followed their dream and boldly took that plunge buying a charming old house in a tranquil south Goa village where they hoped to find a whole new way of living and working Ten years later they are still there living the idyll and the reality of life in Goa So which is the real Goa Is it all about sun and sand beaches and bikinis feni and vindaloo This book captures the allure of all these as well as the festivals and rituals that punctuate the rhythm of village life It portrays fascinating local characters ranging from ageing hippies beach boys and elusive workmen to the aristocratic residents of Goa s grand old mansions But it also reveals lesser known aspects of Goa the hidden often shocking histories of its colonial past and the debates and fissures that engage and divide Goan society today In part personal memoir and travelogue in part an insightful look at Goan history and society this book portrays Goa with all its paradoxes and problems its seductive pleasures and above all its unique and enduring charm

Wild Tales from the Wild Saad Bin Jung,2011-04-06 For the weary urban dweller the verdant

Mangala valley near the Bandipur National Park in Karnataka would seem like a haven of peace and tranquility. Appearances could not be more deceptive as Saad Bin Jung discovered after forsaking his life in the city for a stone cottage in the valley. If the surrounding jungles were teeming with wildlife of every variety, the life that the human of the area led was no less wild. Here he recounts the adventures that he had with some of them: the leopard who moved into his bison cottage, the dining hall cobra, the magnificent Mangala tiger, Torn Ears, the most photographed gaur of his time, and the elephants whom he loved with a passion. Colonel Hathi Jayaprakash and even the Rightchipped Tusker with his bullying ways amongst them. Not to be outdone were the members of the Kuruba tribe and other humans. Mr B, the family expert, the elderly manager with a raging libido, the gorgeous foreign girls who almost saw him booted out of the family who came to share his life at Bush Betta, the wildlife resort that he set up in 1991. Hair-raising and hilarious, these are stories that anyone who has had a taste of the wild or wished that they could will enjoy as much for their drama and comedy as for the many fascinating insights into animal behaviour that they provide. No less compelling is the message between the lines: the grandeur and beauty of India's forests and the need to preserve them at all costs. Reflected in Water Jerry Pinto, 2006. This is a collection of essays, poems, stories and extracts from works that bring to life both the natural beauty and the changing social and political ethos of India's smallest state, Goa.
