O'Connor,2022-10-15 Death by Fire and Ice tells the little known story of the sinking of the steamboat Lexington on Long Island Sound in January 1840 Built in 1835 by Cornelius Vanderbilt the Lexington left Manhattan bound for Stonington Connecticut at four o'clock in the afternoon on a bitterly cold day carrying an estimated one hundred forty seven passengers and crew and a cargo of among other things baled cotton After making her way up an ice encrusted East River and into Long Island Sound she caught fire off Eaton's Neck on Long Island's north shore at approximately seven o'clock The fire quickly ignited the cotton stowed on board With the crew unable to extinguish the fire the blaze burned through the ship's wheel and tiller ropes rendering the ship unmanageable Soon after the engine died and the blazing ship drifted aimlessly in the Sound away from shore with the prevailing wind and current As the night wore on the temperature plummeted reaching nineteen degrees below zero With no hope of rescue on the dark horizon the forlorn passengers and crew faced a dreadful decision remain on board and perish in the searing flames or jump overboard and succumb within minutes to the Sound's icy waters By three o'clock in the morning the grisly ordeal was over for all but one passenger and three members of the crew the only ones who survived The tragedy remains the worst maritime disaster in the history of Long Island Sound Within days the New York City Coroner convened an inquest to determine the cause of the disaster After two weeks of testimony reported daily in the New York City press the inquest jury concluded that the Lexington had been permitted to operate on the Sound at the imminent risk of the lives and property of its passengers and that had the crew acted appropriately the fire could have been extinguished and a large portion if not all of the passengers saved The public's reaction to the verdict was scathing the press charged that the members of the board of directors of the Transportation Company which had purchased the Lexington from Commodore Vanderbilt in 1839 were guilty of murder and should be indicted Calls were immediately made for Congress to enact legislation to improve passenger safety on steamboats This book explores the ongoing debate in Congress during the nineteenth century over its power to regulate steamboat safety and it examines the balance Congress struck between the need to insulate the nation's shipping industry from ruinous liability for lost cargo while at the same time greatly enhancing passenger safety on the nation's steamboats

Fire & Ice Carol A. Mullen, 2005 Fire Ice presents the educational inquiry process to school practitioners and aspiring leaders The context for this study is unusual because it addresses inquiry learning at both the master's and doctoral level and within group settings The picture that emerges illustrates ways for mentors to engage graduate students in learning writing and research through collaborative structures with an emphasis on learning communities as the primary vehicle for growth and success In the book graduate students have served as research participants focus group members and survey respondents in their dual role as peer mentor Because graduate education is being challenged to meet the changing needs of the twenty first century the influence of the professions on academic degrees has meant that students must develop as scholar practitioners instead of strictly intellectual academics Metaphorically the fire possibility desire and content and ice restraint structure and form of scholarly inquiry is used as a literary device to capture what it might mean for students to perform inquiry
