Highams Park And Hale End:

A History of Highams Park & Hale End M. L. Dunhill, 2005 Highams Park lies on the Greenwich Meridian about ten miles from St Paul's Cathedral but it is not easy to find it on a map The old hamlet of Hale End is even more elusive but is a vital community with its own identity Early settlers came to the Great Forest of Waltham and from the Tudor period to the Victorian era the beautiful forest around Hale End and its proximity to the City appealed to Lord Mayors of London and wealthy merchant bankers Epping Forest and the lake attracted day trippers who came by rail to Hale End station but the urban village of Highams Park only began to develop in the 20th century when a plastics factory was established there Suddenly shops schools and affordable houses were being built for factory workers and City clerks and a lively community was created Fascinating people have always lived in the area from Haldan in Saxon times to the designers of the Airship R101 and Concorde more recently Charmingly written this book will appeal to residents and social historians alike

Today's London Overground Justin Bailey, 2021-09-30 A photographic history of a twenty first century transport success story including routes stations and trains The Orange Line the Ginger Line or the M25 Railway call it what it what you will the London Overground born in 2007 has become one of London's transport success stories Running complimentary to and in some places in combination with London Underground it carries more than 180 million passengers a year on nine lines and serves 112 stations over a combined length of more than a hundred miles An amalgamation of several commuter lines and one London Underground Line that ring London it now branches out to all points of the compass Over recent years it's also undergone unprecedented change and investment with a few troubles along the way with the phasing out of old and the introduction of new rolling stock This book takes a photographic look at these changes covering the routes the stations and the trains including Classes 172 315 317 378 and the brand new 710s with a brief history of each And with so much freight sharing the Overground routes this is briefly looked at as well Education Outlook, 1914 Educational Times, 1907
