Authorship in Film Adaptation Jack Boozer, 2009-06-03

Authoring a film adaptation of a literary source not only requires a media conversion but also a transformation as a result of the differing dramatic demands of cinema The most critical central step in this transformation of a literary source to the screen is the writing of the screenplay The screenplay usually serves to recruit producers director and actors to attract capital investment and to give focus to the conception and production of the film project Often undergoing multiple revisions prior to production the screenplay represents the crucial decisions of writer and director that will determine how and to what end the film will imitate or depart from its original source Authorship in Film Adaptation is an accessible provocative text that opens up new areas of discussion on the central process of adaptation surrounding the screenplay and screenwriter director collaboration In contrast to narrow binary comparisons of literary source text and film the twelve essays in this collection also give attention to the underappreciated role of the screenplay and film pre production that can signal the primary intention for a film Divided into four parts this collection looks first at the role of Hollywood's activist producers and major auteurs such as Hitchcock and Kubrick as they worked with screenwriters to formulate their audio visual goals The second part offers case studies of Devil in a Blue Dress and The Sweet Hereafter for which the directors wrote their own adapted screenplays Considering the variety of writer director working relationships that are possible Part III focuses on adaptations that alter genre time and place and Part IV investigates adaptations that alter stories of romance sexuality and ethnicity

At the Interface

, 2004-01-01 In a world increasingly characterised by perpetual re invention through the dynamic flows of capital persons and ideas understanding change and transformation is an imperative The purpose of this book is a first step in a project to engage the dynamics of transformation at the interface of culture and politics through contextualisation reflection and a sharing of intellectual resources Bringing together the work of academics from a range of disciplines who share an overarching aim to map such transformations the volume covers themes ranging from popular culture the Internet to film and cinema Casting a contemporary gaze on cultural phenomena the contributors all seek to trace trajectories of change and continuity from within their own specific field using a range of approaches from theoretical reflection to empirical case studies Of general interest to students of the humanities and social sciences and of particular interest for students of cultural studies and communication at all levels this volume constitutes a unique opportunity to reflect on recent transformations but also on the persistence of certain cultural and political practices The History of British Women's Writing, 1970-Present Mary Eagleton, Emma Parker, 2016-04-29 This book maps the most active and vibrant period in the history of British women's writing Examining changes and continuities in fiction poetry drama and journalism as well as women's engagement with a range of literary and popular genres the essays in this volume highlight the range and diversity of women's writing since 1970 Cosmopolitan Culture and Consumerism in Chick Lit Caroline J. Smith, 2007-12-12 Cosmopolitan Culture and Consumerism in Chick Lit examines the way in which the popular women's fiction genre of the late 1990s known as chick lit responds to women's advice manuals such as women's magazines self help books romantic comedies and domestic advice manuals Literary Intermediality Maddalena Pennacchia Punzi, 2007 The increasing transfer of literary texts and of related writing reading processes from the printed page to analog and digital media and vice versa is the phenomenon under investigation in this book for which the term literary intermediality has been coined Literature is in transit i e travelling incessantly through mass media personal media and the internet with crucial effects both on the ways it is perceived by younger generations of users and on the ways it is devised by contemporary authors The literary text far from being restricted to printed media keeps moving across the whole media circuit thus acquiring at any stage a new temporary identity Based on the seminar Intermediality and Literary Practices at the 7th ESSE Conference in 2004 the essays of this collection by scholars from both sides of the Atlantic focus on the seminar's common topics cinema theatre postmodernism and new critical issues Narratives of Community Roxanne Harde, 2009-03-26 Narratives of Community draws together essays that examine short story sequences by women through the lenses of Sandra Zagarell's theoretical essay Narrative of Community Reading texts from countries around the world the collection's twenty two contributors expand scholarship on the genre as they employ diverse theoretical models to consider how female identity is negotiated in community or the roles of women in domestic social and literary community Grouped into four sections based on these examinations the essays demonstrate how Zagarell's theory can provide a point of reference for multiple approaches to women's writing as they read the semiotic systems of community While narrative of community provides an organizing principle behind this collection these essays offer critical approaches grounded in a wide variety of disciplines Zagarell contributes the collection's concluding essay in which she provides a series of reflections on literary and cultural representations of community on generic categorizations of community and on regionalism and narrative of community as she returns to theoretical ground she first broke almost twenty years ago Overall these essays bring their contributors and readers into a community engaged with a narrative genre that inspires and affords a rich and growing tradition of scholarship With Narratives of Community editor Roxanne Harde offers a wealth of critical essays on a wide variety of women's linked series of short stories essays that can be seen overall to explore the genre as a kind of meeting house of fictional form and meaning for an inclusive sororal community. The book itself joins a growing critical community of monographs and essay collections that have been critically documenting the rise of the modern genre of the story cycle to a place second only to the novel. But more than simply joining this critical venture, Narratives of Community makes a major contribution to studies in the short story, feminist theory, women's studies, and genre theory. Its introduction and essays should prove of enduring interest to scholars and critics in these fields as well as continue highly useful in the undergraduate and graduate classrooms.

Gerald Lynch, Professor of English, University of Ottawa. The introduction by Prof. Harde and the 20 essays in the book dialogue with Sandra Zagarell's proposed paradigm narratives of community, which other scholars have called short story cycles or story sequences. Zagarell's proposal organically blends a generic model with a thematic concern to explain how women writing community often turn to a particular narrative style that itself supports the literary creation of that community. Harde and the volume contributors appropriate this brilliant and engaging proposal in the context of other crucial discussions of the genre, notably Forest Ingram's germinal study, J. Gerald Kennedy's work, and those by Robert Luscher, Maggie Dunn, and Anne Morris. James Nagel, Gerald Lynch, and I am honored to note my own study on Asian American short story cycles to expand the range of the critical discussion on the form.

The quality and diversity of the essays remind us that there is still much work that can be done in the area of genre studies. The volume emphasizes an important caveat to one vital misconception: that although writers like James Joyce or Sherwood Anderson are thought to be the precursors or even inventors of the form, women's sequences by Sara Orne Jewett and Elizabeth Gaskell, among others, actually predate the work of the male writers. This fact suggests that the development of the form as a genre that attends to specific perspectives or creative formulations of and by women needs to be considered in depth.

The temporal scope of the volume is therefore a vital contribution to scholarship on the form, as is the diversity of the writers analyzed. Indeed, the examination of narratives by writers from different countries and that focus on characters from different time periods, racial, religious, or ethnic communities, and social class, impels a multilayered reading of the texts that inevitably promotes a nuanced understanding of the project of each of the writers, a project that connects issues of individuality and community in varied and often surprising ways. The essays thus critically explore the notion of community in its myriad associations with the individual and as a crucial site not only for women's action upon the world but also for her creative endeavors.

The essays in the volume revisit familiar texts: Naylor's The Women of Brewster Place, Cisneros's The House on Mango Street, Kingston's The Woman Warrior, Welty's The Golden Apples, Munro's The Lives of Girls and Women, among others, but offer new perspectives on the way form interacts with issues of women's communities and women creating community in these works. Significantly, it also offers readings on texts that have not been analyzed in detail from this perspective: Gaskell's Cranford or Woolf's A Haunted House, for example, thus contributing to a continuing conversation about the ways women write. The juxtaposition of the familiar and the new expand the paradigms of current criticism not only on the story cycle but also on women's writing in general Rocio Davis Professor of Literature University of Navarre Roxanne Harde's forthcoming volume Narratives of Community Women's Short Story Sequences provides an abundant collection of varied responses to Sandra Zagarell's longstanding call for further in depth exploration of the genre that Zagarell christened the narrative of community in her 1988 essay linking non novelistic narrative form with representations of female experience As Harde observes such narratives of community overlap significantly with the growing canon of unified but discontinuous collections of autonomous stories that critics have variously labeled as the short story cycle sequence composite The essays in her collection examine a rich variety of such works by women extending the scholarship in this area Harde's ample collection of essays presents a concerted and diverse exploration of the implications of the short story sequence form as a representation of women's lives as part of and in conflict with membership in a community Overall Harde's volume is a welcome addition to current scholarship on the short story sequence bringing in a variety of new voices and perspectives to the community of scholars who have engaged in the exploration of this paradoxical evolving and increasingly popular genre Dr Luscher The Cambridge Companion to Literature on Screen Deborah Cartmell, Imelda Whelehan, 2007-05-10 This Companion offers a multi disciplinary approach to literature on film and television Writers are drawn from different backgrounds to consider broad topics such as the issue of adaptation from novels and plays to the screen canonical and popular literature fantasy genre and adaptations for children There are also case studies such as Shakespeare Jane Austen the nineteenth century novel and modernism which allow the reader to place adaptations of the work of writers within a wider context An interview with Andrew Davies whose work includes Pride and Prejudice 1995 and Bleak House 2005 reveals the practical choices and challenges that face the professional writer and adaptor The Companion as a whole provides an extensive survey of an increasingly popular field of study Contemporary British Women Writers Emma Parker, 2004 Essays illustrating the range and diversity of post 1970 British women writers Despite the enduring popularity of contemporary women's writing British women writers have received scant critical attention They tend to be overshadowed by their American counterparts in the media and have come to be represented within the academy almost exclusively by Angela Carter and Jeanette Winterson This collection celebrates the range and diversity of contemporary post 1970 British women writers It challenges misconceptions about the nature and scope of fiction by women writers working in Britain commonly dismissed as parochial insular dreary and domestic and seeks to expand conventional definitions of British by exploring how issues of nationality intersect with gender class race and sexuality Writers covered include Pat Barker A L Kennedy Maggie Gee Rukhsana Ahmad Joan Riley Jennifer Johnston Ellen Galford Susan Hill Fay Weldon Emma Tennant and Helen Fielding Contributors DAVID ELLIS CLARE HANSON MAROULA JOANNOU PAULINA PALMER EMMA PARKER FELICITY ROSSLYN CHRISTIANE SCHLOTE JOHN SEARS ELUNED SUMMERS BREMNER IMELDA WHELEHAN GINA WISKER The World According to Bridget Jones Katarzyna

Smyczyńska, 2007 The World According to Bridget Jones Discourses of Identity in Chicklit Fictions examines the cultural functioning of a popular contemporary strand in mainstream Anglo American literature known as chicklit. Assuming that the interpretive potential of chicklit novels is connected with the process of identity formation, the book points out the possibility of the reader's identification with certain fictional discourses permeating the convention. The study focuses on complex links between Anglo American cultural discourses and narrative constructions of identity and explores narrative representations of contemporary family love and sexuality. It also tackles the relation between chicklit and consumerism, reconstructing salient characteristics of contemporary consumer culture and the position of the fictional female consumer within discourses of body beauty and shopping.

Chick Lit Rocío Montoro, 2012-04-26 In recent times Chick Lit has risen to a certain level of prominence. This is the first book-length study that looks into the distinctive features of this much-discussed genre. Chick Lit is examined in relation to its linguistic peculiarities and their role as far as narrative, sociological and feminist issues are concerned, amongst others. Montoro's stylistics includes a cognitive slant that highlights further readerly aspects of the texts. The approach illuminates how the genre works and how it is set apart from others. In this respect, the stylistics of chick lit is understood in its context of production and reception. Montoro evaluates reading processes and investigates readers' responsive attitude to the genre. This interdisciplinary work explores the boundaries of the stylistics of chick lit and works reflectively looking at how exploring this genre can help the twofold aim of testing existing models of linguistic and cognitive analysis. It will be essential reading for those interested in cutting-edge stylistics.

Postfeminism and Contemporary Hollywood Cinema J. Gwynne, N. Muller, 2013-06-28 By analyzing the negotiation of femininities and masculinities within contemporary Hollywood cinema, Postfeminism and Contemporary Hollywood Cinema presents diverse interrogations of popular cinema and illustrates the need for a renewed scholarly focus on contemporary film production.
