Psychiatry and Psychology in the USSR Samuel Corson, 2012-12-06 This book is aimed at a professional audience of psychiatrists psychologists and educators as well as Slavic studies scholars and teachers and intelligent lay readers It would be presumptuous to attempt to cover the entire field of Soviet psychiatry and psychology in one modest volume During the past several decades there has been a remarkable flourishing and diversification of research in psychology and psychiatry in the USSR What we have attempted to do in this symposium is to present a constructive critical overview of certain limited areas by arranging an interchange of observations and ideas between several American scientists knowledgeable in these fields and a psychologist and psychiatrist who obtained their education and working experience in the USSR We hope to be able to expand such symposia in the future so as to cover other important areas of these disciplines This monograph presents an eyewitness account of Pavlov by W Horsley Gantt one of three surviving students of Pavlov and to the best of my knowledge the only American who actually studied and worked with Pavlov It is a measure of Dr Gantt s devotion to the development of scientific psychiatry that he went to the USSR to spend six years in Pavlov s laboratory at a time of extreme economic hardship and political turmoil in that country and in the face of having to master a difficult language In his presentation Dr

Edelstein, Eugene T. Couture, 2013-11-22 This book developed out of the editors longstanding interest in the retraining of traumatically brain damaged adults and the management of their behavior by family members A search for relevant experimental evidence to support the clinical use of behavioral principles for retrain ing which began in 1977 turned up little empirical support Moreover the literature on retraining was dispersed among a variety of journals published in various countries Nowhere was there a compendium of literature that addressed issues of assessment and retraining There was no place to turn if one wanted to move from a standard neuropsychological evaluation to the retraining of skill deficits revealed in the evaluation We have attempted to edit a book that represents what we had hoped to find in the literature and could be used by professionals in clinical psychology clinical neuropsychology rehabilitation medicine physical therapy speech therapy and other disciplines that address rehabilitation of brain damaged adults a book that addresses assessment and rehabilitation issues and is sufficiently detailed to offer the reader a starting point in developing behavioral assessment and rehabilitation programs The book contains conceptual foundations reviews of research descriptions of successful rehabilitation programs and relatively detailed approaches to the retraining of specific skills A shift from an assessment based practice to one encompassing both prescriptive assessment and treatment has become a recognized transition in the neuropsychological literature and was best articulated in an article by Gerald Goldstein in March of 1979
