Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston,2002-09-11 Most places in Britain have had a local history written about them Up until this century these histories have addressed more parochial issues such as the life of the manor rather than explaining the features and changes in the landscape in a factual manner Much of what is visible today in Britain s landscape is the result of a chain of social and natural processes and can be interpreted through fieldwork as well as from old maps and documents Michael Aston uses a wide range of source material to study the complex and dynamic history of the countryside illustrating his points with aerial photographs maps plans and charts He shows how to understand the surviving remains as well as offering his own explanations for how our landscape has evolved

Ceramics in the Victorian Era Rachel Gotlieb,2023-06-29 This book broadens the discussion of pottery and china in the Victorian era by situating them in the national imperial design reform and domestic debates between 1840 and 1890 Largely ignored in recent scholarship Ceramics in the Victorian Era Meanings and Metaphors in Painting and Literature argues that the signification of a pot a jug or a tableware pattern can be more fully discerned in written and painted representations Across five case studies the book explores a rhetoric and set of conventions that developed within the representation of ceramics emerging in the late 18th century and continuing in the Victorian period Each case study begins with a textual passage exemplifying the outlined theme and closes with an object analysis to demonstrate how the fusing of text image and object are critical to attaining the period eye in order to better understand the metaphorical meanings of ceramics Essential reading not only for ceramics scholars but also those of material culture the book mines the rich and diverse archive of Victorian painting and literature from the avant garde to the sentimental from the well known to the more obscure to shed light on the at once complex and simple implications of ceramics agencies at this time Regional

Something Out of the Ordinary? Interpreting Diversity in the Early Neolithic Linearbandkeramik and Beyond Luc Amkreutz, Fabian Haack, Daniela Hofmann, 2016-04-26 More than 7000 years ago groups of early farmers the Linearbandkeramik or LBK spread over vast areas of Europe Their cultural characteristics comprised common choices and styles of execution with a central meaning and functionality attached to doing things a certain way over an enormous geographical area However recent evidence suggests that the reality was much more varied and diverse The central question of this book is the extent to which notions of uniformity and diversity have caused a wider shift in archaeological perspective Using the LBK case study as a starting point the volume brings together contributions by international specialists tackling the notion of cultural diversity and its explanatory power in archaeological analysis more generally Through discussions of the domestic architecture stone tool inventory pottery traditions landscape use and burial traditions of the LBK this book provides a crucial reappraisal of the culture s potential for adaptability and change Papers in the second part of the volume are devoted to archaeological case studies from around the globe in which the tension between diversity and uniformity has also proved controversial including the Near Eastern Halaf culture the North American Mississippian the Pacific expansion of the Lapita culture and the European Bell Beaker phenomenon All provide exciting theoretical and methodological contributions on how the appreciation of cultural diversity as a whole can be moved forward These papers expose diversity and uniformity as cultural strategies and as such provide essential reading for scholars in archaeology and anthropology and for anyone interested in the interplay between material culture and human social change

Contemporary British Ceramics and the Influence of Sculpture Laura Gray,2018-01-02 This book investigates how British contemporary artists who work with clay have managed in the space of a single generation to take ceramics from niche interest craft to the pristine territories of the contemporary art gallery This development has been accompanied and perhaps propelled by the kind of critical discussion usually reserved for the higher discipline of sculpture Ceramics is now encountering and colliding with sculpture both formally and intellectually Laura Gray examines what this means for the old hierarchies between art and craft the identity of the potter and the character of a discipline tied to a specific material but wanting to participate in critical discussions that extend far beyond clay

Ceramics and the Museum Laura Breen,2019-08-22 Ceramics and the Museum interrogates the relationship between art oriented ceramic practice and museum practice in Britain since 1970 Laura Breen examines the identity of ceramics as an art form drawing on examples of work by artist makers such as Edmund de Waal and Grayson Perry addresses the impact of policy making on ceramic practice traces the shift from object to project in ceramic practice and in the evolution of ceramic sculpture explores how museums facilitated multisensory engagement with ceramic material and process and analyses the exhibition as a text in itself Proposing the notion that gestures of showing such as exhibitions and installation art can be read as statements she examines what they tell us about the identity of ceramics at particular moments in time Highlighting the ways in which these gestures have constructed ceramics as a category of artistic practice Breen argues that they reveal gaps between narrative and practice which in turn can be used to deconstruct the art
