Inspiring the Secondary Curriculum with Technology James Shea,Antony Stockford,2014-10-24 Are other teachers using technology in their lessons Are you letting your own students down by not harnessing the power of your students technology knowledge in your lessons Is your school asking you to show where you are developing ICT in your subject teaching Technology in your subject does not mean teaching databases spreadsheets or word processing Having technical knowledge is no longer sufficient or indeed necessary in today s world more important is the knowledge of how to advise and teach students to use technology efficiently and responsibly through their subject Students faced with a problem will need to hunt the internet for open source software download apps and respond to the problem using technology as a problem solving tool The scenarios are endless but can be generated by the teacher this could mean students publishing work through Amazon s Kindle or keeping a blog within a class wiki Teachers do not need to have technical knowledge rather they need knowledge of trends and opportunities They then need to blend their basic subject pedagogy within these new trends to contextualise ICT skills This book looks at pedagogical approaches to using technology in the classroom that will help you to harness future trends technology and software and embed them into your subject teaching Full of practical advice it illustrates how secondary teachers of any discipline can accelerate their students learning progress and ability within their subject whilst developing the ICT skills needed in the workplace and society Including case studies and examples throughout chapters cover Blended Learning mixing traditional teaching methods with e learning Developing interactive students Mobile technologies Student safety online E Portfolios and Virtual Learning Environments This timely new book will help you structure your teaching to harness the latest developments in technology in tandem with the students you teach

Educational Research and Innovation The Nature of Learning Using Research to Inspire Practice OECD,2010-08-09 This book brings together the lessons of research on both the nature of learning and different educational applications and it summarises these as seven key concluding principles Youth Activism in Environmental Politics, 2nd Edition Matt Henn,Sarah Pickard,2023-02-02 Recently important new research has emerged to explain the large intergenerational cleavages in values and political preferences in many contemporary societies In most established democracies and many newer democracies young people are more likely to possess progressive values and are much more cosmopolitan in their outlook socially liberal accepting of cultural diversity and outward looking than older generations They tend to reject mainstream electoral politics and authoritarian nationalist forms of populism in favour of alternative progressive political parties and movements Indeed there is burgeoning evidence of a global tendency towards young people s support for and participation in new styles of non institutionalised political action that seem to better fit their life styles and to permit the actualisation of their political aspirations Although there is a considerable body of existing literature that examines the rise of such values and political participation preferences there is little work that focuses on the relationship with the prioritisation of environmental issues and environmental activism as evidenced in the September 2019 global climate strikes The goal of the current Research Topic is to explore the contemporary realities and patterns of youth participation in environmental politics in different societies As such we welcome manuscripts of original research and conceptualization that address the different practices of youth as they seek to effect environmental change and also their motivations for doing so Contributions are welcome from scholars youth practitioners and activists operating in a range of different settings and using diverse disciplinary and multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives
