Promoting Healthy Aging Across the Lifespan Elena Carrillo-Alvarez, Miriam Rodriguez-Monforte, Jordi Vilaró,

Katherine Simone McGilton, 2024-12-26 Worldwide there is a generalized trend toward aged societies Between 2015 and 2050 the proportion of the world's population over 60 years will nearly double from 12% to 22% As life expectancy continues to increase and natality rates lower not only the composition of countries will change but also its health landscape However an increased life expectancy does not necessarily mean a healthy life In most high income countries more than 20% of those years are lived in ill health due to chronic conditions caused by non communicable diseases which compromises functional ability and well being key components of healthy aging In this way not only people's lives but also societal structures are being affected Based on the life course approach to healthy aging aging starts from conception In this regard the promotion of healthy aging requires preventive strategies that enhance capacities during growth and development maintain them for as long as possible after maturity and slow down their rate of decline Moreover considering healthy aging across the lifespan entails focusing on different factors life opportunities and choices that might significantly influence health status lifestyle as well as health and social inequalities in older age and challenges the focus of most research on the topic which exclusively investigates the effect of influences operating in the later stages of life

Cognitive and Mental Health Improvement Under- and Post-COVID-19, volume III Yuka Kotozaki, Gabriele Nibbio, Chong Chen, 2025-04-01 This Research Topic is a part of a collection on the topic of Cognitive and Mental Health Improvement Under and Post COVID 19 An increasing body of research suggests that the COVID 19 pandemic has worsened global mental health and caused more cognitive impairments Whereas the COVID 19 pandemic is still ongoing in some regions it is expected to be ending for most regions in the very near future From a psychological psychiatric and public mental health perspective it is of vital importance to conduct effective and efficient interventions to promote cognitive and mental health for they not only are essential for us to cope with the ongoing pandemic but also necessary for us to rebuild a better world post the pandemic Not to say that a healthy cognitive and mental health state is at the core of human wellbeing and deserves its own place From previous studies and everyday practices we already know that regular exercise appropriate sleep nutritious diet close social ties connection with nature mindfulness among others help improve cognition and boost mental health. However, the optimal regimen for each specific cognitive and mental health outcome for a specific population, including both those of healthy and clinical, is unclear and remains to be identified. Furthermore, the underlying psychological, physiological, and neurobiological mechanisms through which each activity or intervention improves cognition and promotes mental health are to be clarified.
