Confronting Land and Property Problems for Peace

Shinichi Takeuchi,2014-06-05 This collection clarifies the background of land and property problems in conflict affected settings and explores appropriate policy measures for peace building While land and property problems exist in any society they can be particularly exacerbated in conflict affected settings characterized by unstable security weak governance loss of proper documentation as well as the return of refugees and Internally Displaced Persons Unless these problems are properly addressed they can destabilize fragile political order and hinder economic recovery Although tackling land and property problems is an important challenge for peace building it has been relatively neglected in recent debates about liberal peace building as a result of the strong focus on state level institution building such as security sector reforms and transitional justice Using rich original data from eight conflict affected countries this book examines the topic from the viewpoint of State society relationship In contrast to previous literature this volume analyses land and property problems in conflict afflicted areas from a long term perspective of state building and economic development rather than concentrating only on the immediate aftermath of the conflict The long term perspective enables not only an understanding of the root causes of the property problems in conflict affected countries but also elaboration of effective policy measures for peace Contributors are area specialists and the eight case study countries have been carefully selected for comparative study The collection applies a common framework to a diverse group of countries South Sudan Uganda Rwanda Burundi Cambodia Timor Leste Colombia and Bosnia Herzegovina

Southeast Asia and the Civil Society Gaze Gabi Waibel,Judith Ehlert,Hart N. Feuer,2013-11-20

As developing countries with recent histories of isolation and extreme poverty followed by restoration and reform both Cambodia and Vietnam have seen new opportunities and demands for non state actors to engage in and manage the effects of rapid socio economic transformation This book examines how in both countries civil society actors and the state manage their relationship to one another in an environment that is continuously shaped and re constructed by changing legislation collaboration and negotiation advocacy and protest and social control Further it explores the countries divergent experiences whilst also uncovering the underlying basis and drivers of civil society activity that are shared by Cambodia and Vietnam Crucially this book engages with the contested nature of civil society and how it is socially constructed through research and development activities by looking at contemporary discourses and manifestations of civil society in the two countries including national and community level organisations associations and networks that operate in a variety of sectors such as gender the environment and health Drawing on extensive fieldwork conducted in Cambodia and Vietnam this book will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Southeast Asian studies Southeast Asian politics development studies and civil society

The End of the Refugee Cycle? Richard Black, Khalid Koser, 1999-01-01 At the start of the 1990s there was great optimism that the end of the Cold War might also mean the end of the refugee cycle both a breaking of the cycle of violence persecution and flight and the completion of the cycle for those able to return to their homes The 1990s it was hoped would become the decade of repatriation However although over nine million refugees were repatriated worldwide between 1991 and 1995 there are reasons to believe that it will not necessarily be a durable solution for refugees It certainly has become clear that the end of the refugee cycle has been much more complex and ultimately more elusive than expected The changing constructions and realities of refugee repatriation provide the backdrop for this book which presents new empirical research on examples of refugee repatriation and reconstruction Apart from providing up to date material it also fills a more fundamental gap in the literature which has tended to be based on pedagogical reasoning rather than actual field research Adopting a global perspective this volume draws together conclusions from highly varied experiences of refugee repatriation and defines repatriation and reconstruction as part of a wider and interrelated refugee cycle of displacement exile and return The contributions come from authors with a wealth of relevant practical and academic experience spanning the continents of Africa Asia Central America and Europe

The Routledge Handbook of Property, Law and Society Nicole Graham, Margaret Davies, Lee Godden, 2022-11-14 This handbook brings together diverse perspectives major topics and multiple approaches to one of the biggest legal institutions in society property Property touches on many fundamental human questions It involves decisions about power economy morality work and ecology It also involves ideas about where humans fit in the world and how humans relate to more than human life This book will ask in myriad ways such questions as what property means what kinds of property there are what is and should be the relationship between owned and owner and what is the impact of different forms of property on life in this world Drawing on a range of socio legal and empirical methodologies renowned scholars and rising stars in property from around the world present current issues and map future directions in research Coming from the place of law but reaching out through cognate disciplines this handbook provides a comprehensive and accessible survey of current research at the interface of property society and the environment This handbook will appeal to students and researchers across a range of disciplines including law sociology geography history and economics

Language Choice in a Nation Under Transition Thomas Clayton, 2006-06-03 Language Choice in a Nation under Transition charts the spread of English into Cambodia and the French efforts to contest this spread in favor of their own language through an analysis of the country's recent history This book proposes a synthesis of the national functional and international critical perspectives This synthesis emerges from the Cambodian experience and thus adheres to Joshua

Fishman's admonition that theory reflect the sharp bite of local detail and unique historical experience

Making Development Work Robert Selman, 2018-01-16 Worldwide the number of poor people increased during the past decade despite technological improvements more open trade and improved policy frameworks in developing countries Regional conflicts adverse shifts in terms of trade and marginalization of poor countries in the new global economy explain this outcome This highlights the need to reform development assistance and improve its effectiveness Making Development Work examines the four key principles of the Comprehensive Development Framework a World Bank initiative currently being piloted in twelve developing countries The initiative promotes a holistic long term vision of development domestic ownership of development programs and focus on results and stronger partnership between government the private sector and the civil society The first section of the volume describes the evolution in development thinking that culminated in this new consensus The second focuses on country ownership of development policies and programs Based on empirical evidence it proposes a new view of the aid relationship as a mutual learning process The third section focuses on results and on the ways aid agencies might enhance development impact of their operations It concludes with a preliminary assessment of strategies for scaling up from specific projects to sector and programmatic approaches and suggests ways to adapt them to counter conditions The experience of a bilateral aid agency U S Agency for International Development USAID is examined in this context The fourth section focuses on partnership emphasizing that aid agencies must be explicit about the kinds of partnerships they seek with countries and the kinds of strategic selectivity they will exercise The final chapter pulls together the lessons of development experience at various levels of operation It outlines key tensions between comprehensiveness and selectivity ownership and conditionality speed and broad based ownership focus on results and poor local evaluation capacity and enhanced country focus and globalization Promising approaches to manage these tensions are put forward to replace one size fits all prescriptions with client empowerment and social learning Making Development Work offers rich lessons on improving the effectiveness of aid It will be of particular interest to development practitioners students and professors of development economics studies Nagy Hanna is a lead corporate strategist and evaluation officer at the World Bank He has published extensively on development management and knowledge Robert Picciotto is director general of Operations Evaluation at the World Bank

Land Grabs in Asia Connie Carter, Andrew Harding, 2015-05-01 Although there is no universally accepted definition of the term land grabbing ordinary people whose livelihoods are adversely affected by land grabbing know exactly what it is It involves the physical capture and control of land and homes including the usurpation of the power to decide how and when these will be used and for what purposes with little or no prior consultation or compensation to the displaced communities This thought provoking book defines land grabbing and examines aspects of the land grabs phenomenon in seven Asian countries researched and written by country specific legal scholars The book provides unique perspectives on how and why land grabbing is practised in China India Pakistan Cambodia Malaysia Myanmar and Indonesia and explores the surprising role that law plays in facilitating and legitimizing land grabs in each country In contrast to most of the literature which law focuses on foreign investors rights under international law here the focus is on domestic laws and legal infrastructures Finding that Asian States need to move beyond existing regimes that govern land to a regime that encourages more equitable land rights allocation and protection of stakeholders rights the book urges further research in the nexus between the use of law to facilitate development Land Grabs in Asia is the first book to explore land grabbing in multiple jurisdictions in Asia As such it will appeal to students and scholars of law and development law and society and international relations as well as being essential reading for development policy makers and government ministers Discussion Paper ,1987

Development Strategy and Management of the Market Economy Edmond Malinvaud,1997 These companion volumes examine the highly topical issue of the adequacy of markets as an instrument of economic and social development In this era of transition and experimentation in economic management by governments a group of prominent international economists was brought together to distill their thinking on the changing role of government in the development process The first volume discusses the broad questions the second volume breaks down the analysis into more detailed topics Rural

Development Abstracts ,1995 Aid Infusions, Aid Illusions John P. McAndrew,1996 Evaluating International Humanitarian Action Adrian Wood,Adrian P. Wood,Raymond Apthorpe,John Borton,2001-08-31 Humanitarian intervention has become a much more frequent form of development assistance and there has been a corresponding need to evaluate the effectiveness of such interventions This is the first compilation of the experiences of practitioners engaged in humanitarian programme evaluations and the lessons they have learned The case studies cover the different kinds of humanitarian emergency characteristic of the past decade The contributors address the context in which evaluations of humanitarian assistance take place the actual process of doing evaluations and the lessons for improving how such evaluations might be better undertaken in future This pioneering volume should be of practical value to agencies and individuals engaged in both the delivery of humanitarian assistance in complex emergencies and its evaluation Bougainville Reconstruction Aid
