Corporations, Technology Transfer and Development Tagi Sagafi-nejad, Robert Belfield, 2014-06-28 Transnational Corporations Technology Transfer and Development A Bibliographic Sourcebook compiles references one can use in studying transnational corporations and related topics. The compilation divides various source materials into eight major themes. The sourcebook presents publications on the development of science and technology, the International Technology Gap and the NIEO and transnational corporations and technology. The other groups of publications compiled mainly focus on the anatomy of corporate technology transfer, technology transfer and host countries and sectoral analysis wherein several case studies are included. The last two sets of reference materials are concerned with technology transfer and the home country and its regulation. This sourcebook will be invaluable to those in need of lists of reference materials on transnational corporations.

Industrial Policy, Technology, and International Bargaining Etel Solingen, 1996. This book suggests an innovative approach to understanding the sources of industrial policy and technological development. The conceptual sections address long standing debates over the nature of the state and ruling coalitions, the political power of private actors, the process of international bargaining and the determinants of technological change in the industrializing world. The empirical study constitutes the first book length comparison of the Argentine and Brazilian nuclear programs using a multidisciplinary approach that ranges from the broad macropolitical to the most specific microeconomic. Finally, the book provides a perspective on the nuclear sector in industrializing states that the more typical concentration on strategic aspects has obscured.

Technology Transfer And Development R. C. Mascarenhas, R C Mascarenhas, 2019-08-21. In most Third World nations, importing technology from other countries is considered vital to industrialization and economic development. This book examines the processes of technology transfer and development by tracing how Hindustan Machine Tools, a public enterprise in India, successfully collaborated with manufacturers from industrialized nations in its growth from a single factory to a diversified industrial complex The author critically analyzes the company's overall strategies for diversification and expansion and its approaches to selecting, acquiring, absorbing and generating technology and to developing appropriate management He also points to important relationships between policy efficiency and administrative efficiency and discusses socioeconomic and cultural factors that can obstruct the successful development and operation of an industrial enterprise in a developing country

A Macro Perspective on Technology Transfer Allan Reddy, 1996-08-30 Dr Reddy points out that the key to economic success particularly for the less developed countries of the world is technology but only when properly applied Despite years of help through technology transfer however many LDCs are still impoverished This leads him to conclude that either the wrong technologies were transferred or the right ones were not transferred His book thus focuses on ways in which LDCs can improve their economic growth through technology transfer arguing that it is the assimilation of technology into their socioeconomic and cultural structures that is critical to their economic development not the indiscriminate borrowing from advanced nations In doing so Dr Reddy presents a behavioral model which proves that technology absorption is just as if not more important than a simple transfer process A challenging research based discussion for academics in economics business sociology marketing and management and for business and government policymakers worldwide Dr Reddy introduces the concepts related to technology transfer and discusses the major participants in the worldwide transfer enterprise He presents barriers and ways to overcome them in technology transferral explores the ethical dimensions and then lays out his technology transfer assimilation model He applies the model to a specific and representative developing country India and ends with a discussion of conclusions that can be drawn from it His three appendixes elaborate on the need for and methods to transfer technology to LDCs provide ways to analyze the costs and present a model of reciprocal distribution that may benefit both the donor and the recipient country in the transfer process
