out to be a lot more material that could be used for this theme than previously thought To gauge the temperature of the topic a panel was set up with the theme of businessmen or women and their changing image through literature At the 2009 NeMLA Northeast Modern Language Association conference in Boston the panel was held and many ideas such as some of the ones presented in this book were discussed A secondary theme evolved out of the construction of the first Participants discussed the environment as a catalyst in the change of what a person actually thinks a businessman or woman looks like Many of these images were formed based upon pop culture such as the traveling salesman in the Looney Tunes cartoons who sells brushes door to door and hails from Walla Walla Washington Others were based on the images read about in books such as Willy Loman from Death of a Salesman The essays included in this volume presented by doctoral candidates and scholars from across a range of geographical regions and disciplines result in a collection that investigates the idea of the changing image of the businessman throughout literature both in America and in Europe The arrangement of the collection is a comparative timeline allowing the changing images of business to evolve with each essay Like the Sea Carol

The Child That Haunts Us Susan Hancock, 2016-02-04

The Child That Haunts Us focuses on the symbolic use of the child archetype through the exploration of miniature characters from the realms of children's literature Jung argued that the child archetype should never be mistaken for the real child In this book Susan Hancock considers how the child is portrayed in literature and fairytale and explores the suggestion from Jung and Bachelard that the symbolic resonance of the miniature is inversely proportionate to its size We encounter many instances where the miniature characters are a visibly vulnerable other yet often these occur in association with images of the supernatural as the desired or feared object of adult imagination In The Child That Haunts Us it is emphasised that the treatment by any society past or present of its smallest and most vulnerable members is truly revealing of the values it really holds This original and sensitive exploration will be of particular interest to undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as academics engaged in Jungian studies children's literature childhood studies and those with an interest in socio cultural constructions of childhood

Same-Sex Desire in Victorian Religious Culture F. Roden, 2002-10-23 Same Sex Desire in Victorian Religious Culture examines the role of Christian history in nineteenth century definitions of homosexual identity Roden charts the emergence of the modern homosexual in relation to religious not exclusively sociological discourses. Positing Catholicism as complementary to classical Greece, he challenges the separatism of sexuality and religion in critical practice.
