Morgan is Kappa Alpha Professor of English at Cornell University where he has taught since 1971. Readers will learn about writing across multiple genres, craft that can be learned and practiced by a writer, and studying the past for those present truths that create what Morgan values most in literature: a community across time.

The Oxford Handbook of the Literature of the U.S. South Fred Hobson, Barbara Ladd, 2016-01-04. The Oxford Handbook of the Literature of the U.S. South brings together contemporary views of the literature of the region in a series of chapters employing critical tools not traditionally used in approaching Southern literature. It assumes ideas of the South: global, multicultural, plural, more Souths than South, that would not have been embraced two or three decades ago and it similarly expands the idea of literature itself. Representative of the current range of activity in the field of Southern literary studies, it challenges earlier views of antebellum Southern literature as well as in its discussions of twentieth-century writing questions the assumption that the Southern Renaissance of the 1920s, 1930s and 1940s was the supreme epoch of Southern expression that writing to which all that had come before had led and by which all that came afterward was judged. As well as canonical Southern writers, it examines Native American literature, Latina/o literature, Asian American as well as African American literatures, Caribbean studies, sexuality studies, the relationship of literature to film and a number of other topics which are relatively new to the field.
