International Production Networks In Asia:

International Production Networks in Asia Michael Borras, Dieter Ernst, Stephan Haggard, 2003-09-02 The economic crisis of 1997 called East Asia's economic miracle into question and generated widespread criticism of the region's developmental models. However, the crisis did little to alter the growing economic integration of American, Japanese, and Chinese firms who have created cross-border production networks. This book addresses the changing nature of high-tech industries in Asia, particularly in the electronics sector, where such networks are increasingly designed to foster and to exploit the region's highly heterogeneous technology skills and know-how. Asia and Global Production Networks Benno Ferrarini, David Hummels, 2014-10-31 This timely book deploys new tools and measures to understand how global production networks change the nature of global economic interdependence and how that in turn changes our understanding of which policies are appropriate in this new environment. Chinese Global Production Networks in ASEAN Young-Chan Kim, 2015-12-11 This volume examines the role of Chinese businesses and industries in Asian production networks. By presenting different case studies of the Asian region, the contributors illustrate how China successfully exports the Chinese business model based on Chinese ethics, social networks, and production integration. The contributors also discuss topics such as the implications and ramifications of global product sharing within Asia, the prospects of free trade agreements in Asia, the economic advantages of Chinese family lineage and Guanxi, an influential Chinese network, collaboration of overseas Chinese with mainland Chinese, as well as direct Chinese business involvement and investment in other Asian countries. Global Production Networks and Rural Development Bill Pritchard, 2021-06-25 Bill Pritchard provides an important update on how current trade methodologies are implemented as China becomes one of the world's largest fresh fruit importers from countries such as Laos, Myanmar, Thailand, and Vietnam. Production Networks and Enterprises in East Asia Ganeshan Wignaraja, 2015-12-10 The book provides a comprehensive examination of patterns and determinants of production networks in East Asia, a key driver in the region's global success. It provides the reader with an accessible understanding of the theoretical literature on production networks and recent developments in empirical analysis at the industry and firm levels. The topics covered in the book include gross trade in parts and components and gravity models, trade in value-added industry case studies, and micro data econometric studies of firm heterogeneity in production networks. The micro data econometric studies explore key aspects of the heterogeneity of firms in East Asian production networks, such as technological capability, the entry of small and medium enterprises into production networks, business use of free trade agreements, and access to credit. Blending new sources of data, empirical tools, and econometric methods, this book is highly recommended for readers who seek to understand the workings of the complex web of production networks in East Asia. Global Production Networking and Technological Change in East Asia Shahid Yusuf, M. Anjum Altaf, Kaoru Nabeshima, 2004-07-01 In the coming decades, East Asian economies must face the challenges of an increasingly globalized marketplace. This book explores the changing parameters of competition in East Asia and argues that success ultimately will depend on the ability of the region's firms to harness the potential of global production networks and to build their own innovative capability. Presenting the latest findings on global production networks and the evolution of technological capabilities, it provides researchers, students, and policymakers with in-depth information and analysis on key issues related to growth and development in East Asia. East Asian firms must not only achieve greater efficiency but also become more innovative, offering differentiated products in order to vie with other first-tier suppliers of multinational corporations. These firms will also need to develop a technological edge if they are to compete with corporations from the leading OECD countries and form their own global production networks.

Global Production Networking and Technological Change in East Asia argues that a development strategy linked to technological advance will be necessary to foster the growth of innovative national firms that can remain competitive in global markets.

Global Value Chains and Global Production Networks Jeffrey Neilson, Bill Pritchard, Henry Yeung Wai-Chung, 2017-10-02. The global economic system is experiencing a profound period of rapid change. The emergence of globalised production and distribution systems which bring together diverse constellations of economic actors through a complex regime of global corporate governance, state regulation, and new international divisions of labour, demands corresponding and innovative explanatory models. Global value chains (GVCs) and global production networks (GPNs) have been particularly useful as conceptual frameworks for understanding the global market engagement of firms, regions, and nations. This book examines the rise of GVCs and GPNs as dominant features of the international political economy. It brings together leading thinkers in the field and sets out new directions for future scholarship in understanding the contemporary global economic system. In doing so, this book makes a significant contribution to our understanding of the international political economy and the global economic system in the post-Washington Consensus era of contemporary capitalism. This book was published as a special issue of the Review of International Political Economy.

Shifting Production to Southeast Asia David Yuen Tung Chan, Chun Yang, 2024-12-15. Shifting Production to Southeast Asia: Electronics Transnational Corporations Moving to Vietnam since the 2000s explores how a labor-intensive industry has been expanded from the World Factory China to developing Southeast Asia under the changing dynamics in the global and regional production networks, including the recent COVID-19 pandemic and geopolitical tension, by using the case study of the production relocations of the consumer electronics manufacturing industry to Vietnam. David Yuen Tung Chan and Chun Yang explore the changing trade and investment patterns as well as the transformations of the electronics production networks and the changing roles and functions of China, Vietnam, and other Asian countries, the relocations of firms, and the strategic coupling with Vietnam, as well as the impacts of the post-pandemic dynamics. The shifting electronics production from China to Vietnam, which increased since the mid-2000s, is not a simple expansion led by the conventional lead firms from the North solely to cut costs, but it is a rather complicated and multiscale process that has been simultaneously driven by various tiers of firms and levels of governments from different origins out of various dynamics at different spatial scales Global Production Networks Neil M. Coe, Henry Wai-Chung Yeung, 2015 Globalization and supply chains have re shaped the organization of the global economy in to global production networks The authors provide a clear framework for understanding these developments

Technological Capabilities and Export Success in Asia Dieter Ernst, Tom Ganiatsos, Lynn Mytelka, 2003-09-02 What accounts for export success A team of international contributors show that learning and capability formation are critical to sustain competitiveness Through a series of case studies of firms in the textile and garment and electronics industries of five Asian economies Korea Taiwan Thailand Indonesia and Vietnam Technological Capabilities and Export Success in Asia demonstrates that cheap labour combined with currency devaluation is no longer sufficient for export success Production Networks and Industrial Clusters Ikuo Kuroiwa, Toh Mun Heng, 2008-04-30 Explains how production networks and industrial clusters have played crucial roles in the industrial development of Indonesia and Malaysia electronics industry Singapore biomedical science industry and Thailand automotive industry Gateway Cities in Global Production Networks Moritz Breul, 2019-04-26 This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the role of gateway cities in contemporary circuits of global production Apart from facilitating the interlinking of economic activities in the surrounding regions with the global economy gateway cities have enormous implications for how certain regions participate in the global economy Based on a case study of the oil and gas industry in Southeast Asia the book maps gateway cities explores why these cities have come to occupy a gateway role and evaluates their implications for regional economic development To this aim the book links components from research on the World City Network with Global Production Network research and demonstrates how this intersection creates synergies for studying the role of cities in economic globalization The main audiences that this book appeals to are researchers and students interested in debates on regional development and the role of cities in the global economy The book is also attractive to scholars interested in the organization of extractive industries Governing Global Production J. Wilson, 2013-02-04 Northeast Asian steel industries have developed global production networks but by spanning multiple national spaces these networks unite many national economies while belonging exclusively to none Who therefore is in control Jeffrey D Wilson examines how states and firms coordinate their activities to govern global production

Globalization, Productivity and Production Networks in ASEAN Fithra Faisal Hastiadi, 2019-08-31 This book examines the challenges that ASEAN Association of Southeast Asian Nations members need to overcome in order to sustain and intensify economic growth The ASEAN market is widely regarded as a new hub of growth not least in light of increasing protectionism and declining economic growth of the three largest countries in Northeast Asia China Japan and South Korea Contributors address a range of issues with a concentrated focus on evidence from Indonesia including globalisation increasing populism trade FDI the benefits of the production network and related issues such as spill over crises innovation and technology and selected sectoral commodity and policy analysis of Indonesia This book analyses and explains the
