Philosophy and Educational Foundations Allen Brent, 2016-09-19 What models in the social sciences underlie existing or proposed patterns of educational practice What theories of knowledge inform such models and thus arguably sanction such practice In this book first published in 1983 the author seeks some tentative answers Wittgenstein's understanding of family resemblance and Chomsky's linguistic universals are interpreted contrary to Hamlyn as reconcilable notions that can both illuminate and refine Hirst's understanding of categorical concepts In the light of such a reformulated theory Brent suggests ways in which a unified model of the social sciences could yield a unified curriculum theory This title will be of interest to students of the philosophy of education and curriculum studies

The Oxford Handbook of Accurate Personality Judgment Tera D. Letzring, Jana S. Spain, 2021-02-02 Each day we make judgments about the personality characteristics of those around us and we routinely rely on them to guide our behavior in interpersonal interactions and relationships This handbook provides a review of theory and research on the accuracy of personality judgments After a historical review the first section presents the major theoretical models that guide research in this area and describes methodological approaches to evaluating accuracy The second section reviews the research findings relevant to four moderators of accuracy and the third section focuses on judgments people make of themselves The fourth section examines various types of information used in making personality judgments while the fifth section provides examples of some of the domains to which accuracy research can be applied including romantic relationships and clinical practice Learning about the process of accurate judgments can be used to help people understand when and how they are more likely to make accurate judgments and this handbook offers a thorough evidence based and up to date review of this research field

Educational Research and the Question(s) of Time David R. Cole, Mehri Mirzaei Rafe, Gui Ying Annie Yang-Heim, 2024-06-24 This book fully explores the question(s) of time in educational research and achieves the acceleration and merging of inquiry with action to understand change and implement these findings through practice It deals with the philosophy of education higher education schooling the curriculum time displacement technology the environment and policy This book focuses on time revolution(s) It explores new ways of thinking about time that question a linear arrow in time and sets into motion an educational research agenda to extract revolutions of time Furthermore this book figures the dimension of time in teaching and learning by extending and deepening the engagement with time in education For example it analyzes the climate crisis in terms of education and how the realization that the climate is changing sits parallel and adjacent to pedagogy The climate crisis and how to do anything about it through education is an example of how considering the dimension of time opens up education beyond quick or narrow fixes and introduces a profound synthesis for the future Educational Leadership

Steven Courtney, Ruth McGinity, Helen Gunter, 2017-08-10 Educational Leadership brings together innovative perspectives on the crucial role of theory and theorising in educational leadership at a time when the multiple pressures of marketisation competition and system fragmentation dominate the educational landscape This original and highly thought provoking edited collection is a much needed counterbalance to the anti theoretical trends that have underpinned recent education reforms Contributors employ a range of theories in original and innovative ways in order to reveal the lived experiences of what it means to be an educational leader at a time of rapid modernisation where the conceptual terrain of modern has been appropriated by corporate and private interests where notions of public are not only hidden but also derided and where school leaders must meet the conflicting demands of competing accountabilities Drawing on research projects conducted in the UK Educational Leadership presents convincing evidence that the need to consider theory crosses national borders and the authors discuss changes to professional identities and practices that researchers around the world will recognise This detailed and insightful work will appeal to academics researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of education and sociology as well as those with an interest in organisational and political theory The topical subject matter also makes the book of relevance to practitioners and policy makers in education and the public services more generally An
