Global Imbalances And Us Policy Responses A Canadian Perspective:

Global Imbalances and U.S. Policy Responses Richard G. Lipsey, Murray Gordon Smith, Canadian-American Committee, 1987 Examines the implications of global imbalances for bilateral relations due to a perceived widespread belief that policy challenges arising from global trade and current account imbalances and the longer term consequences of the rising international liabilities of the US economy have important consequences for the interdependent economies The report focuses on attitudes towards US policy response to its own trade deficits and puts it in context of past world trade liberalization and then discusses diagnoses and prescriptions from mainstream economists supply side and industrial policy school views Solutions considered include depreciating the US dollar macroeconomic policy trade policy and industrial policy possibilities Canada Among Nations 1987 Brian Tomlin, Maureen Appel Molot, 1988-01-01 Canada Among Nations 1987 the fourth in a series of annual reviews of Canadian foreign policy focuses on the problem of international conflict Comprehensive and incisive the book ranges widely over that year's foreign policy developments covering such subjects as East West relations in the era of incipient glasnost the ongoing carnage of the Iran Iraq war the campaign against South African apartheid and the Contra Sandinista struggle in Nicaragua Canada Among Nations 1987 presents a thorough review of the Mulroney Conservative government's performance on the international stage at a time of quickening change The Canada-United States Free Trade Agreement Jeffrey J. Schott, Murray Gordon Smith, Institute for International Economics (U.S.), Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1988 A joint conference was held in Washington in January 1988 to assess the major features of the agreement This volume includes the papers prepared for that conference and the remarks of discussants on each paper Includes a US and Canadian perspective dispute resolution mechanisms the auto sector implications of the energy provisions services and investment implications for the Uruguay round and the political perspectives from a Canadian government minister and a US administration representative What is Next for the United States-Canada Free Trade Agreement? United States. Congress. House. Committee on Small Business, 1992 Canada, the Pacific and Global Trade Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1989 This volume reports the proceedings of the Institute conference which examines Canada's stake in expanding economic ties across the Pacific The main conclusion emerging from the conference is that recent proposals for Pacific economic cooperation are widely perceived as motivated by desires for a new trade bloc Instead however the current focus of Pacific economic cooperation is directed toward promoting progress in the Uruguay Round of GATT negotiations In light of common concerns about unilateral trade actions by the US and the European Community strengthening the multilateral trading system is a key priority shared by Canada and other Pacific economies National Trade Policies D. Salvatore, 2014-06-28 The aim of this volume is to examine and compare the trade policies followed by the most important trading nations of the world Today there are few if any large scale studies of comparative trade such as this one Moreover trade policies and controversies are expected to become even more important in the future The volume offers an easily accessible overview of trade policies in each of the world's major trading countries Thus this handbook can be of great use to students of comparative economic systems in general and to economists policymakers and the general informed public serving as a comprehensive source of reference and comparison The references at the end of each chapter and the selected bibliography at the end of the volume identify the most important sources of additional information on the trade policies of the world's most important trading countries Canadian Books in Print.
