

Utilizing the assessment of the state of the knowledge of the Social Science Panel, the Advisory Committee to HUD, under the chairmanship of George C. McGhee, developed a set of policy and research recommendations, which form Part II of the report.

The Social Science Panel began its deliberations in October 1970. In connection with its assignment, the Panel felt the need for full information regarding HUD's existing policies. At the first meeting of the Panel, it heard from Floyd H. Hyde, Assistant Secretary for Model Cities; Samuel Jackson, Assistant Secretary for Metropolitan Planning and Development; Laurence D. Pearl, Special Assistant to the Assistant Secretary for Equal Opportunity; and Alfred A. Perry, Director of Operation Breakthrough under the Assistant Secretary for Research and Technology. Subsequently, Harold B. Finger, Assistant Secretary for Research and Technology, met with Panel members on a number of occasions. Several other members of the HUD staff, including William Brill, Roland A. Brown, Sandra Sue Brown, Howard Cayton, Robert Colwell, Jean Giuliani, Sybil Phillips, Robert E. Philpott, and Douglas Stenhouse, also made contributions to the Panel's understanding of the Department's operations. The Panel expresses its appreciation for the cooperation of the HUD staff and acknowledges its valuable contribution to the Panel's understanding of the policy context of its work.

The Social Science Panel recognized at the outset of its work the need for a systematic survey of existing knowledge. Housing has not been a major preoccupation of the social sciences; thus the identification and assessment of the relevant knowledge were acknowledged to be difficult and demanding. To accomplish this task, the Panel commissioned five "state of the knowledge" papers, which serve as documentation for the report. Full citations in support of the Panel's findings are to be found in these papers.

The Panel believes that the commissioned papers are a significant contribution in their own right. In the near future they will be published by the National Academy of Sciences under the title Segregation in Residential Areas. The papers include "Attitudes on Race and Housing: A Social Psychological View," by Thomas F. Pettigrew, Harvard University; "Institutional and Contextual Factors Affecting the Housing Choices of Minority Residents: The State of Our Knowledge," by Donald L. Foley, University of California at Berkeley; "Social Classes in Cities and Suburbs," by Leo F. Schnore, University of Wisconsin; and "Factors Affecting Racial Mixing in Residential Areas," by James S. Millen, University of North Carolina, prepared under the

Public Affairs Counseling, 1975 This document has evolved over three years to meet the need for a more comprehensive understanding of how neighborhoods change The Office of Policy Development and Research at HUD formulated policy alternatives to stem the rising tide of abandoned residential buildings It showed abandonment as the last stage of a process not a random or isolated phenomenon The failure of programs to counteract and halt the decline of neighborhoods has stemmed mainly from an imperfect understanding of this process There have also been political problems with acting in neighborhoods before the symptoms were painfully evident and from the tendency of program developers to deal with the house rather than the people who own it rent it loan on it or insure it Few programs have recognized that those people were part of a total neighborhood rather than occupants of individual buildings The process of neighborhood change is triggered and fueled by individual collective and institutional decisions These are made by a myriad of people households bankers real estate brokers investors speculators public service providers police fire schools sanitation etc and others It is a reasonable conclusion that if a concentrated effort is made to affect these decisions then neighborhood decline can be slowed halted or in some circumstances reversed

Back to the City Shirley Bradway Laska, Daphne Spain, 2016-06-23 Back to the City Issues in Neighborhood Renovation focuses on the policies social issues and approaches involved in the residential revitalization of inner cities The book first offers information on an urban land institute survey of private market housing renovation in central cities and reinvestment by long time residents and newcomers Considerations include character of neighborhood renewal reasons for reinvestment timing and an overview of the experience on private renewal The selection also takes a look at the racial and socioeconomic changes in central city housing as well as changes in racial successions limited support for urban revitalization and characteristics of transition households The publication reviews the case studies done at neighborhood resettlements in Washington D C New Orleans Columbus Seattle Charleston and Philadelphia Topics include residential mobility of new homeowners neighborhoods in transitions displacement satisfaction with the neighborhood contrasting conceptions of the neighborhood and historic preservation and neighborhood The selection is a dependable reference for geographers urban planners and sociologists

Detroit Divided Reynolds Farley, Sheldon Danziger, Harry J. Holzer, 2000-05-25 Unskilled workers once flocked to Detroit attracted by manufacturing jobs paying union wages but the passing of Detroit s manufacturing heyday has left many of those workers stranded Manufacturing continues to employ high skilled workers and new work can be found in suburban service jobs but the urban plants that used to employ legions of unskilled men are a thing of the past The authors explain why white auto workers adjusted to these new conditions more easily than blacks Taking advantage of better access to education and suburban home loans white men migrated into skilled jobs on the city s outskirts while blacks faced the twin barriers of higher skill demands and hostile suburban neighborhoods Some blacks have prospered despite this racial divide a black elite has emerged and the shift in the city toward municipal and service jobs has allowed black women to approach parity of earnings with white women But Detroit remains polarized racially economically and geographically to a degree seen in few other American cities A Volume in the Multi City Study of Urban Inequality
