Historic As Sydney:

Transformation of Sydney's Industrial Historic Waterfront Ece Kaya, 2019-09-26 This book examines the impacts of tourism led transformations on the industrial historical waterfront at Darling Harbour and The Rocks in Sydney Australia in the context of urban restructuring and deindustrialisation The book also offers an extended reflection on the paradoxes between tourism and heritage This discussion is not a new concept However this book critically explores the significance of the industrial heritage assets of these areas and the implications of the transformation procedures Although Darling Harbour and The Rocks have generally been considered success stories of transformation with mixed touristic recreational residential and commercial activities this book examines and evaluates how industrial history and heritage values have been affected It demonstrates that tourism leisure led developments create urban landscapes in which cultural identity and historical assets are sacrificed and or reinvented

Australian National Bibliography: 1992 National Library of Australia, 1988 Exploring the Archaeology of the Modern City in Nineteenth-century Australia Tim Murray, Penny Crook, 2019-11-05 This book presents research into the urban archaeology of 19th century Australia It focuses on the detailed archaeology of 20 cesspits in The Rocks area of Sydney and the Commonwealth Block site in Melbourne It also includes discussions of a significant site in Sydney First

Government House The book is anchored around a detailed comparison of contents of 20 cesspits created during the 19th century and examines patterns of similarity and dissimilarity presenting analyses that work towards an integration of historical and archaeological data and perspectives The book also outlines a transnational framework of comparison that assists in the larger context related to building a truly global archaeology of the modern city This framework is directly related a multi scalar approach to urban archaeology Historical archaeologists have been advocating the need to explore the archaeology of the modern city using several different scales or frames of reference The most popular and most basic of these has been the household However it has also been acknowledged that interpreting the archaeology of households beyond the notion that every household and associated archaeological assemblage is unique requires archaeologists and historians to compare and contrast and to establish patterns These comparisons frequently occur at the level of the area or district in the same city where archaeologists seek to derive patterns that might be explained as being the result of status class ethnicity or ideology Other less frequent comparisons occur at larger scales for example between cities or countries acknowledging that the archaeology of the modern western city is also the archaeology of modern global forces of production consumption trade immigration and ideology formation This book makes a contribution to that general literature Sharks: A History of Fear in Australia Callum Denness,2019-09-24 For as long as people have lived in Australia the shark has loomed large in our fears From the Noongar people of Western Australia who stayed out of the water for fear of being taken to media hysteria about attacks and even sightings today sharks occupy the dark recesses of our national psyche unlike any other predator They challenge the very sense of ourselves as Australians a people who hug the coastline and love the freedom of the surf And the dispute between whether to kill or protect sharks cuts to the political core of our nation yet another divide between the right and the left There is no denying that shark attacks have been increasing in recent years and so have our fears Where do we go from here How worried should we be Journalist Callum Denness deep dives into the history of our relationship with sharks and circles our fear by talking to activists marine biologists politicians surfers survivors and those who ve lost loved ones Compelling and challenging this is the clearest picture yet of whether or not we can co exist with sharks Don t get back into the water until you read Sharks A History of Fear in Australia A Forger's Progress Alasdair McGregor,2014-11-01 A forger and convicted felon Francis Greenway was transported to Sydney in 1814 Only a decade later his dreams of a city superior in architectural beauty to London began to be realized as he designed Hyde Park Barracks St James Church the Supreme Court St Luke s Church in Liverpool and the Windsor courthouse In this first biography of Greenway since 1953 award winning author Alasdair McGregor scrutinizes the character and creative output of a man beset by contradictions and demons He profiles Greenway s landmark buildings his complex and fraught relationship with Governor Lachlan Macquarie and his thwarted ambitions and self destruction A Concise History of New South Wales John S Croucher,2020-08-17 Professor John Croucher gives an account of the first and continuing history of the first peoples to live in the region now known as New South Wales as well as its history from the days of British settlement and its more recent history of the waves of other immigrants who have made New South Wales their home Each section in the book focuses on a different cultural or historical aspect which is examined thoroughly from the beginnings of British settlement The complete development of the state is told weaving through these various areas of focus along with the important people and events Remarkable pioneers have helped shape not only the state but the country as a whole and their voices some coming to us via oral history others via historical documents make fascinating reading Journal and Proceedings - Royal Australian Historical Society Royal Australian Historical Society,1911 Australia's Oral History Collections Martin Woods,1997 Provides electronic access to oral history endeavour in Australia The database allows you to search within tens of thousands of hours of oral recordings 150 Years of Pyrmont Peninsula Colin F. Discussion traverses the city's diverse cultural influences from Indigenous land management to British pastoralism Chinese cultivation of Sydney's backyard vegetable garden and southern European farming spawning billion dollar empires The region has further been shaped by a vast array of cultural and ideological factors and material practices with relevance to planning policy ethics geography heritage art design and technology This book is the first to bring Sydney's disparate post colonial food histories together in one volume to explore the dynamics and tensions between urban growth and food production The relevance of Sydney's food landscapes therefore extends far wider than the city itself with implications for countless regions worldwide in a time of increasing climate and resource precarity
