Satyajit Ray : The Man Who Knew Too Much Barun Chanda, 2022-05-15 Satyajit Ray's

Seemabaddha 1971 a stinging indictment of the corporate rat race remains one of the iconic film maker's most feted works. It starred debutant Barun Chanda who won a special prize for his performance. Now fifty years later Barun Chanda documents his experience of working in the film and being directed by Satyajit Ray, someone he describes as the man who knew too much. But Satyajit Ray: The Man Who Knew Too Much is more than just an account of the making of a film. The author also presents a detailed and informative study of the various avatars of Ray as a film maker: his sense of script and ear for dialogue; his instinctive grasp of the nuances of music; his penchant for casting non actors; and ability to get the perfect face for a role; his genius in designing a film's title sequence. Insightful and informed by a rare understanding of the master's works, this is an invaluable addition to the corpus of work on Satyajit Ray.

Colonial India in Children's Literature Supriya Goswami, 2012. Colonial India in Children's Literature is the first book-length study to explore the intersections of children's literature and defining historical moments in colonial India. Engaging with important theoretical and critical literature that deals with colonialism, hegemony and marginalization in children's literature, Goswami proposes that British Anglo Indian and Bengali children's literature respond to five key historical events: the missionary debates preceding the Charter Act of 1813; the defeat of Tipu Sultan; the Mutiny of 1857; the birth of Indian nationalism; and the Swadeshi movement resulting from the Partition of Bengal in 1905. Through a study of works by Mary Sherwood (1775-1851), Barbara Hofland (1770-1844), Sara Jeanette Duncan (1861-1922), Rudyard Kipling (1865-1936), Upendrakishore Ray (1863-1915) and Sukumar Ray (1887-1923), Goswami examines how children's literature negotiates and represents these momentous historical forces that unsettled Britain's imperial ambitions in India. Goswami argues that nineteenth-century British and Anglo Indian children's texts reflect two distinct moods in Britain's colonial enterprise in India. Sherwood and Hofland, writing before 1857, use the tropes of conversion and captivity as a means of awakening children to the dangers of India, whereas Duncan and Kipling shift the emphasis to martial prowess, adaptability and empirical knowledge as defining qualities in British and Anglo Indian children. Furthermore, Goswami's analysis of early nineteenth-century children's texts written by women authors redresses the preoccupation with male authors and boys' adventure stories that have largely informed discussions of juvenility in the context of colonial India. This groundbreaking book also seeks to open up the canon by examining early twentieth-century Bengali children's texts that not only draw literary inspiration from nineteenth-century British children's literature but whose themes are equally shaped by empire.
