Roots of Theological Anti-Semitism (paperback) Anders Gerdmar, 2008-12-31 As Adolf Hitler strategised his way to power he knew that it was necessary to gain the support of theology and the Church This study begins two hundred years earlier however looking at roots of theological anti-Semitism and how Jews and Judaism were constructed positively and negatively in the biblical interpretation of German Protestant theology Following the two main streams of German theology the salvation historical and the Enlightenment oriented traditions it examines leading exegetes from the 1750s to the 1950s and explores how theology legitimises or delegitimises oppression of Jews in part through still prevailing paradigms This is the first comprehensive analysis of its kind and the result of the analysis of the interplay between biblical exegesis and attitudes to Jews and Judaism is a fascinating and often frightening portrait of theology as a servant of power Three Questions of Formative Judaism Jacob Neusner, 2021-10-01 The academic study of Judaism requires a systematic inquiry into the history literature and religion and eventually the theology as revealed in the historical documents themselves Under this premise Three Questions of Formative Judaism encounters the canonical writings of Judaism in the context of their creation at a certain time and place How something is said thus becomes as important as what is said Bringing nearly fifty years of research to bear on these fundamental questions Jacob Neusner challenges his readers to face the difficult often unasked or neglected questions about the nature background and purposes of Rabbinic Judaism and rewards them with an enriched understanding and a stronger foundation for tackling the even more elusive questions concerning the theology of formative Judaism This publication has also been published in paperback please click here for details An Introduction to Second Temple Judaism Lester L. The Transformation of Judaism Jacob Neusner, 2011-03-31 Jacob Neusner describes analyzes and interprets the transformation of one system of the Israelite social order by a connected but autonomous successor system He characterizes the successive systems classifying the one as philosophical and the other as religious He explains the categorical account of each and sets forth the outcome of a number of topical studies on the category formations of Rabbinic Judaism with special attention to the social order politics philosophy and economics These systems emerged as 1 autonomous when viewed synchronically 2 connected when seen diachronically and 3 as a continuous construction when seen at the end of their formative age In their successive stages of categorical autonomy connection and finally continuity the three distinct systems may be classified respectively as philosophical religious and theological each one taking over and revising the definitive categories of the former and framing its own fresh generative categories as well The formative history of Judaism is the story of the presentations and re presentations of categorical structures In method it is the exegesis of taxonomy and taxic systems Now after more than two decades Neusner has decided to review the initial statement Since the book summarizes ten years of work from 1980 to 1990 on the Rabbinic category formations of social science politics philosophy and economics in the setting of the law and theology of Rabbinic Judaism from the Mishnah through the Bavli 200 600 C E it seemed well worth the effort to recapitulate the original work The revised introduction explains the omission of theology in his category formation philosophy religion theology Neusner's account of the Bavli produced the decade after this title was completed did not make possible the continuous description of the unfolding of the Rabbinic system The pattern that appealed to Neusner from philosophy to religion to theology has not yet come to a satisfactory account In the twenty years

Charlesworth, 2012-03-29 This volume draws attention to ancient religious texts especially the so called non canonical texts by focusing on how they were used or functioned in Early Judaism and Early Christianity The contributors are biblical scholars who have chosen one or more Jewish or Christian apocryphal or pseudepigraphical texts with the aim of describing their ancient functions in their emerging social settings These show the fluidity of the notion of scripture in the early centuries of the Church and in Judaism of late antiquity but they also show the value of examining the ancient religious texts that were not included in the Jewish or Christian biblical canons These chapters show that there is much that can be learned from examining and comparing these texts with canonical literature and evaluating them in their social context No ancient text was created in a vacuum and the non canonical writings aid in our interpretation not only of many canonical writings but also shed considerable light on the context of both early Judaism and early Christianity Recent Reference Books in Religion William M.
