Editing The Middle English Manuscript:

Opening Up Middle English Manuscripts Kathryn Kerby-Fulton, Maidie Hilmo, Linda Olson, 2024-05-15 Deeply informed and lavishly illustrated Opening Up Middle English Manuscripts is a comprehensive introduction to the modern study of Middle English manuscripts. It is intended for students and scholars who are familiar with some of the major Middle English literary works such as The Canterbury Tales, Gawain and the Green Knight, Piers Plowman and the romances, mystical works or cycle plays but who may not know much about the surviving manuscripts. The book approaches these texts in a way that takes into account the whole manuscript or codex, its textual and visual contents, physical state, readership and cultural history. Opening Up Middle English Manuscripts also explores the function of illustrations in fashioning audience response to particular authors and their texts over the course of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. Kathryn Kerby-Fulton, Linda Olson and Maidie Hilmo, scholars at the forefront of the modern study of Middle English manuscripts, focus on the writers most often taught in Middle English courses, including Geoffrey Chaucer, William Langland, the Gawain Poet, Thomas Hoccleve, Julian of Norwich and Margery Kempe, highlighting the specific issues that shaped literary production in late medieval England. Among the topics they address are the rise of the English language, literacy, social conditions of authorship, early instances of the Alliterative Revival, women and book production, nuns, libraries, patronage, household books, religious and political trends and attempts at revisionism and censorship. As of 2024, Opening Up Middle English Manuscripts is available as an ebook, ideal for instructors teaching the book in courses. The fully searchable PDF ebook version is available through most digital textbook platforms and library ebook aggregation platforms.

New Directions in Later Medieval Manuscript Studies Derek Pearsall, 2000 Influential scholars from Britain and North America discuss future directions in rapidly expanding field of manuscript study The study of manuscripts is one of the most active areas of current research in medieval studies manuscripts are the basic primary material evidence for literary scholars historians and art historians alike and there has been an explosion of interest over the past twenty years Manuscript study has developed enormously codices are no longer treated as inert witnesses to a culture whose character has already been determined by the modern scholar but are active participants in a process of exploration and discovery The articles collected here discuss the future of this process and vital questions about manuscript study for tomorrow's explorers They deal with codicology and book production with textual criticism with the material structure of the medieval book with the relation of manuscripts to literary culture to social history and to the medieval theatre and with the importance to manuscript study of the emerging technology of computerised digitisation and hypertext display The essays provide an end of millennium perspective on the most vigorous developments in a rapidly expanding field of study Contributors A I Doyle C David Benson Martha W Driver J P Gumbert Kathryn Kerby-Fulton Linne R Mooney Eckehard Simon Alison Stones John Thompson DEREK PEARSALL is former Professor and Co-Director of the Centre for Medieval Studies York and Professor of English at Harvard University Orality and Literacy in Early Middle English Herbert Pilch, 1996 What Kind of a Thing Is a Middle English Lyric? Cristina Maria Cervone, Nicholas Watson, 2022-08-30 What Kind of a Thing Is a Middle English Lyric considers issues pertaining to a corpus of several hundred short poems written in Middle English between the twelfth and early fifteenth centuries The chapters draw on perspectives from varied disciplines including literary criticism musicology art history and cognitive science Since the early 1900s the poems have been categorized as lyrics the term now used for most kinds of short poetry yet neither the difficulties nor the promise of this treatment have received enough attention In one way the book argues considering these poems to be lyrics obscures much of what is interesting about them Since the nineteenth century lyrics have been thought of as subjective and best read without reference to cultural context yet nonetheless they are taken to form a distinct literary tradition Since Middle English short poems are often communal and usually spoken sung and or danced this lyric template is not a good fit In another way however the very differences between these poems and the later ones on which current debates about the lyric still focus suggest they have much to offer those debates and vice versa As its title suggests this book thus goes back to the basics asking fundamental questions about what these poems are how they function formally and culturally how they are and are not related to other bodies of short poetry and how they might illuminate and be illuminated by contemporary lyric scholarship Eleven chapters by medievalists and two responses by modernists all in careful conversation with one another reflect on these questions and suggest very different answers The editors' introduction synthesizes these answers by suggesting that these poems can most usefully be read as a kind of play in several senses of that word The book ends with eight new Middle English lyrics by seven contemporary poets Traditions and Innovations in the Study of Medieval English Literature Charlotte Brewer, Barry A. Windeatt, 2013 Essays on the many key aspects of medieval literature reflecting the significant impact of Professor Derek Brewer Derek Brewer 1923-2008 was one of the most influential medievalists of the twentieth century first through his own publications and teaching and later as the founder of his own academic publishing firm His working life of some sixty years from the late 1940s to the 2000s saw enormous advances in the study of Chaucer and of Arthurian romance and of medieval literature more generally He was in the forefront of such changes and his understandings of Chaucer and of Malory remain at the core of the modern critical mainstream. Essays in this collection take their starting point from his ideas and interests before offering their own fresh thinking in those key areas of medieval studies in which he pioneered innovations which remain central: Chaucer's knight and knightly virtues, class distinction, narrators and narrative time, lovers and loving in medieval romance, ideals of feminine beauty, love, friendship and masculinities, medieval laughter, symbolic stories, the nature of romance and the ends of storytelling, the wholeness of Malory's Morte Darthur, modern study of the medieval material book, Chaucer's poetic language and modern dictionaries and Chaucerian afterlives. This collection builds towards an intellectual profile of a modern medievalist, cumulatively registering how the potential of Derek Brewer's work is being reinterpreted and is renewing itself now and into the future of medieval studies.

Charlotte Brewer is Professor of English Language and Literature at Oxford University and a Fellow of Hertford College, Oxford. Barry Windeatt is Professor of English in the University of Cambridge and a Fellow of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. Contributors: Elizabeth Archibald, Charlotte Brewer, Mary Carruthers, Christopher Cannon, Helen Cooper, A. S. G. Edwards, Jill Mann, Alastair Minnis, Derek Pearsall, Corinne Saunders, James Simpson, A. C. Spearing, Jacqueline Tasioulas, Robert Yeager, Barry Windeatt.

Readings in Medieval English Romance Carol M. Meale, 1994. Wide-ranging essays engaging with all aspects of medieval romance, from textual studies to historical sources.

Manuscript Sources of Medieval Medicine Margaret R. Schleissner, 2014-05-01. In these new essays, leading European and North American scholars of medieval medicine focus on manuscripts and their transmission and demonstrate how medievalists in all disciplines can profit by studying the primary medical sources rather than relying on the secondary literature. It is only through the study of actual medical manuscripts that context and audience can be discussed adequately. The lead essay by Bernard Schnell, Prolegomena to a History of Medieval German Medical Literature, The Twelfth Century, clarifies methodological principles for this literary sociology and examines the current state of research in the study of manuscript transmission. The remaining essays discuss either manuscripts by a single author or paradigmatic manuscripts within a single national tradition. Until all the basic sources in medieval texts are uncovered and a survey is made, this volume will stand as an overview of the field.

Makers and Users of Medieval Books Carol M. Meale, Derek Pearsall, 2014. Essays exploring different aspects of late medieval and early modern manuscript and book culture. Late medieval manuscripts and early modern print history form the focus of this volume. It includes new work on the compilation of some important medieval manuscript miscellanies and major studies of merchant patronage and of a newly revealed woman patron, alongside explorations of medieval texts and the post-medieval reception history of Langland, Chaucer and Nicholas Love. It thus pays a fitting tribute to the career of Professor A. S. G. Edwards, highlighting his scholarly interests and demonstrating the influence of his achievements. Carol M. Meale is Senior Research Fellow at the University of Bristol; the late Derek Pearsall was Professor Emeritus at Harvard University and Honorary Research Professor at the University of York.
