High Tech Ids:

The Evolution of Industrial Districts Giulio Cainelli, Roberto Zoboli, 2012-12-06 Italian industrial districts IDs recently attracted international attention because their performance during the last few decades contradicted the alleged weakness of industrial structures based on SMEs in traditional sectors The book analyses some developments taking place in Italian IDs and local systems of production that can represent a new stage of evolution for the backbone of the Italian economy Based on the extensive use of original databases three main trajectories of change in IDs are presented The first trajectory is the increasing role of groups of manufacturing SMEs arising from mergers and acquisitions as well as spin off growth processes at the family firms level The second one is the consolidation of innovation capabilities in IDs And the third one is the internationalisation process of Italian IDs through both trade and foreign direct investment The essays suggest that Italian IDs are again evolving by coherent adaptations which will have however uncertain outcomes Ski, 1992-11 Playing the Identity Card Colin J Bennett, David Lyon, 2013-01-11 National identity cards are in the news While paper ID documents have been used in some countries for a long time today's rapid growth features high tech IDs with built in biometrics and RFID chips Both long term trends towards e Government and the more recent responses to 9 11 have prompted the quest for more stable identity systems Commercial pressures mix with security rationales to catalyze ID development aimed at accuracy efficiency and speed New ID systems also depend on computerized national registries Many questions are raised about new IDs but they are often limited by focusing on the cards themselves or on privacy Playing the Identity Card shows not only the benefits of how the state can see citizens better using these instruments but also the challenges this raises for civil liberties and human rights ID cards are part of a broader trend towards intensified surveillance and as such are understood very differently according to the history and cultures of the countries concerned The Technological Evolution of Industrial Districts Fiorenza Belussi, Giorgio Gottardi, Enzo Rullani, 2012-12-06 Fiorenza Belussi Giorgio Gottardi and Enzo Rullani This volume collects some papers presented at the Vicenza conference The Future of Districts held in June 1999 organised by the Department of Technology and Management of Industrial Systems of the Faculty of Engineering of Padua University with the collaboration of several engineers industrial economists and experts in the issue of technology management This was the starting point of a long lasting and painful collective discussion the results of which are documented here during many meetings of this itinerant group including the workshop in Padua organised by Professor Luciano Pilotti and held in May 2001 Systems governance knowledge within firm networks at the Department of Economics of the University of Padua and the recent international research seminar held in May 2002 in Rome at the Tagliacarne Institute within the EU sponsored project Industrial districts re location processes identifying policies of EU enlargement West East ID The reason we decided to organise this book was not only to underline the importance of the industrial district ID model as a tool of propulsive local growth in a country like Italy On the contrary the idea that moved us was the theoretical dissatisfaction with the way in which the phenomenon of local development and industrial clustering of specific industries was treated in the international approach of the various disciplines Heaven Has a Wall Elizabeth Shakman Hurd, 2025-06-05 An urgent exploration of borders as sacred objects in American culture Our national conversation about the border has taken a religious turn When televangelists declare Heaven has a wall activists shout back Jesus was a refugee For Elizabeth Shakman Hurd the standoff makes explicit a longstanding truth borders are religious as well as political objects In this book Hurd argues that Americans share a bipartisan border religion complete with an array of beliefs and practices including a reverence for national security a liturgy for immigration and an eschatological foreign policy Through an analysis of the many ways the United States creates enforces and ignores borders at home and abroad Hurd offers a bold new perspective on the ties that bind American religion politics and public life

Business Networks in Clusters and Industrial Districts Fiorenza Belussi, Alessia Sammarra, 2009-09-10 During the 1980s the Marshallian concept of industrial district ID became widely popular due to the resurgence of interest in the reasons that make the agglomeration of specialised industries a territorial phenomenon worth being analysed The analysis of clusters and IDs has often been limited considering only the local dimension of the created business networks The external links of these systems have been systematically under evaluated This book offers a deep insight into the evolution of these systems and the internal external mechanism of knowledge circulation and learning This means that the access to external knowledge information or R showing that existing capabilities expand when locally embedded knowledge is combined with accessible external knowledge In this view external knowledge linkages reduce the danger of cognitive lock in and over embeddedness which may become important obstacles to local learning and innovation when technological trajectories and global economic conditions change A selection of
