The Transformation of Islamic Art during the Sunni Revival Yasser Tabbaa,2011-10-01 The transformation of Islamic architecture and ornament during the eleventh and twelfth centuries signaled profound cultural changes in the Islamic world Yasser Tabbaa explores with exemplary lucidity the geometric techniques that facilitated this transformation and investigates the cultural processes by which meaning was produced within the new forms Iran Iraq and Syria saw the development of proportional calligraphy

vegetal and geometric arabesque muqarnas stalactite vaulting and other devices that became defining features of medieval Islamic architecture Ultimately the forms and themes described in this book shaped the development of Mamluk architecture in Egypt and Syria and by extension the entire course of North African and Andalusian architecture as well These innovations developed and were disseminated in a highly charged atmosphere of confrontation between the Seljuk and post Seljuk proponents of the traditionalist Sunni revival and their main opponents in Fatimid Egypt These forms stood as visual signs of allegiance to the orthodox Abbasid caliphate and of difference from the heterodox Fatimids Tabbaa proposes that their rapid spread throughout the Islamic world operated within a system of reciprocating ceremonial gestures which conveyed a new and formal language that helped negotiate the gap between the myth of a unified Sunni Islam and its actual political fragmentation In subject matter and approach The Transformation of Islamic Art during the Sunni Revival makes original contributions to the study of art revealing that this relatively neglected sector of medieval art and architecture is of critical importance for reevaluating the entire field of Islamic studies It challenges the essentialist and positivist approaches that still permeate the study of Islamic art and offers a historical and semiotic alternative for exploring meaning within ruptures of change

Digital Habitus Alberto Romele,2023-07-19 This book proposes a new theoretical framework for approaching the causes and effects that digital technologies and the imaginaries related to them have on the processes of self interpretation and subjectivation It formulates three main theses First it argues that today s digital technologies which are primarily based on artificial intelligence AI algorithms and big data are formidable habitus machines they offer increasingly personalized services but these machines are actually indifferent to individuals and their personalities Second this book contends that the effectiveness of these machines does not depend solely on their concrete capacity to classify the social world It also depends on the expectations hopes fears and imaginaries that we have concerning these technologies and their capacities This cultural habitus a worldview or world picture leads us to believe in the concrete effectiveness of AI and its potential for our societies Third the author takes this Bourdieusian notion of habitus and connects it to current empirical turn in philosophy of technology He contends that by looking too closely at the things themselves many philosophers of technology have deprived themselves of the possibility to study the symbolic conditions of possibility in which single technological artifacts are always embedded Digital Habitus will appeal to scholars and students working in philosophy of technology the ethics of artificial intelligence media studies and science and technology studies
