Franz Boas The Early Years 1858 1906:

Franz Boas Douglas Cole, 1999 Franz Boas The Early Years 1858 1906 is a personal and intellectual biography of one of the most influential anthropologists of the twentieth century from his childhood in Germany to his resignation from the American Museum of Natural History in New York Douglas Cole's thorough and deeply engaging account of Boas's early life and career is unprecedented in drawing extensively from the vast collection of Boas's personal and professional papers at the American Philosophical Society in Philadelphia The Boas family's lifelong habit of writing frequent frank and informative letters allows a rich and intimate look at Boas's childhood family schooling and marriage as well as his early expeditions among the Central Eskimo and Northwest Coast Indians and his struggle to establish a position for himself in American anthropology Douglas Cole is the first to place Boas's scholarly work in the context of his life influences and motivations and to reveal the man behind the anthropologist Cole helps us appreciate the preparation and experience that Boas brought to the discipline from his first fieldwork on Baffin Island and explores the intellectual passions that drove Boas into a maze of professional opportunities and false starts Combining German and American intellectual history with Boas's first person accounts this important book relates Boas to his times establishes his predispositions and influences traces the course of his developing ideas and clarifies the issues that brought him both loyal allies and bitter detractors Franz Boas Douglas Cole, 1999 The Boas family's lifelong habit of writing frequent frank and informative letters allows a rich and intimate look at Boas's childhood family schooling and marriage as well as his early expeditions among the Central Eskimo and Northwest Coast Indians and his struggle to establish a position for himself in American anthropology Jacket The Franz Boas Papers, Volume 1 Franz Boas, 2015-08-01 The introductory volume to the Franz Boas Papers Documentary Edition which examines Boas's stature as public intellectual in three crucial dimensions theory ethnography and activism A History of Anthropological Theory, Fifth Edition Paul A. Lewis, 2017-09-08 This book argues that the history and character of modern anthropology has been egregiously distorted to the detriment of this intellectual pursuit and academic discipline The critique of anthropology is a product of the momentous and tormented events of the 1960s when students and some of their elders cried Trust no one over thirty The Marxist postmodern and postcolonial waves that followed took aim at anthropology and the result has been a serious loss of confidence both the reputation and the practice of anthropology has suffered greatly The time has come to move past this damaging discourse Herbert S Lewis chronicles these developments and subjects the critique to a long overdue interrogation based on wide ranging knowledge of the field and its history as well as the application of common sense The book questions discourses about anthropology and colonialism anthropologists and history the problem of exoticizing the Other anthropologists and the Cold War and more Written by a master of the profession In Defense of Anthropology will require consideration by all anthropologists historians sociologists of science and cultural theorists

The Life Cycle of Russian Things Matthew P. Romaniello, Alison K. Smith, Tricia Starks, 2021-09-09 The Life Cycle of Russian Things re orients commodity studies using interdisciplinary and comparative methods to foreground unique Russian and Soviet materials as varied as apothecary wares isinglass limestone and tanks It also transforms modernist and Western interpretations of the material by emphasizing the commonalities of the Russian experience Expert contributors from across the United States Canada Britain and Germany come together to situate Russian material culture studies at an interdisciplinary crossroads Drawing upon theory from anthropology history and literary and museum studies the volume presents a complex narrative not only in terms of material consumption but also in terms of production and the secondary life of inheritance preservation or even destruction In doing so the book reconceptualises material culture as a lived experience of sensory interaction The Life Cycle of Russian Things sheds new light on economic history and consumption studies by reflecting the diversity of Russia s experiences over the last 400 years Worldly Provincialism H. Glenn Penny, Matti Bunzl, 2010-03-10 Worldly Provincialism introduces readers to the intellectual history that drove the emergence of German anthropology Drawing on the most recent work on the history of the discipline the contributors rethink the historical and cultural connections between German anthropology colonialism and race By showing that German intellectual traditions differed markedly from those of Western Europe they challenge the prevalent assumption that Europeans abroad shared a common cultural code and behaved similarly toward non Europeans The eloquent and well informed essays in this volume demonstrate that early German anthropology was fueled by more than a simple colonialist drive Rather a wide range of intellectual history shaped the Germans rich and multifarious interest in the cultures religions physiognomy physiology and history of non Europeans and gave rise to their desire to connect with the wider world Furthermore this volume calls for a more nuanced understanding of Germany s standing in postcolonial studies In contrast to the prevailing view of German imperialism as a direct precursor to Nazi atrocities this volume proposes a key insight that goes to the heart of German historiography There is no clear trajectory to be drawn from the complex ideologies of imperial anthropology to the race science embraced by the Nazis Instead of relying on a nineteenth century explanation for twentieth century crimes this volume ultimately illuminates German ethnology and anthropology as local phenomena best approached in terms of their own worldly provincialism H Glenn Penny is Assistant Professor of History at the University of Missouri Kansas City Matti Bunzl Assistant Professor of Anthropology and History at the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign
