Citizenship Education in a Divided Society Elizabeth Anderson Worden,2022-12-30 This book examines the possibilities and realities of promoting citizenship peace and reconciliation through schooling in divided and post conflict societies With specific attention to the case of Northern Ireland and the Local and Global Citizenship LGC initiative the book investigates the faltering progress to develop and teach school curricula aimed at promoting citizenship as well as peace tolerance and mutual understanding Following an overview of the scholarship on citizenship education the author provides a broad social and political historical context within which to understand the educational reforms and changes that have taken place in Northern Ireland highlighting various education initiatives of the 1970s 1980s and 1990s that sought to foster understanding of the other and promote reconciliation The book s focus then shifts to the implementation of LGC which began in 2007 Despite initially strong political support and a considerable investment in terms of financial and human resources LGC has had limited impact The book analyzes the obstacles impeding its success which include marginalization within the curriculum and competing conceptions of the purpose of education A concluding chapter reflects upon what we can learn from LGC s implementation and highlights innovative recent initiatives to bring the young people of Northern Ireland together This book will appeal to scholars and students of education studies with interests in citizenship education peace studies educational policy and curricula and practice

Educational Inequalities Kalwant Bhopal,Uvanney Maylor,2013-11-07 While there is considerable literature on social inequality and education there is little recent work which explores notions of difference and diversity in relation to race class and gender This edited text aims to bring together researchers in the field of education located across many international contexts such as the UK Australia USA New Zealand and Europe Contributors investigate the ways in which dominant perspectives on difference intersectionality and institutional structures underpin and reinforce educational inequality in schools and higher education They emphasize the importance of international perspectives and innovative methodological approaches to examining these areas and seek to locate the dimensions of difference within recent theoretical discourses with an emphasis on race class and gender as key categories of analysis Education and Society in Hong Kong: Toward One Country and Two Systems Gerard A. Postiglione, Julian Leung Yat Ming, 2017-09-29 This title was first published in 1992 Explores the implications of the transfer of sovereignty over Hong Kong in 1997 to the People's Republic of China and the political economic and cultural impact of the social transition on education Envisioning a Sustainable Society Lester W. Milbrath, 1989-01-01 The evidence is increasingly persuasive We are changing the way our planet's physical systems work irrevocably These changes are global and interconnected and unavoidable They are upon us already making it virtually impossible for any modern society to continue its present trajectory of growth This book provides a penetrating analysis of how we have come to this point of why science and technology will fail to solve these problems and of how we as a society must change in order to avoid ecological catastrophe The scope is broad the urgency of the message is impossible to ignore Technological Development, Society And State: Western And Chinese Civilizations In Comparison - Proceedings Of The Joint Conference Welf Heinrich Schnell, Wolfgang Radtke, Hans Poser, W König, 1991-10-16 This is a collection of essays focused on problems concerning the philosophy of technology the concept of nature the relationships between policy and economic development on the one hand and technological development on the other hand with respect to philosophical principles historical and cultural background both in Western and Chinese Civilization The Emergent Knowledge Society and the Future of Higher Education Deane E. Neubauer, 2011-12-13 The nature of higher education is by no means fixed it has evolved over time different models of higher education co exist alongside each other at present and worldwide there are demands for higher education to change to better help support economic growth and to better fit changing social and economic circumstances This book examines from an Asian perspective the debates about how higher education should change It considers questions of funding and of who will attend universities and the fundamental question of what universities are for especially as the three key functions of universities knowledge creation through research knowledge dissemination through teaching and service and knowledge conservation through libraries the disciplinary structuring of knowledge and in other ways are increasingly being carried out much more widely outside universities in the new knowledge society Throughout the book discusses the extent to which the countries of East Asia are developing new models of higher education thereby better preparing themselves for the new knowledge society rather than simply following old Western models Transforming Curriculum for A Culturally Diverse Society Etta R. Hollins, 2013-10-18 The intention of this book is to engage educators in transforming the public school curriculum for a culturally diverse society This means more than including knowledge about diverse populations It means reconceptualizing school practices through debate deliberation and collaboration involving the diverse voices that comprise the nation Certain key questions must be addressed in this process What should be the purpose of schooling in a culturally diverse society Who should be involved in curriculum planning and what process should be employed How is the actualized curriculum differentiated What is the relationship between school practices and the structure of the larger society How should the curriculum be evaluated The authors of the essays in this book address critical perspectives from which a framework is constructed for a discourse on planning curriculum for a culturally diverse society In a substantive introduction Hollins presents the major themes and overall goals of the book and describes how the readings in each of the four parts are linked to each other and to these themes and goals Each part begins with critical questions and an overview to provide a framework and a focus for the readings that follow and concludes with suggested learning experiences

Education and Society in Hong Kong and Macao M. Bray, Ramsey Koo, 2006-06-28 Hong Kong and Macao have much in common The dominant populations in both territories are Cantonese speaking Chinese both are small in area both are urban societies both have been colonies of European powers and both have undergone political transition to reunification with China Yet in education for reasons that are analysed in this book they are very different The patterns of similarities and differences in the two territories make a fascinating basis for comparative study The overarching theme of the book on continuity and change is particularly pertinent following the transition of the two societies of the postcolonial era This thoroughly revised and expanded second edition builds on the widely acclaimed first edition The work has been recognised as a significant contribution to the broad field of comparative education as well as to study of the specific societies which are its main focus
