God And The Nature Of Time:

God and the Nature of Time Garrett J. DeWeese, 2017-03-02 Is God temporal in time or atemporal outside of time
Garrett DeWeese begins with contemporary metaphysics and physics developing a causal account of dynamic time Drawing on biblical material as well as discussions of divine temporality in medieval and contemporary philosophical theology DeWeese concludes that God is temporal but not in physical time as we measure it Interacting with issues in the history of philosophy contemporary philosophy of science and philosophy of religion this book offers students a thorough introduction to the key issues and key figures in historical and contemporary work on the philosophy of time and time in theology

God, Eternity and the Nature of Time Alan Padgett, 2000-06-16 This book focuses on the timelessness of God providing a detailed analysis of the nature of time and eternity Padgett offers a biblical and historical survey of the doctrine of eternity rejecting both theories of eternity being both timeless and everlasting Padgett argues that traditionally the doctrine of absolute divine timelessness is not compatible with God's actions in the world God is in some sense temporal yet He is the ground of time the Lord of time and is relatively timeless God and the Nature of Time Garrett J. Nature's God and the Nature of Man Joel R. Baseley, 2024-12-26 Nature's God and the Nature of Man presents nature and the nature of man as God's Word the Holy Bible reveals it in Genesis 1-3 The author's recent translating project in Johann Arndt's True Christianity especially his Book 4 treating God's revelation in nature provided him a helpful pre-enlightenment world view of God's revealing Himself in nature in stark contrast and opposition to the bold modern assertion by many that science has proven there is no God The children of this divorce of Science from God leaves children confused for whom this book might be a mediation and some comfort 445 pages soft cover Nature's Teleological Order and God's Providence Paul Weingartner, 2014-12-11 The book defends that there is both teleological order design and chance in non living and in living systems of nature including man This is done by giving exact definitions of different types of order and teleological order on the one hand and of different types of chance on the other For their compatibility it is important to notice that any definition of chance presupposes some kind of order relative to that we can speak of chance Thus also in evolution which is some growth of some order and for which a detailed definition is given in chpt 13 chance and degrees of freedom play an essential role A further purpose of the book is to show that both the existing order and the existing chance in nature are compatible with a global teleological plan which is God's providence However concerning the execution of God's plan not everything is done or caused by himself but God created things in such a way that they themselves can create something G del MAX PHIL A reason for that is that God is neither all causing nor all willing although he is almighty This is connected with the result of chpts 15 and 16 that also human freedom and evil are compatible with God's providence Logic and the Nature of God Stephen T. Davis, 1983-06-30 The book should be assured of the attention of the many on both sides of the Atlantic who are fascinated by this subject John Hick God Nature & Science Jonathan Sumber,2023-08-08 Questions concerning the existence of God and the nature of the relationship between God Nature and science have been topics that philosophers have been pondering over since the days of Plato and Socrates In more recent years an interest in these topics have been rekindled as the nature of reality itself is being questioned by many quantum physicists and philosophers as a result of what is being revealed in quantum research While we are still a long way from being able to answer these questions through scientific methodology alone quantum research continues to create information that has resulted in many researchers questioning if the universe within our perspective is the same as how the universe exists in the absence of it For example the worldview shared by most people is that our realities are created within a corporeal universe and through the gathering of information by our five senses our minds process the information into a conscious perspective which allows us to have an awareness of ourselves and of the universe that is truly out there just as we perceive it to be But if the universe within our perspective is a function of our conscious awareness consciousness may be creating what we perceive rather than being passive by simply allowing us to perceive a corporeal universe that is truly out there If so it creates the likelihood that we will not be able to answer questions concerning the relationship between God nature and science until we have a much better understanding of the true nature of consciousness and from where all that we perceive within it originates This work explores how the fundamental character and qualities of God nature and science as we presently conceptualize each to be along with how their relationship with one another would be altered if consciousness was not passive in the creation of our reality while proposing a philosophical system of physics that defines how this could occur Crossing the Great Divide: Walking with God Through Nature Dr. Charles R.

the traditionalist theological and jurisprudential thought of Ibn Taymiyyah d 728 1328 and Ibn al Qayyim d 751 1350 this study traces the way in which these towering scholars critiqued the dominant theological jurisprudential tradition of their day which was influenced by dialectical theology Against the dialectical theologians Ibn Taymiyyah and Ibn al Qayyim argued that an authentically fideist consistent and rational theory of Islamic law could only emerge from an acceptance of the reality of God's voluntary attributes

Laws of Nature, Laws of God? Louise Hickman, Neil Spurway, 2015-09-18 Up until the time of Newton scientists regarded the understandings of the physical world at which they were arriving as glimpses of the working of the Creator's mind Thus the generalisations being formulated about the behaviour of matter the Laws of Nature were seen as the Creator's injunctions to created matter as to how it was to act They were laws in the same sense as laws Divine or human about how people should behave that is why the same word was used for both And even now scientific laws are occasionally spoken of as being obeyed However it is doubtful whether any practising scientist religious believer or not now thinks of laws in the way that the word literally implies How instead scientists do or should view scientific laws has been debated since the time of Hume and Kant and it is a vigorous field of investigation among current philosophers of science In this book scientists physical and biological historians and students of ideas all of them theologically informed tackle this topic from many angles They do so in relation to the lead public lecture at the conference from which the book stems given by the eminent and iconoclastic philosopher of science Professor Nancy Cartwright She asked the question How could laws make things happen and her answer was They couldn't
