Why Bad Policies Spread (and Good Ones Don't) Charles R. Shipan, Craig Volden, 2021-09-23 Building on a deep theoretical foundation and drawing on numerous examples we examine how policies spread across the American states We argue that for good policies to spread while bad policies are pushed aside states must learn from one another The three ingredients for this positive outcome are observable experiments time to learn and favorable incentives and expertise among policymakers Although these ingredients are sometimes plentiful we also note causes for concern such as when policies are complex or incompatible with current practices when policymakers give in to underlying political biases or when political institutions lack the capacity for cultivating expertise Under such conditions states may rely on competition imitation and coercion rather than learning which can allow bad policies rather than good ones to spread We conclude with lessons for reformers and policymakers and an assessment of our overall argument based on state responses to the COVID 19 pandemic
