The Living City David Cadman, Geoffrey Payne, 2019-06-21 First published in 1990 The options and probabilities for the future of cities are issues of outstanding contemporary importance both in the developed and developing worlds The Living City draws together both current mainstream ideas on their futures and various alternative views to enliven the debate and put forward an agenda for sustainable urban development emphasizing ideas that question the economic imperatives of that development Certain aspects of city life the economy of the city city countryside relationships the city as a cultural centre are selected for study as the book looks at the historical past and current experiences to speculate on the likely condition of cities in the future In addition the book investigates whether the Third World experience of city life is a separate experience or whether there are lessons to be learnt relating to all cities The book will appeal to professionals in the surveying planning and architectural fields as well as students and academics in Planning Geography Economics Architecture Development Studies and Sociology and anyone interested in issues concerning the city and the environment

The World Environment 1972-1992 O. El-Kholy, 2012-12-06 Our planet is under siege Assaults on the atmosphere the greenhouse effect the depletion of the ozone layer and increasing air pollution pose a still unquantified threat to human life The dumping of hazardous wastes and land based sources of pollution present a similar threat to the oceans On land we are destroying a tropical forest the size of Austria every year and more than a hundred species of wild plants and animals are lost forever each day When the General Assembly of the United Nations established UNEP it charged us with reporting on the changing state of the world's environment tracking the underlying causes of change and working with governments to develop responses to those changes Every year since 1974 UNEP has produced a State of the Environment report focusing on one or more emerging environmental issues and always stressing the human factor the impact of environmental quality on people and society Three times since its inception 1982 1987 and 1992 UNEP has undertaken a more wide ranging study The results of the present study are the most disturbing of the three However not all the signs are negative Throughout the 1970s and into the 1980s UNEP was able to report progress in some important areas Environmental monitoring capacity was being rapidly improved in many parts of the world and Ministries of the Environment were being set up in an attempt to deal with environmental threats in a more coherent way

Urban Development and Civil Society Michael Carley, Harry Smith, 2013-11-05 The world's population is rapidly urbanizing but the affluence and development often associated with cities are far from equitably or sustainably distributed Where it was once taken for granted that responsibility for urban development lay with the state increasingly the emphasis has shifted to market driven and public private sector initiatives which can marginalize the intended beneficiaries the urban poor from decision making and implementation This text outlines the essential conditions for effective urban planning and management by placing bottom up community initiatives at the heart of the push for equitable and sustainable development in cities Crucially the state must engage with both the market and civil society in pursuit of sustainable cities Presenting a wide ranging selection of case studies in rapidly urbanizing and transitional countries from the poorest parts of Africa and Asia to the relatively developed United Kingdom the authors describe and analyze innovations in how globally disadvantaged urban communities can be engaged in improving their living environments

A Geography of the Third World C.G Clarke,Dr J P

Dickenson,J.P Dickenson,W.T.S Gould,S Mather,Sandra Mather,Prof R Mansell Prothero,R.M Prothero,D.J Siddle,C.T Smith,Mr C T Smith,E. Thomas-Hope,2013-04-15 The label of Third World covers half the land surface and three quarters of the population of the planet The problems and potential of this region and its peoples are attracting increasing concern and interest Fully revised and updated this edition includes a wealth of photographic and line illustrations boxed case studies chapter summaries guides to further reading Issues of increasing concern at the end of the twentieth century are fully addressed for example the widening gap in economic performance between countries in the Third world and the assertion of national cultures in the face of globalisation New material on gender issues and the environmental impact of development has been included

Contemporary British Identity Christina Julios,2017-11-30 Against the background of an increasingly diverse British society this book traces the evolution of British identity in the twentieth century Debates exploring the nature of Britishness and multiculturalism are here deconstructed through a linguistic lens which considers the role played by the English language in shaping Britain s national identity Within this context two significant historical events are considered the expansionism of nineteenth century British Empire and the subsequent rise of the United States to the position of world superpower In charting the development of British nationhood over time the book identifies three contrasting public narratives each reflecting society s perceptions of the identity question at particular points in time a discourse of laissez faire at the turn of the century a discourse of multiculturalism in the ensuing decades and a discourse of integration during the closing years The book raises fundamental questions about who we are as a nation and how we got here It also provides clues as to the direction the prevailing public discourse on British identity is likely to take in the twenty first century

Urban Development in China under the Institution of Land Rights Jieming Zhu,2019-09-17 How have the development and redevelopment of China s cities since the early 1950s transformed the settlements and fortunes of a fifth of the world s population Rapid urbanization since the 1980s has changed the nation from a rural society to an urban one marking it as one of the most significant transformations in history As a country with severe land scarcity land resources are intensively contested for during urbanization under the new regime of marketization This book focuses on the impact of the institution of land rights that have transitioned from private ownership to socialist state ownership and subsequently to public land leasing in the urban domain and to collective ownership in rural areas In the context of defining the relationship between the state and the market the gradualist transition of land rights gives rise to intriguing processes of place making The elaboration of these processes will engage several revealing conceptual notions land as a means of production land commodification ambiguous land rights incomplete land rights trading land use rights for land development rights institutional uncertainty land rent seeking and dissipating local developmental state danwei enterprises and more The newly created landed interests are embedded intricately within the urban spatial structure This book would especially be of interest to scholars interested in developmental economics urban planning geography public policies public management and sociology and also practitioners focusing on development and planning Urbanization in the Caribbean G. Thomas Kingsley,1990 The Extended Metropolis Norton Sydney Ginsburg,Bruce Koppel,T. G. McGee,1991-01-01 Asian urbanization is entering a new phase that differs significantly from the patterns of city growth experienced in other developing countries and in the developed world According to a recent hypothesis zones of intensive economic interaction between rural and urban activities are emerging The zones appear to be a new form of socioeconomic organization that is neither rural nor urban but preserves essential ingredients of each Funding Community Initiatives Silvina Arrossi,Felix Bombarolo,Jorge E Hardoy,Diana Mitlin,Luis Perez Coscio,David Satterthwaite,2014-07-16 Despite four decades of development planning at least one third of the urban population of Africa Asia and Latin America remains poor Over 600 million live in life and health threatening homes and neighbourhoods because of poor housing and inadequate or no piped water sanitation and health care But even as the shortcomings of government and development programmes become more apparent so do the untapped abilities of low income groups and their community organizations to develop their own solutions This book analyses the conditions necessary for successful community initiatives and includes case studies of 18 intermediary institutions most of them Third World NGOs who provide technical legal and financial services to low income households for constructing or improving housing Many also work with community organizations in improving water sanitation drainage health care and other community services Through the analysis of innovative financial systems for income generation house construction and service provision Funding Community Initiatives considers the feasibility of loans for addressing current urban housing problems It also considers how to increase greatly the scale and effectiveness of support going to low income households and community organizations This book will be of interest to students and professionals concerned with urban development in Africa Asia and Latin America especially those concerned with low income shelter and community finance The Construction Industry George Ofori,1990 This basic text offers a comprehensive and fundamental description of the construction industry and the construction process citing examples from several countries at various stages of development It considers the features of the industry describes factors influencing the demand for and supply of construction problems facing the industry and ways of planning for and managing its development The book should be a basic source of information on the construction industry for undergraduate and postgraduate courses in architecture construction management quantity surveying related engineering fields and estate management It should also be of relevance to administrators of the construction industry
