Molinard,2024-11-07 A haunting bizarre short story collection about violence mental illness and the warped contradictions of the twentieth century female experience A close friend and protege of Marguerite Duras Barbara Molinard 1921 1986 wrote and wrote feverishly but only managed to publish one book in her lifetime the surreal nightmarish collection Panics These thirteen stories beat with a frantic off kilter rhythm as Molinard obsesses over sickness death and control A woman becomes transfixed by a boa constrictor at her local zoo mysterious surgeons dismember their patient and the author narrates to Duras how she was stopped from sleeping in a cemetery vault only to be haunted by the pain of sleeping on its stone floor In the unsettling tradition of Franz Kafka Djuna Barnes Leonora Carrington and more Panics recovers the work of a tormented writer who often destroyed her writing as soon as she produced it and whose insights into violence mental illness and bodily autonomy are simultaneously absurdist and razor sharp

OLD CAPE COD THE LAND THE MEN THE SEA MARY ROGERS BANGS, 2023-05-25 Cape Cod had its Age of Romance in a half century best placed perhaps in the years between 1790 and 1840 Then certainly the picture of it was charming a picture unblemished by the paper box architecture of a later period or the alien hotels the villas bungalows and portable houses of to day Then roads with no necessity laid upon them to be the servants of speed were honest native sand and gleaming like yellow ribbons across hills and meadows linked farm to farm and went trailing on to the next township where houses nestled behind their lilacs in a sheltered hollow or stood four square on the village street As if by instinct the early settlers from Saugus and Scituate and Plymouth accustomed as their youth had been to the harmonies of Old England hit upon a style of building best suited to the genius of the country And if consciously they only planned for comfort and used the materials at hand the result inevitably bears the test of fitness to environment Their low slant roof wooden houses were set with backs to the north wind and a singularly wide awake Pg 2 aspect to the south The watershed of the roof sometimes ran with an equal slope to the eaves of the ground floor but as frequently yielding barely room for pantry and storeroom at the north it lifted in front to a second story And in either case the upper chambers with irregular ceilings and windows looking to the sunrise and sunset were packed tautly into the apex of the roof Ornament centred in the front door a symbol one might think of the determination to preserve in the enforced privations of pioneer life the gentle ceremonials of their past and however small or remote there is not such a house to be recalled that does not thus offer its dignified best for the occasions of hospitality The doors are often beautiful in themselves their panels of true proportions framed in delicately moulded pilasters with a line of glazing to light the tiny hall frequently a pediment above protects the whole from the dripping of eaves And before paint was used to mask the wood the whole structure played upon by sun and storm wore to a tone of silver gray that made a house as familiar to the soil as a lichen covered rock The square Georgian mansions came later with the prosperity of reviving trade after the Revolution They were built to a smaller scale than those of Newburyport or Salem or Portsmouth and the Cape Cod aristocrat seems to have been content with two stories to live in and a vast garret above to store superfluous treasure There was not a jarring note in the scene and the old houses set in neighborly fashion on the village street or approached by a winding cart track across the fields Pg 3 with garden and orchard merging into pasture suit to perfection the gentle undulating configuration of the land which is never level but swells into uplands that recall the memory of Scotch moors or some denuded English Forest and sinks away into meadow or marsh or hollows overflowing with the warm perfumes of blossomy growth

Happy Ending Paco Ignacio Taibo,2003-07-23 The third English language case for Mexico City independent detective Hector Belascoaran Shayne No Happy Ending is Paco Ignacio Taibo II at his subversive darkly comic best First Hector discovers the body of a dead actor dressed like a Roman in full breastplate and regalia propped up on the toilet in his office Shortly thereafter he receives a threatening letter and a snapshot of another murdered corpse As Hector investigates the killings he discovers that both share a connection to a dead stuntman named Zorak who apparently perished while training a government backed paramilitary group Once again the one eyed anarchist detective finds himself up against the very institutions which persecute the downtrodden and oppress the masses In typical Taibo fashion Hector appears destined to lose the ending to this remarkable absurdist tale shows his bullet ridden body lying face down in the gutter during a rainstorm
