Good Intentions Make Bad News Why Americans Hate Campaign Journalism:

Good Intentions Make Bad News S. Robert Lichter, Richard Noyes, 1996 Examines the media's mission to provide the truth about presidential campaigns Good Intentions Make Bad News Robert S. Lichter, Richard Noyes, 1995-09-06 This text outlines how campaign journalism has evolved since the 1970s concluding that media partisanship plays a disproportionate role in determining electoral outcomes Good Intentions Make Bad News S. Robert Lichter, Richard Noyes, 1996-08-30 Examines the media's mission to provide the truth about presidential campaigns Why Americans Hate the News Media and How It Matters Jonathan M. Ladd, 2012 As recently as the early 1970s the news media was one of the most respected institutions in the United States Yet by the 1990s this trust had all but evaporated Why has confidence in the press declined so dramatically over the past 40 years And has this change shaped the public's political behavior This book examines waning public trust in the institutional news media within the context of the American political system and looks at how this lack of confidence has altered the ways people acquire political information and form electoral preferences Jonathan Ladd argues that in the 1950s 60s and early 70s competition in American party politics and the media industry reached historic lows When competition later intensified in both of these realms the public's distrust of the institutional media grew leading the public to resist the mainstream press's information about policy outcomes and turn toward alternative partisan media outlets As a result public beliefs and voting behavior are now increasingly shaped by partisan predispositions Ladd contends that it is not realistic or desirable to suppress party and media competition to the levels of the mid twentieth century rather in the contemporary media environment new ways to augment the public's knowledgeability and responsiveness must be explored Drawing on historical evidence experiments and public opinion surveys this book shows that in a world of endless news sources citizens trust in institutional media is more important than ever before The Making of the Presidential Candidates 2008 William G. Mayer, 2008 Discusses the presidential election process with eight chapters that cover such topics as how television covers the nomination process the origins of the presidential selection process and nomination finance in the post Bipartisan Campaign Reform Act era Encyclopedia of American Political Parties and Elections Larry Sabato, Howard R. Ernst, 2014-05-14 Presents a complete reference guide to American political parties and elections including an A Z listing of presidential elections with terms people and events involved in the process Communicating Politics Mitchell S. McKinney, 2005 Half of our eligible citizens fail to cast a presidential ballot and many more than half routinely ignore state and local elections Does this phenomenon point to a crisis of democracy or does such behavior simply reflect indifference or even contentment among the public Should we be alarmed that so many of our citizens seem disinterested and unwilling to participate in the various activities and forms of association that constitute civic life If we are concerned by such matters what might be done to reengage those who are seemingly disengaged This book explores these questions and examines the well being of our civic condition at the beginning of the twenty first century

Grounded in a communication perspective we view the fundamental nature of a democracy as that of a civic dialogue an ongoing conversation between our elected leaders or political candidates and the citizens they lead or wish to lead Accordingly the studies presented in this volume examine our civic sphere and the electoral process as a communicative interaction between elected officials political candidates the media and citizens Gender and Candidate

Communication Dianne G. Bystrom, Terry Robertson, Mary Christine Banwart, Lynda Lee Kaid, 2005-01-01 A poll as recently as 2000 revealed that a third of the population thinks there are general characteristics about women that make them less qualified to serve as president As the public and the media rely on long held stereotypes female candidates must focus even harder on the way they want to define their own image through traditional mass media such as television and new forms such as the internet Gender and Candidate Communication digs deep into the campaigns of the last decade sifting through thousands of ads websites and newspaper articles to find out how successful candidates have been in breaking down these gender stereotypes Among their findings are that female candidates dress more formally smile more act tougher when they can and prefer scare tactics to aggressive attack ads Gender and Candidate Communication also presents the most comprehensive systematic method yet for identifying and understanding self presentation strategies on the web The internet may be the medium of the future but Bystrom has found that coverage on the web tends to draw even more heavily on old stereotypes No close observer of campaigns gender or the internet will be able to ignore their findings The People's News Joseph E. Uscinski, 2014-02-03 Required reading for anyone concerned about news media s role in American society Scott McClurg Professor of Political Science Souther Illinois University Makes a convincing case that the U S news media provides the public with what it wants rather than what it needs Michael Delli Carpini Dean Annenberg School for Communication University of Pennsylvania Referendum Democracy M. Mendelsohn, A. Parkin, 2001-09-25 As the referendum becomes a more regular component of decision making it leaves few if any institutions processes and values of democracy untouched Political actors of all kinds including political parties and interest groups seek to use the referendum device to further their own objectives The end result is a different kind of democracy than existed before This book lays out the comparative research agenda on the impact of referendums on the practice of liberal democracy Myth and Reality of the Legitimacy Crisis Carolien van Ham, Jacques Thomassen, Kees Aarts, Rudy Andeweg, 2017-07-21 Theories about the decline of legitimacy or a legitimacy crisis are as old as democracy itself Yet representative democracy still exists and the empirical evidence for a secular decline of political support in established democracies is limited questionable or absent This lack of conclusive evidence calls into question existing explanatory theories of legitimacy decline How valid are theories of modernization globalization media malaise social capital and party decline if the predicted outcome i e secular decline of political support does not occur And which new explanations can account for the empirical variation in political support in established democracies This book systematically evaluates the empirical evidence for legitimacy decline in established democracies the explanatory power of theories of legitimacy decline and promises new routes in investigating and assessing political legitimacy In doing so the book provides a broad and thorough reflection on the state of the art of legitimacy research and outlines a new research agenda on legitimacy

Campaign 2000 William L. Benoit, 2003 Campaign 2000 applies the functional theory of political campaign discourse analyzing how messages acclaim attack or defend to several different forms of campaign communication in the 2000 U S presidential primary and general election These forms include political advertisements on television and radio debates television talk show appearances campaign web pages and convention speeches by candidates and their spouses The authors also look at the election outcomes and explore lessons to apply to future campaign discourse

How Television Shapes Our Worldview Deborah A. Macey, Kathleen M. Ryan, Noah J. Springer, 2014-05-15 Over the last half of the twentieth century television has become the predominant medium through which the public accesses information about the world Through the news situation comedies police dramas and commercials we learn about the world around us and our role within it These genres narratives and cultural forms are not simply entertainment but powerful socializing agents that show the world as we might never see it in real life How Television Shapes Our Worldview brings together a diverse set of scholars methodologies and theoretical frameworks to interrogate the ways through which television molds our vision of the outside world The essays include advertising and public relations analyses audience interviews and case studies that touch on genres ranging from science fiction in the 1970s to current reality television Television truly provides a powerful influence over how we learn about the world around us and understand its social processes

Bush Versus Kerry William L. Benoit, 2007 Bush versus Kerry analyzes the 2004 presidential campaign using the functional theory of political campaign communication After an introduction and explication of political campaign communication theory chapters investigate the content of candidate messages for example television spots debates webpages and acceptance addresses and media coverage of the campaign

Campaign Reform Larry M. Bartels, Lynn Vavreck, 2000-08-24 DIV Offers a critical but surprisingly optimistic view of the current state of American electoral politics through a focus on political campaigning div

The Nightly News Nightmare Stephen J. Farnsworth, Robert S. Lichter, 2007 Beginning with the 1988 presidential election and now updated through 2004 The Nightly News Nightmare shows how network news coverage of what is arguably the nation's most important political event has declined Through extensive analysis of news content from the Big Three and Fox acclaimed media scholars Farnsworth and Lichter compare what the candidates said with what the networks say they said and judge the disparity a nightmare The authors go on to suggest that perhaps the candidates themselves do a better job of portraying the campaigns than those who used to be the trusted network guardians of the news While making clear that overall coverage of the Bush Kerry race marked an improvement compared to previous elections Farnsworth and Lichter also point out that in other ways things were worse

Campaigning for Hearts and Minds Ted Brader, 2020-07-08 It is common knowledge that televised political ads are meant to appeal to voters emotions yet little is known about how or if these tactics actually work Ted Brader s innovative book is the first scientific study to examine the effects that these emotional appeals in political advertising have on voter decision making At the heart of this book are ingenious experiments conducted by Brader during an election with truly eye opening results that upset conventional wisdom They show for example that simply changing the music or imagery of ads while retaining the same text provokes completely different responses He reveals that politically informed citizens are more easily manipulated by emotional appeals than less involved citizens and that positive enthusiasm ads are in fact more polarizing than negative fear ads Black and white video images are ten times more likely to signal an appeal to fear or anger than one of enthusiasm or pride and the emotional appeal triumphs over the logical appeal in nearly three quarters of all political ads Brader backs up these surprising findings with an unprecedented survey of emotional appeals in contemporary political campaigns Politicians do set out to campaign for the hearts and minds of voters and for better or for worse it is primarily through hearts that minds are won Campaigning for Hearts and Minds will be indispensable for anyone wishing to understand how American politics is influenced by advertising today Mediated Politics W. Lance Bennett,Robert M. Entman,2000-11-20 Mediated Politics explores the changing media environments in contemporary democracy the internet the decline of network news and the daily newspaper the growing tendency to treat election campaigns as competing product advertisements the blurring lines between news ads and entertainment By combining new developments in political communication with core questions about politics and policy a distinguished roster of international scholars offers new perspectives and directions for further study Several broad questions emerge from the book with ever increasing media outlets creating more specialized segments what happens to broader issues Are there implications for a sense of community Should media give people only what they want or also what they need to be good citizens These and other tensions created by the changing nature of political communication are covered in sections on the changing public sphere shifts in the nature of political communication the new shape of public opinion transformations of political campaigns and alterations in citizens needs and involvement The Handbook of Election News Coverage Around the World Jesper Strömbäck,Lynda Lee Kaid,2009-09-10 The Handbook of Election Coverage Around the World focuses on the news coverage of national elections in democracies around the globe It brings together and compares election news coverage within a single framework offering a systematic consideration of various factors Considering the prominence and power of the press in the election process this volume will offer unique breadth in its global consideration of the topic The volume will appeal to scholars in political communication political science mass media and society and others studying elections and media coverage around the world The Race to 270 Daron R. Shaw,2008-09-15 The Electoral College has played an important role in presidential politics since our nation s founding but surprisingly little information exists about precisely how it affects campaign strategy Daron R Shaw a scholar who also worked as a strategist in both Bush Cheney campaigns has written the first book to go inside the past two presidential elections and reveal how the race to 270 was won and lost Shaw's nonpartisan study lays out how both the Democrats and the Republicans developed strategies to win decisive electoral votes by targeting specific states and media markets Drawing on his own experience with Republican battle plans candidate schedules and advertising purchases plus key contacts in the Gore and Kerry camps Shaw goes on to show that both sides used information on weekly shifts in candidate support to reallocate media buys and schedule appearances Most importantly he uses strikingly original research to prove that these carefully constructed plans significantly affected voters preferences and opinions not in huge numbers but enough to shift critical votes in key battlegrounds Bridging the gap between those who study campaigns and those who conduct them The Race to 270 will provide political scientists and practitioners alike with fresh insights about the new strategies that stem from one of our oldest institutions
