S. Anand, 2017-09-28 Burn out and suicide rates among physicians and scientists in academic medicine are at an all time high and jeopardize the future of our entire profession In the last 4 years alone burn out rates among physicians have increased by 25% In a recent 2017 Medscape publication burn out rates in Critical Care physicians ranked in 9th place and Pediatricians ranked 13th among 27 subspecialties Astonishingly over 50% of the participants reported burn out symptoms with clear race and gender disparities While men generally report higher burn out rates than women it is important to emphasize that response rates from women in these surveys were notoriously low and may not represent the complete picture These numbers are even more dismal for tenured academic faculty at research extensive universities In this group emotional exhaustion i.e. high burn out is reported at 35% with a clear association with age and lower burn out levels in the older tenured faculty While no gender or racial ethnic differences were found in this particular group higher levels of burn out were identified in individuals with financial responsibilities beyond a spouse and child While it is comforting to note the increasing public interest and research activities in this field successful approaches to ameliorate the burden and consequences of physician burn out are still inadequately developed Academic centers increasingly offer some type of work life balance program to their employees but unfortunately these programs are frequently adopted from corporate business models and remain largely ineffective in the academic environment It should be evident to most administrators that the stressors of academic clinicians and scientists substantially differ from those of corporate employees Based on these observations and over 75 years of combined experience in academic medicine amongst the three editors of this Research Topic we collected 26 manuscripts from 22 authors at different career stages and different genders ethnicities marital status and subspecialties to identify and stratify common and specific stressors and therapeutic approaches to ameliorate burn out and achieve work life balance in academic medicine We are confident that each reader will identify with at least one if not several of the authors' opinions experiences and approaches to attain greater work life balance and thereby avoid the consequences of burn out in modern academic medicine

Recollections on a Road Between Edward J. Dupuy, 2024-12-19 Autobiographers typically mine memory to write of a struggle for place For some that place is wealth fame or power For others it's overcoming the wounds of addiction or an abusive past to find a place of stability As compelling as those stories can be this autobiography is different Dupuy comes from a large intact Catholic family in which he was well cared for While he explores memory and writes of a struggle for place he finds place and person not necessarily within but between established boundaries He restlessly explores spaces between and among narratives of family nation career religion and culture And he finds glimpses of an elusive and wounded subject himself A strong sense of longing a sense of not quite being at home a type of woundedness pervades his story Such places reveal themselves to him not as deficits not something to be corrected and set straight instead he sees them as a sort of home despite their shaky between nature In these spaces new contours of self others and world have opened to him

Assembly West Point Association of Graduates (Organization), 1999 What I Was Thinking Simon Gelman, 2020-10-08 Simon Gelman started to think about writing a book seventeen years ago at the end of his chairmanship Initially he saw quite a few obstacles His hesitations were related to his lack of knowledge of the English language lack of knowledge of American culture and lack rather a complete absence of experience in writing nonmedical text Over the years the conceived idea was maturing and the question of whether writing the book or not gradually converted into how to write it Gelman managed to overcome the uncertainties and decided just to tell the story The first chapter of the book is a memoir However it is written as a retrospective analysis of the thoughts Gelman had and actions he chose at different periods of his life The following chapters address certain subjects like how to be a chairman of an academic medical department relationships between doctors and patients socialism and capitalism and anti-Semitism These chapters describe Gelman's views and how they changed over time affected by his maturing and life in three different countries Soviet Union Israel and United States with very different social structures and cultures A few of Gelman's friends who read the first drafts of this book were saying that these chapters that describe his changing views on the subjects can be helpful to understand many different often not well justified actions in human lives The book does not suggest what should be done in one or another circumstance It rather tells the story of how and why the decisions right or wrong were made depending on the background and acquired knowledge
