Endymion, The Man in the Moon John Lyly, 2021-04-11 John Lyly's Endymion The Man in the Moon is a dazzling example of Elizabethan prose seamlessly blending classical mythology with themes of love and desire. Written in 1591, the play captivates audiences with its rich lyricism and intricate wordplay showcasing Lyly's penchant for clever dialogues and rhetorical finesse. Set against the backdrop of the moon, the narrative delves into the love story of Endymion and the moon goddess Cynthia, exploring the tensions between aspiration and fulfillment, an enduring quest for unattainable love, and the intersection of dreams and reality—all hallmark themes of the Renaissance. The innovative use of allegory and the play's courtly context vividly symbolize the societal norms of the era while enriching its fantastical elements. John Lyly, a pivotal figure in the development of English drama, was deeply influenced by the intellectual currents of his time, particularly the revival of classical antiquity and the emerging humanist perspectives. His experiences in court and his relationships with prominent literary figures, including Sir Philip Sidney and Queen Elizabeth I, undoubtedly shaped his imaginative constructions. With a background in education and a keen interest in the intricacies of human emotions, Lyly's works reflect both erudition and a playful spirit that permeates this particular narrative. Endymion The Man in the Moon is a must-read for anyone interested in the roots of English literature and the evolution of dramatic forms. Its enchanting blend of humor, romance, and philosophical introspection makes it a timeless piece that resonates with contemporary readers while illuminating the transformative power of storytelling. Scholars and casual readers alike will find delight in Lyly's unique stylistic approach enriched by entertaining commentary on society's foibles. The Re-Imagined Text Jean I.

Marsden, 2021-10-21 Shakespeare's plays were not always the inviolable texts they are almost universally considered to be today. The Restoration and eighteenth century committed what many critics view as one of the most subversive acts in literary history: the rewriting and restructuring of Shakespeare's plays. Many of us are familiar with Nahum Tate's audacious adaptation of King Lear with its resoundingly happy ending, but Tate was only one of a score of playwrights who adapted Shakespeare's plays. Between 1660 and 1777, more than fifty adaptations appeared in print and on the stage, works in which playwrights augmented, substantially cut, or completely rewrote the original plays. The plays were staged with new characters, new scenes, new endings, and underlying all this novelty were new words. Why did this happen? And why, in the later eighteenth century, did it stop? These questions have serious implications regarding both the aesthetics of the literary text and its treatment. For the adaptations manifest the period's perceptions of Shakespeare. As such, they demonstrate an important evolution in the definition of poetic language and in the idea of what constitutes a literary work. In The Re-Imagined Text, Jean I. Marsden examines both the adaptations and the network of literary theory that surrounds them, thereby exploring the problems of textual sanctity and of the author's relationship to the text. As she demonstrates, Shakespeare's works and English literature in general came to be defined by their words rather than by the plots and morality on which the older aesthetic theory focused. A clear step toward our modern concern for the word and its varying levels of signification.

Structure and Meaning in Medieval Arabic and Persian Lyric Poetry Julie Meisami, 2003-09-02. This is the first comprehensive and comparative study of compositional and stylistic techniques in medieval Arabic and Persian lyric poetry. Ranging over some seven countries, it deals with works by over thirty poets in the Islamic world from Spain to present-day Afghanistan and examines how this rich poetic tradition exhibits both continuity and development in the use of a wide variety of compositional strategies. Discussing such topics as principles of structural organisation, the use of rhetorical figures, metaphor and images, and providing detailed analyses of a large number of poetic texts, it shows how structural and semantic features interacted to bring coherence and meaning to the individual poem. It also examines works by the indigenous critics of poetry in both Arabic and Persian and demonstrates the critics' awareness of and interest in the techniques which poets employed to construct poems which were both eloquent and meaningful. Comparisons are also made with classical and medieval poetics in the West. The book will be of interest not merely to specialists in the relevant fields but also to all those interested in pre-modern poetry and poetics.
