Phillips, Maria Morris Hambourg, Helen Levitt, 1991      I Speak of the City Mauricio Tenorio-Trillo, 2015-02-24 In this dazzling multidisciplinary tour of Mexico City Mauricio Tenorio Trillo focuses on the period 1880 to 1940 the decisive decades that shaped the city into what it is today Through a kaleidoscope of expository forms I Speak of the City connects the realms of literature architecture music popular language art and public health to investigate the city in a variety of contexts as a living history textbook as an expression of the state as a modernist capital as a laboratory and as language Tenorio's formal imagination allows the reader to revel in the free flowing richness of his narratives opening startling new vistas onto the urban experience From art to city planning from epidemiology to poetry this book challenges the conventional wisdom about both Mexico City and the turn of the century world to which it belonged And by engaging directly with the rise of modernism and the cultural experiences of such personalities as Hart Crane Mina Loy and Diego Rivera I Speak of the City will find an enthusiastic audience across the disciplines      Helen Levitt, 1980      American Women Photographers Martha Kreisel, 1999-02-28 American women have made significant contributions to the field of photography for well over a century This bibliography compiles more than 1 070 sources for over 600 photographers from the 1880s to the present As women's role in society changed so did their role as photographers In the early years women often served as photographic assistants in their husbands studios The photography equipment initially heavy and difficult to transport was improved in the 1880s by George Eastman's innovations With the lighter camera equipment photography became accessible to everyone Women photographers became journalists and portraitists who documented vanishing cultures and ways of life Many of these important female photographers recorded life in the growing Northwest and the streets of New York City became pioneers of historic photography as they captured the plight of Americans fleeing the Dust Bowl and the horrors of the concentration camps and were members of the Photo Secessionist Movement to promote photography as a true art form This source serves as a checklist for not only the famous but also the less familiar women photographers who deserve attention      Greater American Camera Monica Bravo, 2021-01-01 An engaging investigation of how the relationships between four U S photographers and Mexican artists forged new developments in modernism Photographers Edward Weston Tina Modotti Paul Strand and Helen Levitt were among the U S artists who traveled to Mexico during the interwar period seeking a community more receptive to the radical premises of modern art Looking closely at the work produced by these four artists in Mexico this book examines the vital role of exchanges between the expatriates and their Mexican contemporaries in forging a new photographic style Monica Bravo offers fresh insights concerning Weston's friendship with Diego Rivera Modotti's images of labor which she published alongside the writings of the Stridentists Strand's engagement with folk themes and the work of composer Carlos Chvez and the influence of Manuel lvarez Bravo on Levitt's contributions to a New World surrealism Exploring how these dialogues resulted in a distinct kind of modernism characterized by inter American interests the book reveals the ways in which cross border collaboration shaped a new greater American aesthetic through the New Jersey night a visit with two goats to the apartment of the fastidious Walker Evans For a while the two enjoy an idyll enlivened by visits from such talents as the novelist Thornton Wilder the photographer Helen Levitt and the poets Muriel Rukeyser and Delmore Schwartz But the magic does not last After Agee falls in love with another woman during Neuman's first pregnancy the couple separate In 1941 Neuman and her son Joel move to Mexico there she meets a German exile the Communist writer Bodo Uhse who is to become her second husband and the father of another son Neuman recounts in sharp detail these exciting years at the heart of the artistic and expatriate community the encounters with the muralist Diego Rivera and the Chilean poet Pablo Neruda the lavish parties the revolutionary politics and the first stirrings of the Cold War With the fall of the Nazis Neuman Uhse and the two children can move to East Germany They find a bleak war ravaged land there are shortages and censorship but for a state approved writer and his family also the comparative privilege that allows Neuman to become a shrewd observer of her surroundings Ultimately disillusioned with life in the East she returns to the United States where she discovers a society very different from the one she had known in the thirties Neuman learns to make a living and she enters into her third and last marriage She struggles to make the life of her schizophrenic younger son Stefan Uhse bearable to him but in the end she must come to terms with his death at the age of twenty seven Neuman's book and the intimate glimpse it provides into the personality and imagination of James Agee will of course be a treasure for literary scholars more than that though Always Straight Ahead is a memoir that recounts with eloquence and breathtaking candor the life of a remarkable woman of rare and adventuresome spirit
