Deconstructions of Gender in Works by Audrey Thomas, Daphne Marlatt, and Louise Erdrich Caroline Rosenthal, 2003 Study of three North American women novelists combining the standpoints of gender studies and narratology By analyzing the works of Thomas Marlatt and Erdrich through the lenses of subjectivity gender studies and narratology Caroline Rosenthal brings to light new perspectives on their writings Although all three authors write metafiction that challenge literary realism and dominant views of gender the forms of their counter narratives vary In her novel Intertidal Life Thomas traces the disintegration of an identity through narrative devices that unearth ruptures and contradictions in stories of gender In contrast Marlatt in Ana Historic challenges the regulatory fiction of heterosexuality She offers her protagonist a way out into a new order that breaks with the law of the father creating a monstrous text that explores the possibilities of a lesbian identity In her tetralogy of novels made up of Love Medicine Tracks The Beet Queen and The Bingo Palace Erdrich resists definite readings of femininity altogether By drawing on trickster narratives she creates an open system of gendered identities that is dynamic and unfinalizable positing the most fragmented worldview as the most enduring By applying gender and narrative theory to nuanced analysis of the texts Rosenthal's study elucidates the correlation between gender identity formation and narrative Caroline Rosenthal is Professor and Chair of American Literature at the Friedrich Schiller University in Jena Germany Her book Narrative Deconstructions of Gender was published by Camden House in 2003

Behavioral Adaptation to Intertidal Life Guido Chelazzi, Marco Vannini, 1989-02-01 The NATO Advanced Research Workshop on Behavioural Adaptation to Intertidal Life held in Castiglione della Pescaia Italy May 1987 was attended by 50 participants most of whom presented requested lectures It was perhaps the first time that specialists of various animal groups from cnidarians to birds were able to meet and discuss the importance of behavioural adaptation to this peculiar sometimes very harsh environment But the taxonomic barrier is not the only one which the meeting attempted to overcome Lately the research on intertidal biology has spread from pure taxonomy and static analysis of community structure to such dynamic aspects as intra and interspecific relationships and physiological mechanisms aimed at avoiding stress and exploitation of limited resources This increasing interest stems not only from an inclination for this particular ecological system and some of its typical inhabitants but also from the realization that rocky and sandy shore communities are suitable models for testing and improving some global theories of evolutionary biology behavioural ecology and sociobiology The number of eco physiological and eco ethological problems emerging from the study of intertidal animals is fascinatingly large and a complete understanding of this environment cannot be reached using a strictly reductionistic or a pure holistic approach

The Tidal Cycle Yves

Earhart, AI, 2025-02-12 The Tidal Cycle explores the intricate relationship between the Moon, Earth, and our oceans, focusing on the science behind tides and their far-reaching impacts. It explains how the gravitational pull of the moon combined with the Earth's rotation creates the rhythmic rise and fall of sea levels we observe daily. Intriguingly, these tides not only shape coastlines but also govern the behavior and distribution of countless marine species within coastal ecosystems and the intertidal zone. The book delves into tidal mechanics, starting with the fundamental principles and progressing to more complex tidal patterns such as spring and neap tides. It further examines the ecological impacts of tides, revealing how marine organisms adapt to the ever-changing intertidal environment. It also assesses the potential of tidal energy as a renewable energy source, evaluating current technologies and their environmental considerations, offering a comprehensive look at this promising area of earth science and environmental science. It emphasizes the importance of understanding tides for both harnessing their energy and protecting coastal ecosystems from climate change. Structured in three parts, the book begins with the basics of tidal generation, moves on to ecological consequences, and concludes with the potential of tidal energy. This approach allows readers to gradually build their understanding of tides and their multifaceted influence on our planet, highlighting their role in marine biology and oceanography. Gothic forms of feminine fictions is a study of the powers of the Gothic in late twentieth century fiction and film Susanne Becker argues that the Gothic two hundred years after it emerged exhibits renewed vitality in our media age with its obsession for stimulation and excitement Today's globalised entertainment culture relying on soaps reality TV shows celebrity and excess is reflected in the emotional trajectory of the Gothic's violence eroticism and sentimental excess Gothic forms of feminine fictions discusses a wide range of anglophone Gothic romances from the classics through pulp fictions to a postmodern Gothica This timely and original study is a major contribution to gender and genre theory as well as cultural criticism of the contemporary It will appeal to scholars in a wide range of fields and become essential for students of the Gothic contemporary fiction particularly Alice Munro and Margaret Atwood and popular culture Proposed 1979 Outer
