Visionary Women Writers of Chicago's Black Arts Movement Carmen L. Phelps, 2012-11-26 A disproportionate number of male writers including such figures as Amiri Baraka, Larry Neal, Maulana Karenga and Haki Madhubuti continue to be credited for constructing the iconic and ideological foundations for what would be perpetuated as the Black Art Movement. Though there has arisen an increasing amount of scholarship that recognizes leading women artists, activists and leaders of this period, these new perspectives have yet to recognize adequately the ways women aspired to far more than a mere dismantling of male-oriented ideals. In Visionary Women Writers of Chicago's Black Arts Movement, Carmen L. Phelps examines the work of several women artists working in Chicago, a key focal point for the energy and production of the movement. Angela Jackson, Johari Amini and Carolyn Rodgers reflect in their writing specific cultural, local and regional insights and demonstrate the capaciousness of Black Art rather than its constraints. Expanding from these three writers, Phelps analyzes the breadth of women's writing in the BAM. In doing so, Phelps argues that these and other women attained advantageous and unique positions to represent the potential of the BAM aesthetic even if their experiences and artistic perspectives were informed by both social conventions and constraints. In this book, Phelps's examination brings forward a powerful and crucial contribution to the aesthetics and history of a movement that still inspires.

Our Father: Prayer and Praxis J. Lambert St. Rose, 2016-10-13

A running theme in Father St. Rose's collection of poems is a simple but profound expression of the diversity in creation and its oneness in the Godhead. It's a reminder of the need to promote and protect the integrity of all of creation because in the Godhead there are no accidents; all of creation has value and purpose. What Father St. Rose has done in this collection is to place before the reader those everyday experiences we take for granted and a chance to see them in their totality because it is only then that we can appreciate the fuller value of the individual experiences. Everistus J. Marie Meditate upon the lines of the Our Father through a series of poems and be willingly crafted in the hands of God, the master sculptor. A former teacher and ever prolific poet, the poet usefully dissects the Our Father, delivering it to us in word and deed from a living perspective often in all too familiar contexts. Nahdja Bailey, teacher, author and editor. This book is a phenomenally deep presentation of a vast cohesion of Jesus Christ's divine teaching which should be our lifetime curriculum while on earth in order to help us reach our heavenly destination one day. This book is a work of love. Loyola Devaux, teacher and editor.

The Worldview of the Word of Faith Movement: Eden Redeemed Mikael Stenhammar, 2021-12-16 This volume approaches the Word of Faith as a worldview and analyses the movement through N. T. Wright's model for worldview analysis in order to provide necessary nuance and complexity to scholarly interpretations of the Word of Faith. The reader receives insights into the movement's narrative, semiotic, practical and propositional dimensions which cumulatively offer a multifaceted understanding of how the Word of Faith interprets reality and engages with the world. The analysis shows that there is a narrative core to Word of Faith beliefs in the form of a unique theological story with focus set on the present.

restoration of Eden's authority and blessings This study demonstrates how the Word of Faith operates as a distinct worldview that parses the world through the lens of faith's causative power to affect a direct correspondence between present reality and Eden's perfection The findings advance a critical and therapeutic approach that acknowledges how the worldview both strengthens and subverts Pentecostalism
