she examines the ideological context for America's changing discourse about Asia and interrogates the power and appeal as well as the problems and limitations of American Orientalism for white women's explorations of their identities. Combining the analysis of race and gender in the United States and the study of U.S. Asian relations, Yoshihara's work represents the transnational direction of scholarship in American Studies and U.S. history. In addition, this interdisciplinary work brings together diverse materials and approaches including cultural history, material culture, visual arts, performance studies, and literary analysis. Embracing the East was the winner of the 2003 Hiroshi Shimizu Award of the Japanese Association for American Studies, best book in American Studies by a junior member of the association. American Silver in the Art Institute of Chicago, Art Institute of Chicago, 2016-01-01. The history of American silver offers invaluable insights into the economic and cultural history of the nation itself. Published here for the first time, the Art Institute of Chicago's superb collection embodies innovation and beauty from the colonial era to the present. In the 17th century, silversmiths brought the fashions of their homelands to the colonies, and in the early 18th, new forms arose as technology diversified production. Demand increased in the 19th century as the Industrial Revolution took hold. In the 20th, modernism changed the shape of silver inside and outside the home. This beautifully illustrated volume presents highlights from the collection with stunning photography and entries from leading specialists. In-depth essays relate a fascinating story about eating, drinking, and entertaining that spans the history of the Republic and trace the development of the Art Institute's holdings of American silver over nearly a century. America at the Fair, Chaim M. Rosenberg, 2008-02-25. At the time of the World's Columbian Exposition of 1893, the United States was fast becoming the world's leading economy. Chicago, the host city, had grown in less than half a century from a village to the country's second largest metropolis. During this, the Gilded Age, the world's most extensive railroad and steamship networks poured ceaselessly through Chicago, carrying the raw goods and finished products of America's great age of invention and industrial expansion. The Fair was the largest ever at the time, with 65,000 exhibitors and millions of visitors. It has been called the Blueprint of the American Future and marked the beginning of the national economy and consumer culture. Endless Novelty, Philip Scranton, 2000-07-23. Flexibility, specialization, and niche marketing are buzzwords in the business literature these days, yet few realize that it was these elements that helped the United States first emerge as a global manufacturing leader between the Civil War and World War I. The huge mass production-based businesses, steel, oil, and autos, have long been given sole credit for this emergence. In Endless Novelty, Philip Scranton boldly recasts the history of this vital episode in the development of American business, known as the nation's second industrial revolution, by considering the crucial impact of trades featuring specialty, not standardized, production. Scranton takes us on a grand tour through American specialty firms and districts where, for example, we meet printers and jewelry makers in New York and Providence, furniture builders in Grand Rapids, and tool specialists in Cincinnati. Throughout, he highlights the benevolent as well as the strained relationships between workers and proprietors, the lively interactions among entrepreneurs and city leaders and the personal achievements of industrial engineers like Frederic W Taylor Scranton shows that in sectors producing goods such as furniture jewelry machine tools and electrical equipment firms made goods to order or in batches and industrial districts and networks flourished creating millions of jobs These enterprises relied on flexibility skilled labor close interactions with clients suppliers and rivals and opportunistic pricing to generate profit streams They built interfirm alliances to manage markets and fashioned specialized institutions trade schools industrial banks labor bureaus and sales consortia In creating regional synergies and economies of scope and diversity the approaches of these industrial firms represent the inverse of mass production Challenging views of company organization that have come to dominate the business world in the United States Endless Novelty will appeal to historians business leaders and to anyone curious about the structure of American industry Telling Environmental Histories Katie Holmes, Heather

Goodall, 2017-12-12 This collection explores the intersections of oral history and environmental history Oral history offers environmental historians the opportunity to understand the ways people's perceptions experiences and beliefs about environments change over time In turn the insights of environmental history challenge oral historians to think more critically about the ways an active more than human world shapes experiences and people The integration of these approaches enables us to more fully and critically understand the ways cultural and individual memory and experience shapes human interactions with the more than human world just as it enables us to identify the ways human memory identity and experience is moulded by the landscapes and environments in which people live and labour It includes contributions from Australia India the UK Canada and the USA Albany Institute of History and Art Tammi K. Groft, Mary Alice Mackay, 1998-01-01 Founded in 1791 the Albany Institute of History and Art is one of the nation's oldest cultural institutions Today it boasts outstanding collections largely focused on New York State's Upper Hudson Valley These include Hudson River School landscape paintings portraits by Ezra Ames and Charles Loring Elliott sculpture by Erastus Dow Palmer landscape and interior paintings by Walter Launt Palmer and Albany made silver and other crafts This comprehensive overview of the Albany Institute of History and Art's American art and decorative arts collections presents color plates and essays on about 130 objects of a total exceeding 20 000 Dating from the beginning of the seventeenth century to the 1990s each object in this volume was chosen for its national significance artistic merit and relevance to the Institute's mission collecting and interpreting the art history and culture of New York State's Upper Hudson Valley through four centuries

Ames, 1985 Magnificent, Marvelous Martelé John Webster Keefe, Samuel J. Hough, 2001 The Martele line of handwrought silver in the Art Nouveau style by the Gorham Manufacturing Company is justly regarded as a major expression of that style on this side of the Atlantic Ocean Officially introduced at the influential Paris Exposition Universelle of 1900 Martele silver was widely admired and was awarded a Grand Prix and many gold medals The excitement created then by the new artistic line of Martele silver has been rekindled by this premiere exhibition of nearly three hundred works from the collection of Jolie and Robert Shelton The mammoth and highly regarded Gorham Company developed from a small jewelry manufactory founded by Jabez Gorham 1792-1869 in Providence Rhode Island to the world's largest producer of sterling silver wares In the process of this growth the company distinguished itself by successfully combining new technological advances in the industry with exemplary design So successful was Gorham in the closing years of the nineteenth century that it could devote considerable time money and expertise to create an art line of hollowware produced entirely by hand The new line in the latest cutting edge taste departed dramatically from Gorham's flourishing line of machine made commercial flat and hollowwares It was named Martele from the French verb marteeler the hammer The line probably never would have come into existence without the driving influence and vision of two men Gorham's energetic chief executive Edward Holbrook 1849-1919 and its chief designer William Christmas Codman 1839-1923 To connoisseurs of silver Codman is justly renowned for the development of the lavish Martele line starting with designs in 1896 and commencing a limited production in 1897
