Indians on Display Norman K Denzin, 2016-06-16 Even as their nations and cultures were being destroyed by colonial expansion across the continent American Indians became a form of entertainment sometimes dangerous and violent sometimes primitive and noble Creating a fictional wild west entrepreneurs then exported it around the world Exhibitions by George Catlin paintings by Charles King and Wild West shows by Buffalo Bill Cody were viewed by millions worldwide

Norman Denzin uses a series of performance pieces with historical contemporary and fictitious characters to provide a cultural critique of how this version of Indians one that existed only in the western imagination was commodified and sold to a global audience He then calls for a rewriting of the history of the American west one devoid of minstrelsy and racist pageantry and honoring the contemporary cultural and artistic visions of people whose ancestors were shattered by American expansionism

Always Already New Lisa Gitelman,2008-08-29 In Always Already New Lisa Gitelman explores the newness of new media while she asks what it means to do media history Using the examples of early recorded sound and digital networks Gitelman challenges readers to think about the ways that media work as the simultaneous subjects and instruments of historical inquiry Presenting original case studies of Edison s first phonographs and the Pentagon s first distributed digital network the ARPANET Gitelman points suggestively toward similarities that underlie the cultural definition of records phonographic and not at the end of the nineteenth century and the definition of documents digital and not at the end of the twentieth As a result Always Already New speaks to present concerns about the humanities as much as to the emergent field of new media studies Records and documents are kernels of humanistic thought after all part of and party to the cultural impulse to preserve and interpret Gitelman s argument suggests inventive contexts for humanities computing while also offering a new perspective on such traditional humanities disciplines as literary history Making extensive use of archival sources Gitelman describes the ways in which recorded sound and digitally networked text each emerged as local anomalies that were yet deeply embedded within the reigning logic of public life and public memory In the end Gitelman turns to the World Wide Web and asks how the history of the Web is already being told how the Web might also resist history and how using the Web might be producing the conditions of its own historicity

Divine Violence and the Character of God Claude F. Mariottini,2022-02-01 There is much violence in the Old Testament both human and divine Christians and non Christians react differently to what they read about the God of the Old Testament Some people are so affected by the violence found in the Old Testament that they give up on God stop going to church and reading the Bible and eventually lose their faith Others are offended by divine violence and seek to find an alternative explanation for the violent acts of God in the Old Testament A popular alternative in the twenty first century is to return to the second century and adopt some form of Marcionism and make the God of the Old Testament to be a different God from the God revealed by Christ in the New Testament The purpose of this book is not a defense of God and his use of violence The author seeks to understand why God acted the way he did and to understand the reason for divine violence in the Old Testament Yahweh did use violence in his work of reconciliation However the use of violence was necessary when everything else failed Israel provoked God to anger When God brought judgment upon his people he did so with tears in his eyes Sing with the Heart of a Bear Kenneth Lincoln,2023-09-01
