Trauma, Gender and Ethics in the Works of E.L. Doctorow María Ferrández San Miguel, 2020-01-24
 This project approaches four of E. L. Doctorow's novels: Welcome to Hard Times (1960), The Book of Daniel (1971), Ragtime (1975) and City of God (2000) from the perspectives of feminist criticism and trauma theory The study springs from the assumption that Doctorow s literary project is eminently ethical and has an underlying social and political scope This crops up through the novels overriding concern with injustice and their engagement with the representation of human suffering in a variety of forms The book puts forward the claim that E L Doctorow s literary project through its representation of psychological trauma and its attitude towards gender may be understood as a call to action against both each individual s indifference and the wider social and political structures and ideologies that justify and or facilitate the injustices and oppression to which those who are situated at the margins of contemporary US society are subjected

American Talmud Ezra Cappell,2012-02-16 In American Talmud Ezra Cappell redefines the genre of Jewish American fiction and places it squarely within the larger context of American literature Cappell departs from the conventional approach of defining Jewish American authors solely in terms of their ethnic origins and sociological constructs and instead contextualizes their fiction within the theological heritage of Jewish culture By deliberately emphasizing historical and ethnographic links to religions religious texts and traditions Cappell demonstrates that twentieth century and contemporary Jewish American fiction writers have been codifying a new Talmud an American Talmud and argues that the literary production of Jews in America might be seen as one more stage of rabbinic commentary on the scriptural inheritance of the Jewish people

New Directions in Jewish American and Holocaust Literatures Victoria Aarons, Holli Levitsky, 2019-02-28. What does it mean to read and to teach Jewish American and Holocaust literatures in the early decades of the twenty first century? New directions and new forms of expression have emerged both in the invention of narratives and in the methodologies and discursive approaches taken toward these texts. The premise of this book is that despite moving farther away in time, the Holocaust continues to shape and inform contemporary Jewish American writing. Divided into analytical and pedagogical sections, the chapters present a range of possibilities for thinking about these literatures. Contributors address such genres as biography, the graphic novel, alternate history, midrash, poetry and third generation and hidden child Holocaust narratives. Both canonical and contemporary authors are covered, including Michael Chabon, Nathan Englander, Anne Frank, Dara Horn, Joe Kupert, Philip Roth and William Styron.

Race, Rights, and Recognition Dean Franco, 2012-06-15. In Race, Rights, and Recognition, Dean J Franco explores the work of recent Jewish American writers, many of whom have taken unpopular stances on social issues, distancing themselves from the politics and public practice of multiculturalism. While these writers explore the same themes of group based rights and recognition that preoccupy Latino African American and Native American writers they are generally suspicious of group identities and are more likely to adopt postmodern distancing techniques than to presume to speak for their people Ranging from Philip Roth's scandalous 1969 novel Portnoy's Complaint to Gary Shteyngart's Absurdistan in 2006 the literature Franco examines in this book is at once critical of and deeply invested in the problems of race and the rise of multicultural philosophies and policies in America Franco argues that from the formative years of multiculturalism 1965-1975 Jewish writers probed the ethics and not just the politics of civil rights and cultural recognition this perspective arose from a stance of keen awareness of the limits and possibilities of consensus based civil and human rights Contemporary Jewish writers are now responding to global problems of cultural conflict and pluralism and thinking through the challenges and responsibilities of cosmopolitanism Indeed if the United States is now correctly if cautiously identifying itself as a post ethnic nation it may be said that Jewish writing has been well ahead of the curve in imagining what a post ethnic future might look like and in critiquing the social conventions of race and ethnicity

Belonging Too Well

Miriam Sivan, 2009-02-13 In Belonging Too Well Miriam Sivan draws on contemporary literary theory as well as traditional Jewish texts and culture to explore the question of identity in Cynthia Ozick's fiction Many critics have pointed to a split in Ozick's work between Judaic and secular culture and values Sivan suggests however that Ozick never settles for a simple either/or dichotomy between traditional Judaism and secular American culture but that her protagonists instead fashion new means of living genuinely Jewish lives within the American Diaspora Often they struggle not with not belonging to either the Old or the New Worlds but of belonging too well to both Part of a recent trend toward analyzing Jewish American literature in the context of a deep encounter with and understanding of Judaism and traditional Jewish texts Sivan's study enables readers of Ozick's fiction to penetrate the complex webs she creates among cultures time periods and characters some quite sober others fantastic all unusual
