Interpreting The Landscape From The Air:

Interpreting the Landscape from the Air Michael Aston, 2002 With the help of 200 colour photographs the chief archaeologist from Channel 4's Time Team shows how England's changing landscape from prehistoric times to the present day can be interpreted from the air Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston, 2002-09-11 Most places in Britain have had a local history written about them Up until this century these histories have addressed more parochial issues such as the life of the manor rather than explaining the features and changes in the landscape in a factual manner Much of what is visible today in Britain's landscape is the result of a chain of social and natural processes and can be interpreted through fieldwork as well as from old maps and documents Michael Aston uses a wide range of source material to study the complex and dynamic history of the countryside illustrating his points with aerial photographs maps plans and charts He shows how to understand the surviving remains as well as offering his own explanations for how our landscape has evolved

Archaeology: What It Is, Where It Is, and How to Do It Paul Wilkinson, 2020-02-27 A practical introduction covering all core aspects of archaeology this book is perfect for anyone looking to get involved in archaeology on a professional level or as a volunteer or simply wanting an overview of the discipline Aerial and ground survey excavation and fieldwork recording methods soil sampling and small finds are all discussed Digital Heritage and Archaeology in Practice Ethan Watrall, Lynne Goldstein, 2022-06-28 Exploring the use of digital methods in heritage studies and archaeological research The two volumes of Digital Heritage and Archaeology in Practice bring together archaeologists and heritage professionals from private public and academic sectors to discuss practical applications of digital and computational approaches to the field Contributors thoughtfully explore the diverse and exciting ways in which digital methods are being deployed in archaeological interpretation and analysis museum collections and archives and community engagement as well as the unique challenges that these approaches bring In this volume essays address methods for preparing and analyzing archaeological data focusing on preregistration of research design and 3D digital topography Next contributors use specific case studies to discuss data structuring with an emphasis on creating and maintaining large data sets and working with legacy data Finally the volume offers insights into ethics and professionalism including topics such as access to data transparency and openness scientific reproducibility open access heritage resources Indigenous sovereignty structural racial inequalities and machine learning Digital Heritage and Archaeology in Practice highlights the importance of community generosity and openness in the use of digital tools and technologies Providing a purposeful counterweight to the idea that digital archaeology requires expensive infrastructure proprietary software complicated processes and opaque workflows these volumes privilege perspectives that embrace straightforward and transparent approaches as models for the future Contributors Lynne Goldstein Ethan Watrall Brian Ballsun Stanton Rachel Opitz Sebastian Heath Jolene Smith Philip I Buckland Adela Sobotkova Petra Hermankova Theresa Huntsman Heather Richards Risetto Ben Marwick Li Ying Wang

Carrie Heitman Neha Gupta Ramona Nicholas Susan Blair Jeremy Huggett Interpreting the English Village Mick Aston, Christopher Gerrard, 2013-02-07 An original and approachable account of how archaeology can tell the story of the English village Shapwick lies in the middle of Somerset next to the important monastic centre of Glastonbury the abbey owned the manor for 800 years from the 8th to the 16th century and its abbots and officials had a great influence on the lives of the peasants who lived there It is possible that abbot Dunstan one of the great reformers of tenth century monasticism directed the planning of the village The Shapwick Project examined the development and history of an English parish and village over a ten thousand year period This was a truly multi disciplinary project Not only were a battery of archaeological and historical techniques explored such as field walking test pitting archaeological excavation aerial reconnaissance documentary research and cartographic analysis but numerous other techniques such as building analysis dendrochronological dating and soil analysis were undertaken on a large scale The result is a fascinating study about how the community lived and prospered in Shapwick In addition we learn how a group of enthusiastic and dedicated scholars unravelled this story As such there is much here to inspire and enthuse others who might want to embark on a landscape study of a parish or village area Seven of the ten chapters begin with a fictional vignette to bring the story of the village to life Text boxes elucidate re occurring themes and techniques Extensively illustrated in colour including 100 full page images

Archaeology Paul Wilkinson, 2007 This book has been written to be used by newcomers to archaeology in the field and explains the techniques and methods that will help you to understand and record the past back cover Understanding Metropolitan Landscapes Andrew MacKenzie, 2019-10-02 Understanding Metropolitan Landscapes considers and reflects on the fundamental relationships between metropolitan regions and their landscapes It investigates how planning and policy help to protect manage and enhance the landscapes that sustain our urban settlements As global populations become more metropolitan landscapes evolve to become increasingly dynamic and entropic and the distinction between urban and non urban is further fragmented and yet these spaces play an increasingly important role in sustainable development This book opens a key critical discussion into the relational aspects of city and landscape and how each element shapes the boundaries of the other covering topics such as material natures governance systems processes and policy It presents a compendium of concepts and ideas that have emerged from landscape architecture planning and environmental policy and landscape management Using a range of illustrated case studies it provokes discussions on the major themes driving the growth of cities by exploring the underlying tensions around notions of sustainable settlement climate change adaption urban migration new modes of governance and the role of landscape in policy and decision making at national provincial and municipal levels

Landscapes Through the Lens David C. Cowley, Robin A. Standring, Matthew J. Abicht, 2010-11-11 This volume presents the rich but under utilised and in parts inaccessible archival historic aerial imagery traditional photographs and those captured from satellites for the exploration and management of cultural heritage An unparalleled resource for archaeologists and all with an interest in landscapes images spanning the second half of the 20th century provide an unrivalled means of documenting and understanding change and informing the study of the past Case studies written by leading experts in their fields illustrate the applications of this imagery across a wide range of heritage issues from prehistoric cultivation and settlement patterns to the impact of recent landscape change Contemporary environmental and land use issues are also dealt with in a volume that will be of interest to archaeologists historians geographers and those in related disciplines Current Archaeology ,2007 Interpreting Energy at Museums and Historic Sites Leah S. Glaser,2022-12-13 Experts all agree that human beings can mitigate climate change by changing how we use energy for heat light movement and production Stewards of heritage sites and collections can engage the public at the grassroots level to raise awareness about the cultural and socioeconomic reasons for past choices that have contributed to climate change This book will help cultural institutions identify ways to interpret new stories through historic places and resources especially if staff have made the commitment to go green Without place based context discussions about energy focus primarily on the science and not the human experience By reminding us of our past practices and values regarding energy production and use historic places can inspire different ways of thinking about transitioning to different energy sources and question the doctrine that high energy use is necessary for progress Public interpretation can expose the vast energy infrastructure and the impact of energy extraction production and use on place Historic sites offer place based contexts for visitors to interact with and think critically about the processes and the impact of energy development in for example a maritime village This book synthesizes science with the humanities outside of popular media and other politicized spaces to identify different kinds of energy resources in many historic collections or sites It supplements current calls for economic and policy changes because as stewards of historic places we need to do what we can in this all hands on deck moment to prepare for shared stewardship of our future Interpreting the Sacred William Paden,2003-04-15 William Paden s classic exploration in religious studies with a new introduction In the current climate Interpreting the Sacred provides a fresh thorough way to consider and compare various religious belief systems Paden puts forth the idea that our understanding of religion influences our understanding of ourselves and our world Updated with a new introduction this book is for anyone who wants to consider and discuss religious beliefs Interpreting Archaeology Alexandra Alexandri,Victor Buchli,John Carman,Ian Hodder,Jonathan Last,Gavin Lucas,Michael Shanks,2013-11-19 This volume provides a forum for debate between varied approaches to the past The authors drawn from Europe North America Asia and Australasia represent many different strands of archaeology They address the philosophical issues involved in interpretation and a desire among archaeologists to come to terms with their own subjective approaches to the material they study a recognition of how past researchers have also imposed their own value systems on the evidence which they presented Ecological Landscape Design and Planning Jala Makhzoumi,Gloria Pungetti,2003-09-02 The authors of this book offer an holistic methodological approach to the design and planning of landscape based on both research and practical experience Interpreting Science at Museums and Historic Sites Debra A. Reid, Karen-Beth G. Scholthof, David D. Vail, 2023-09-11 Ask not what science can do for you but what public history can do for science Interpreting Science in Museums and Historic Sites stresses the untapped potential of historical artifacts to inform our understanding of scientific topics It argues that science gains ground when contextualized in museums and historic sites Engaging audiences in conversations about hot topics such as health and medical sciences or climate change and responses to it mediated by a history museum can emphasize scientific rigor and the time lag between discovery and confirmation of societal benefit Interpreting Science emphasizes the urgency of this work provides a toolkit to start and sustain the work shares case studies that model best practice and resources useful to facilitate and sustain a science infused public history Interpreting Soil Test Results Pam Hazelton, Brian Murphy, 2016-11 Interpreting Soil Test Results is a practical reference enabling soil scientists environmental scientists environmental engineers land holders and others involved in land management to better understand a range of soil test methods and interpret the results of these tests It also contains a comprehensive description of the soil properties relevant to many environmental and natural land resource issues and investigations This new edition has an additional chapter on soil organic carbon store estimation and an extension of the chapter on soil contamination It also includes sampling guidelines for landscape design and a section on trace elements The book updates and expands sections covering acid sulfate soil procedures for sampling soils levels of nutrients present in farm products soil sodicity salinity and rainfall erosivity It includes updated interpretations for phosphorus in soils soil pH and the cation exchange capacity of soils Interpreting Soil Test Results is ideal reading for students of soil science and environmental science and environmental engineering professional soil scientists environmental scientists engineers and consultants and local government agencies and as a reference by solicitors and barristers for land and environment cases Towards a New European Bauhaus—Challenges in Design Education Manuel Blanco Lage, Oya Atalay Franck, Nicolas Marine, Manuel Rodrigo de la O Cabrera, 2024-01-29 This book gathers the latest advances and innovations in the field of architectural and design education as presented at the 2022 annual conference of the European Association for Architectural Education EAAE AC Towards a New European Bauhaus Challenges in Design Education hosted by ETSAM Madrid School of Architecture of the Universidad Politécnica de Madrid in Madrid Spain on August 31 September 2 2022 Chapter Towards a Future Past The New and the European in the Bauhaus is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link.springer.com Transactions of the Symposium on Photo Interpretation, 1962 Bringing the Biosphere Home Mitchell Thomashow, 2001-10-26 A guide for understanding the ecological and existential aspects of global environmental change This book shows how to make global environmental problems more tangible so that they become an integral part of everyday awareness At its core is a simple assumption that the best way to learn to perceive the biosphere is to pay close attention to our immediate surroundings Through local natural history observations imagination and memory and spiritual contemplation we develop a place based environmental view that can be expanded to encompass the biosphere Interweaving global change science personal narrative and commentary on a wide range of scientific and literary works the book explores both the ecological and existential aspects of urgent issues such as the loss of biodiversity and global climate change Written in a warm engaging style Bringing the Biosphere Home considers the perceptual connections between the local and global how the ecological news of the community is of interest to the world and how the global movement of people species and weather systems affects the local community It shows how global environmental change can become the province of numerous educational initiatives from the classroom to the Internet from community forums to international conferences from the backyard to the biosphere It explains important scientific concepts in clear nontechnical language and provides dozens of ideas for learning how to practice biospheric perception

Landscape Indicators Claudia Cassatella, Attilia Peano, 2011-01-28 In recent years EU policy towards the landscape has become better defined whereas at the same time the notion of landscape itself remains elusive The need for indicators to evaluate and monitor the effects of landscape policies and plans is urgent What is more landscape is one of the components considered in environmental reporting but unlike air soil or water it is difficult to measure using quantitative methods With studies on landscape indicators being as rare as they are this volume is an attempt to fill the gap dealing as it does with the definition and use of specific indicators for landscape assessment and monitoring To tackle the diverse dimensions of the landscape whose complexity is well known the subject is approached by a multidisciplinary team of experts in landscape ecology landscape history landscape perception regional planning strategic environmental assessment and environmental impact assessment procedures and multi criteria assessment methods Individual chapters include comparative assessments of studies conducted thus far in the EU as well as detailed analyses of ecological historical perceptive land use and economic ways of looking at landscape As well as providing a rich source of references for researchers studying the landscape from a variety of perspectives the book will be required reading for European officials involved at any level in planning or assessing the landscape or environment
