains that we can begin to understand why addicts experience cravings long after their last drug use Medical Toxicology of Occupational and Environmental

Exposures Donald G. Barceloux, 2025-04-04 Medical Toxicology of Occupational and Environmental Exposures is the only reference which comprehensively covers the clinical analytical and monitoring information needed by clinicians students and investigators with interests in metals radiation and cancer The information in all chapters is presented in a cogent standardized format which greatly simplifies the use of the text as a reference Reviewed by a distinguished panel of well known toxicology experts the information is critically evaluated and authoritative The interdisciplinary evidence based approach is designed to reach beyond clinical settings to increase the scientific understanding of those in associated fields analytical laboratories universities federal and state regulatory and environmental agencies involved with decisions regarding metals radiation and chemical carcinogens The consistent and concise style allows the reader to quickly locate the appropriate information necessary for informed decisions regarding the sources host susceptibility dose response clinical effect health surveillance and management of exposures to these substances Additional information is readily available to the interested reader through the detailed bibliography at the end of each chapter Volume 1 Metals and Metalloids Clinical Assessment Diagnostic Tests and Therapeutics is written to be clinically oriented with a consistent template allowing easier access to detailed information on specific metals Environmental Toxicology Edward A. Laws, 2012-12-12 Environmental

Toxicology provides a detailed comprehensive introduction to this key area of sustainability and public health research The broad coverage includes sections on ecological risk assessment monitoring mechanisms fate and transport prevention and correctives as well as treatment of the health effects of solar radiation and toxicology in the ocean The 23 state of the art chapters provide a multi disciplinary perspective on this vital area which encompasses environmental science biology
