Bradford Burns,Thomas E. Skidmore,2014-12-15 The interactions between the elites and the lower classes of Latin America are explored from the divergent perspectives of three eminent historians in this volume The result is a counterbalance of viewpoints on the urban and the rural the rich and the poor and the Europeanized and the traditional of Latin America during the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries E Bradford Burns advances the view that two cultures were in conflict in nineteenth century Latin America that of the modernizing European oriented elite and that of the common folk of mixed racial background who lived close to the earth Thomas E Skidmore discusses the emerging field of labor history in twentieth century Latin America suggesting that the historical roots of today s exacerbated tensions lie in the secular struggle of army against workers that he describes In the introduction Richard Graham takes issue with both authors on certain basic premises and points out implications of their essays for the understanding of North American as well as Latin American history

Both developing and developed countries face an increasing mismatch between what patients expect to receive from healthcare and what the public healthcare systems can afford to provide Where there has been a growing recognition of the entitlement to receive healthcare the frustrated expectations with regards to the level of provision has led to lawsuits challenging the denial of funding for health treatments by public health systems This book analyses the impact of courts and litigation on the way health systems set priorities and make rationing decisions In particular it focuses on how the judicial protection of the right to healthcare can impact the institutionalization functioning and centrality of Health Technology Assessment HTA for decisions about the funding of treatment Based on the case study of three jurisdictions Brazil Colombia and England it shows that courts can be a key driver for the institutionalization of HTA These case studies show the paradoxes of judicial control which can promote accountability and impair it demand administrative competence and undermine bureaucratic capacities The case studies offer a nuanced and evidence informed understanding of these paradoxes in the context of health care by showing how the judicial control of priority setting decisions in health care can be used to require and control an explicit scheme for health technology assessment but can also limit and circumvent it It will be essential for those researching Medical Law and Healthcare Policy Human Rights Law and Social Rights      The Rise of the
