walks the world in armour of proof those contrary accidents and mortifications which are a source of spiritual profit to the saint are a source of material advantage to him No east wind but flatters him with the prospect of a lucrative cold no dropped banana skin but may suddenly hurl him into affluence The chicken farmer whose hen houses are fitted with the company's patent automatic egg register can never make a failure of his business The egg is no sooner laid than it falls gently through a slot which marks its passage on a kind of taximeter and if the total of eggs at the end of the month is below the average the company pays I had almost said the company lays an exact monetary equivalent for the shortage The company which thus takes upon itself the office of a hen is equally ready when occasion arises to masquerade as a bee if your hives are opened in the presence of its representative you can distend every empty cell with sweet nectar at the company's expense Doctors can guarantee themselves against an excess of panel patients barristers against an absence of briefs You can insure every step you take on this side of the grave but no one of them on such handsome terms as the step which takes you into the grave and it is confidently believed that if certain practical difficulties could be got over the Indescribable would somehow contrive to frank your passage into the world beyond Wags have made merry at the company's expense alleging that a burglar can insure himself against a haul of sham jewels and a clergyman against insufficient attendance at even song They tell stories of a client who murmured Thank God as he fell down a lift shaft and a shipwrecked passenger who manifested the liveliest annoyance at the promptness of his rescuers when he was being paid for floating on a life belt at the rate of ten pounds a minute So thoroughly has the Indescribable reversed our scale of values here below Graven Images Paul

Fleischman,1989 On Stories Richard Kearney,2002 Stories offer us some of the richest and most enduring insights into the human condition and have preoccupied philosophy since Aristotle On Stories presents in clear and compelling style just why narrative has this power over us and argues that the unnarrated life is not worth living Drawing on the work of James Joyce Sigmund Freud's patient Dora and the case of Oscar Schindler Richard Kearney skilfully illuminates how stories not only entertain us but can determine our lives and personal identities He also considers nations as stories including the story of Romulus and Remus in the founding of Rome Throughout On Stories stresses that far from heralding the demise of narrative the digital era merely opens up new stories Britannia Romana; or, the Roman antiquities of Britain: in
