

Impact of the Internet

Growing

The internet is the decisive technology of the information age, and with the explosion of wireless communication in the early twenty-first century, we can say that humankind is now almost entirely connected, albeit with great levels of inequality in bandwidth, efficiency, and price.

People, companies, and institutions feel the impact of the technological change, but the speed and scope of the transformation has triggered all manner of utopian and dystopian perceptions that, when examined closely through methodologically rigorous empirical research, turn out not to be accurate.

Our current "network society" is a product of the digital revolution and some major institutional changes. One of these is the rise of the "Mc-organized society."

Youth relies on internet to gather information. Learning and sharing of knowledge has become so easy only because of internet.
