

MANDATORY REPORTING BY AUSTRALIAN TEACHERS OF SUSPECTED CHILD ABUSE AND NEGLECT: LEGISLATIVE REQUIREMENTS AND QUESTIONS FOR FUTURE DIRECTION

QUEENSLAND UNIVERSITY OF TECHNOLOGY, BRISBANE, AUSTRALIA

Most Australian States and Territories have legislation compelling teachers to report suspicions that a child has been or is likely to be abused or neglected. However, these 'mandatory reporting' laws have significant differences, so teachers in different States and Territories may have quite different legislative duties to report suspected child abuse and neglect. It is important that teachers have an accurate understanding of what they are and are not required to report under the relevant legislation. Legislators and policymakers should also be aware of the differences between laws in Australian jurisdictions to inform ongoing evaluation of their jurisdiction's legal framework; the current contrast between jurisdictions, and particularly the absence in Western Australia of mandatory reporting legislation, recently prompted the Commonwealth Attorney-General to endorse substantial equality in legislation concerning child protection. The purpose of this article is first to introduce the broad context of mandatory reporting laws before detailing the legislative reporting obligations of Australian teachers. This synthesis reveals some significant differences in the laws between jurisdictions, thus raising questions for legislators and policymakers. Policy-based reporting obligations, which operate in two States instead of legislative reporting duties, are noted. Questions about future legislative directions are raised, based on current legislative differences, the issue of whether legislative reporting duties are more appropriate and effective in practice than policy-based reporting duties, and the absence of research into teacher knowledge of law and policy and into teacher reporting practice. It is recommended that research be undertaken to help answer these pressing questions.

I INTRODUCTION

The exact incidence of child abuse and neglect (CAN) in Australia is impossible to ascertain, but the best evidence suggests that a significant number of cases occur every year. The Australian Institute of Health and Welfare, which collects statistics recorded by the States and Territories, reported in 2006 that during the period of 12 months between 2004 and 2005, there were 34 046 children who were the subjects of 46 154 substantiated investigations into reports of CAN. Of these, there were 3574 substantiated cases of sexual abuse; 8016 of physical abuse; 12 870 of psychological or emotional abuse; and 9586 of neglect.<sup>2</sup> These statistics only approximate the true prevalence. They overestimate true prevalence because multiple substantiations can involve one child, some laws require protection of children from 'harm' rather than from known acts or omissions committed by adults, and because the statistics include some children who are deemed to be at risk of future abuse who have not yet been abused.<sup>3</sup> However, they underestimate true prevalence because some laws deem a child to be harmed only if he or she is not in the care

Into The Future The Neglect Of The Long Term In Australian Politics:

An Introduction to Australian Public Policy Sarah Maddison, Richard Denniss, 2013-05-31 The public policy arena is a complex framework of actors politics and instruments An Introduction to Australian Public Policy Second Edition examines the broad range of models influences and players that shape the development of public policy in Australia and equips students with a working knowledge of both the theoretical underpinnings and real world challenges of the field Fully revised and updated the new edition addresses the diverse approaches to policy formulation required by different practitioners and institutions Accessible and engaging this edition includes a new chapter on policy evaluation practical exercises on how to write policy briefs and media releases and eleven new concise case studies from Australia's top public policy practitioners The book is accompanied by a companion website which contains chapter summaries and a glossary Widely regarded as the best introduction to Australian public policy available the book is an essential resource for undergraduate students of politics and policy workers

Policy Analysis in Australia Brian Head, Kate Crowley, 2018-03-01 Policy Analysis in Australia offers a distinctly Australian interpretation of policy scholarship with eighteen chapters strongly reflecting the outstanding contributions of Australian scholars to the field of public policy It provides a coherent overview of the strengths and opportunities for policy analysis in Australia It recognises that government agencies are no longer regarded as the sole source of sound policy analysis and takes a broad view of policy analysis capacity both within institutions at all levels of government and beyond government in the media political parties business and non government associations It provides a valuable contribution to Australian scholarship about policy analysis in academic professional teaching and learning contexts and is a key addition to research and teaching in comparative policy analysis and policy studies more generally

Ten Commitments Revisited Steve Morton, David Lindenmayer, Stephen Dovers, 2014-09-25 What are the 10 key issues that must be addressed urgently to improve Australia's environment In this follow up to the highly successful book Ten Commitments Reshaping the Lucky Country's Environment Australia's leading environmental thinkers have written provocative chapters on what must be done to tackle Australia's environmental problems in terms of policies on ground actions and research Each chapter begins with a brief overview of the 10 key tasks that need to be addressed in a given field and then each issue is discussed in more detail Chapters are grouped into ecosystems sectors and cross cutting themes Topics include deserts rangelands temperate eucalypt woodlands tropical savanna landscapes urban settlements forestry management tropical and temperate marine ecosystems tropical rainforests alpine ecosystems freshwater ecosystems coasts islands soils fisheries agriculture mining grazing tourism industry and manufacturing protected areas Indigenous land and sea management climate change water biodiversity population human health fire energy and more Ten Commitments Revisited is a must read for politicians policy makers decision makers practitioners and others with an interest in Australia's environment

Democratisation, Governance and Regionalism in East and Southeast Asia Ian Marsh, 2006-09-27 This book provides a comparative study of the development of central institutions of governance in the emerging democracies of East and Southeast Asia There are no other books exploring these developments on a region wide scale Democratisation governance and regionalism in East and Southeast Asia is taught worldwide on politics and Asian studies course This book presents new comparative data on drawn from a survey of opinions in these regions as well as identifying the emerging challenges

Public Health Practice in Australia Vivian Lin,James Smith,Sally Fawkes,2025-07-28 The third edition of Public Health Practice in Australia has been written as the impact and effects of the COVID 19 pandemic are starting to be fully understood The book takes a systems approach to public health examining the impact of historical social economic environmental and political factors on the health of individuals communities and populations Linking theoretical issues to contemporary practice it highlights common threads that underlie seemingly disparate activities ideas and entities that comprise the organised effort of public health practice As well as the COVID 19 pandemic and the health inequalities that it has highlighted the new edition also emphasizes the importance of ecological health and the impact of climate change on public health Timely and comprehensive and including case studies throughout to bring key concepts to life this is an invaluable resource for students and professionals across the health sciences including public health medicine environmental health health promotion health information management and health administration

Rescuing Democracy Paul E. Smith,2016 This book proposes a new institution the People s Forum to enable democratic governments to effectively address long running issues like global warming and inequality It would help citizens decide what strategic problems their government must fix especially where this requires them to suffer some inconvenience or cost The People s Forum is first based on a new diagnosis of government failure in democracies The book tests its own analyses of government failure by seeing whether these might help us to explain the failures of particular democracies to address and in some cases to even recognize several crucial environmental problems The essential features of a new design for democracy are described and then compared with those of previous institutional designs that were also intended to improve the quality of democratic government In that comparison the People s Forum turns out to be not only the most effective design for developing and implementing competent policy but also the easiest to establish and run The latter advantage is crucial as there has been no success in getting previous designs into actual trial practice It is hoped that this book may inspire a small group to raise the money to set up and run the People s Forum Then as citizens see it operating and engage with it they may come to regard the new Forum as essential in helping them to deliberate long running issues and to get their resulting initiatives implemented by government Smith also discusses how the People s Forum must be managed and how groups with different political ideologies may react to it An Afterword sets out the method by which this design was produced to help those who might want to devise an institution themselves The new concepts in environmental science that the book develops to test its diagnosis are applied in an Appendix to outline crucial options for the future of Tasmania Similar options apply to many countries states and provinces As indicated above those choices are currently beyond the capacity of democratic governments to address and in some cases even to recognize But the People s Forum may lift them out of that morass

A Time for War John Birmingham,2005-12-01 In the fourth Quarterly Essay of 2005 John Birmingham ponders the Australian way of war After East Timor and Bali a combination of primal fear and primal ambition has transformed attitudes to our region to security and to war as an instrument of politics Australian defence policy has become more assertive and our armed forces are being radically restructured and hardened Australia now has the capacity and even the will to act as a military power in its region A Time for War begins with a gripping account of Operation Anaconda the 2002 battle in Afghanistan to which Australian special forces made a crucial contribution Birmingham also looks at our war dreaming the sanctification of Anzac Day and the eclipse of the Vietnam Syndrome Ranging from Sir John Monash to Peter Cosgrove from Rudyard Kipling to The One Day of the Year he finds that our armed forces can now do no wrong and that politicians have taken note The new militarism is not simply a response to September 11 he argues it marks a deeper shift in the culture It being an RSL we would stand each night at six o clock for the prayer of remembrance It was always a moving occasion a strange suspended moment when the pokies and racing channel the piped music and the drunken bullshitting all fell away Friends from overseas who witnessed the quiet ceremony never failed to be impressed One a poet from Czechoslovakia had always thought Australians to be a shallow soulless materialistic people but she changed her mind after her first experience of the ode to the fallen among the half empty schooners and chip packets

John Birmingham A Time For War

Fiducial Governance John Power,2010-07-01 FIDUCIAL GOVERNANCE AN AUSTRALIAN REPUBLIC FOR THE NEW MILLENNIUM represents an attempt to grapple with the challenges of designing governance regimes suited to the new millennium Power s monograph asserts the need for the reform of Australian governance and charts Australia s fitful progress towards a republican future Along the way he sketches a framework for constitutional reform mindful of the strengths and weaknesses of the current system of government and the contest of ideas about the role and configuration of Australian Heads of State Long a frustrated Australian republican Power contends that the republican log jam is due in significant part to a lack of respect shown by the republican policy community to the contribution long made to good governance by monarchical heads of state This monograph seeks to draw lessons from this experience so as to make the republican venture one of substance for the Australian public In so doing Power draws on a range of republican indigenous and feminist writings in order to develop a new framework of fiducial governance aimed at enhancing the trustworthiness and integrity of our institutions of governance thereby paving the way for the replacement of the monarch by a directly elected head of state This is an erudite and thoughtful book that will be of interest to those with an interest in systems of governance and to constitutional scholars whether they be republicans or monarchists

Improving Implementation John Wanna,2007-02-01 The business of government is necessarily diverse changing and of considerable scale A focus on improving the implementation of government programs and initiatives is important because the community expects the Government to deliver on its policies as does the Government The papers included in this collection address numerous aspects of improving implementation They were initially presented at the Project Management and Organisational Change conference held in Canberra in February 2006 the first annual research conference organised by ANZSOG in conjunction with the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet This collection represents a comprehensive drawing together of experience and insight from both practitioners and academic researchers with speakers including top public sector executives from the Australian jurisdictions as well as representatives from the United Kingdom Canada and New Zealand

Political Parties in Transition? Ian Marsh, 2006 Australian politics have been dominated for nearly a century by two more or less continuous political groupings Labor and the Liberal National Coalition But in recent decades Australians have embraced a new range of issues gender the environment indigenous rights while party membership has collapsed

Protecting Rights Without a Bill of Rights Jeffrey Goldsworthy, Tom Campbell, Adrienne Stone, 2017-11-30 Australia is now the only major Anglophone country that has not adopted a Bill of Rights Since 1982 Canada New Zealand and the UK have all adopted either constitutional or statutory bills of rights Australia however continues to rely on common law statutes dealing with specific issues such as racial and sexual discrimination a generally tolerant society and a vibrant democracy This book focuses on the protection of human rights in Australia and includes international perspectives for the purpose of comparison and it provides an examination of how well Australian institutions governments legislatures courts and tribunals have performed in protecting human rights in the absence of a Bill of Rights

Democratic Decline and Democratic Renewal Ian Marsh, Raymond Miller, 2012-07-26 Examines why people feel disconnected from contemporary politics and suggests what might be done to address current political discontent

Ten Commitments CSIRO Publishing, 2008 A book that is a must read for politicians policy makers practitioners and others with interests in Australia's environment

Globalisation, Public Opinion and the State Takashi Inoguchi, Ian Marsh, 2007-12-20 This is first integrated book length account of citizen responses to the new global order Based on a comprehensive survey administered at the end of 2000 in nine European and nine Asian countries this book demonstrates the diverse responses to globalization within and between two of the world's major and most globally integrated regions Globalization Public Opinion and the State is a pioneering empirical study drawing on 18 000 interviews across these 18 European and Asian countries supported by the Japanese Ministry of Education The Asian Europe Survey is one of the largest of its kind ever conducted and provides the book with a wealth of novel data on public opinion and social attitudes that identify the linkages between national regional policy responses and the political and policy orientations of the publics affected The book uses theoretical insights to situate these public responses and reactions to globalization and it addresses one question in particular do nation states matter in how citizens come to view regional and global engagement Rather than offering another theory about globalization this book presents much needed empirical findings that help us decide between arguments about the public impact of globalization cross nationally

This book breaks new ground as there no other comprehensive study in this field      Australia Under Construction John Butcher,2008-04-01 The Australian nation is a work in progress So conclude the authors whose views are represented in this most recent offering in the ANZSOG monograph series AUSTRALIA UNDER CONSTRUCTION NATION BUILDING PAST PRESENT AND FUTURE From its beginnings as a settler society through to present day concerns about broadbanding the nation the nation building narrative has resonated with Australians The very idea of nation building has both excited the popular imagination about what we might achieve as a society and a nation and has occasioned despair about missed opportunities The eleven authors contributing to this monograph reflect on these and other themes from a variety of perspectives They challenge our understanding of the term nation building reflect on its contemporary relevance as a framework for public policy and even re appraise the contribution of past iconic nation building endeavours To this subject the authors bring intelligence wit and a healthy disdain for sacred cows A stimulating read for anyone interested in the history challenges and prospects of nation building in Australia      Public Health Practice in Australia Vivian Lin,James Smith,Sally Fawkes,2020-07-16 Public Health Practice in Australia offers a thorough introduction to what public health practitioners do and the effort involved in improving the health of the public This second edition has been fully revised and updated in line with current policies and practice It highlights common threads that underlie seemingly disparate activities ideas and entities that comprise the organised effort of public health practice The emphasis is on securing and maintaining the conditions in society that enable people to live healthy and fulfilling lives The authors examine the impact of historical social economic environmental and political factors on the health of individuals communities and populations Taking an applied multidisciplinary approach they outline the strategies and tools that public health practitioners use to improve health outcomes identifying infrastructure needs in the workforce public and private sector organisations and in regulation gathering analysing and using health data applying interventions in health policy provision of health services and health promotion Public Health Practice in Australia draws on current international and Australian research and the interwoven case studies make the theories and concepts come alive It is a valuable resource for students and professionals across the health sciences including public health medicine environmental health health promotion health information management and health administration The book is impressive in the completeness clarity and consistency of the material covered and for the way in which many of the theoretical issues are related to current practice An extremely useful and valuable reference for both students and practitioners alike Thomas Tenkate Environmental Health      The Lost Future Jan Zielonka,2023-02-07 A timely and compelling argument for a revitalized and restructured global politics The future seems increasingly uncertain Our democracies are failing to prevent financial crises energy shortages climate change and war so how can we look to the future with confidence Jan Zielonka argues that it is democracy s shortsightedness that makes politics stumble in our increasingly connected world With our governments still confined to the borders of nation states defending the short term interests of present day voters the consequences for future generations are dire In this incisive account Zielenka makes a bold case for a new politics of time and space He considers how democracy should adjust to the world of high speed and he questions our everyday experiences as citizens Is it acceptable for authorities and firms to monitor our whereabouts Why is the distribution of time and space so unequal And most crucially can we construct a new system of governance that will allow us to plan ahead with certainty

Examining the Past and Shaping the Future Katie Wright, Shurlee Swain, Kathleen McPhillips, 2021-11-29 The Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse 2013 17 was one of the largest public inquiries in Australian history and one of the most important investigations into child abuse internationally It facilitated a national conversation about justice for victims and survivors and how to improve child safety in the future Through the examination of practices in key social institutions including churches schools sporting clubs hospitals and voluntary organisations it provided new understandings of the widespread abuse that many people had experienced in the past and it made recommendations for a national redress scheme The Royal Commission also recommended sweeping reforms in policies practices and institutional cultures Offering valuable insights into the Royal Commission's history and background its social and cultural significance and its implications for policy development and legislative reform this book provides a wide ranging analysis of the work of the Royal Commission and its social psychological legal and discursive impact The chapters reveal not only the complexity of the matters that the Royal Commission was dealing with and the difficulties faced by the victims of child sexual abuse but also the challenges of researching and writing about this sensitive topic The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Australian Studies
