Encyclopedia of Production and Manufacturing Management Paul M. Swamidass,2006-09-21 The Encyclopedia of Production and Manufacturing Management is an encyclopedia that has been developed to serve this field as the fundamental reference work Over the past twenty years the field of production and operations management has grown more rapidly than ever and consequently its boundaries have been stretched in all directions For example in the last two decades production and manufacturing management absorbed in rapid succession several new production management concepts manufacturing strategy focused factory just in time manufacturing concurrent engineering total quality management supply chain management flexible manufacturing systems lean production and mass customization to name a few This explosive growth makes the need for this volume abundantly clear The manufacturing industry thinks and acts more broadly than it did several decades ago The most notable change has been the need for manufacturing managers to think in technological strategic and competitive terms This is a very favorable development and it leads to manufacturing success The entries in this encyclopedia include the most recent technical and strategic innovations in production and manufacturing management The encyclopedia consists of articles of varying lengths The longer articles on important concepts and practices range from five to fifteen pages There are about 100 such articles written by nearly 100 authors from around the world In addition there are over 1000 shorter entries on concepts practices and principles The range of topics and depth of coverage is intended to suit both student and professional audiences The shorter entries provide digests of unfamiliar and complicated subjects Difficult subjects are made intelligible to the reader without oversimplification The strategic and technological perspectives on various topics give this Encyclopedia its distinctiveness and uniqueness The world of manufacturing today is increasingly competitive It is apparent that manufacturers must respond to these competitive pressures with technical and strategic innovation This encyclopedia has been developed to help researchers students and those in the manufacturing industry to understand and implement these ongoing changes in the field

Motivation, Beliefs, and Organizational Transformation Raymond T. Butkus, Thad B. Green, 1999-06-30 Why does management encounter people problems whenever organizations attempt to change Green and Butkus say this occurs because organizations overlook one of the most critical problems of change how employees react it emotionally Change is not about work processes or information systems alone It is also about what people believe and feel emotions such as anger anxiety confusion and fear Yet managers are usually unaware of these things and those who are aware usually lack skills to manage these emotions effectively They tend to rely on traditional incentive systems which usually do not work What does work The one approach that has been applied consistently with positive results is Green's belief system of motivation and performance Green and Butkus show how the belief system helps to bring negative feelings and convictions to the surface They provide ways to identify the underlying emotional problems and find effective solutions The belief system works say the authors because it goes directly to the source of the problem employees themselves to discover why motivation and performance problems occur and what can be done to solve them This book describes applications of the belief system in a variety of work situations including a recent effort at organizational transformation with AT T's Business Communications Services BCS Division It outlines in detail the process that BCS used to implement the belief system starting at the highest management levels and cascading down to the organization's front lines With a clear exposition of the belief system's theoretical underpinnings and nuts and bolts methods Green and Butkus provide executive decision makers and planners throughout the organization with critical insights into the pitfalls in the implementation process and workable guidance on how to avoid them Cooperative Strategies for Forest Science Management and Leadership in an Increasingly Complex and Globalized World, 1999 Keeping the Team Going Deborah Mackin, 1996 When the initial excitement of getting a team up and running has subsided this book shows team members team leaders and management how to regain the momentum Following the success of The Team Building Tool Kit the author's newest book looks at the stages that follow start up and offers ways to recapture the energy that is so often sapped from middle aged teams Cooperative Strategies for Forest Science Management and Leadership in an Increasingly Complex and Globalized World Denver P.
