The International Handbook of Suicide Prevention Rory C. O'Connor, Jane Pirkis, 2016-10-31 The International Handbook of Suicide Prevention 2nd Edition presents a series of readings that consider the individual and societal factors that lead to suicide it addresses ways these factors may be mitigated and presents the most up to date evidence for effective suicide prevention approaches An updated reference that shows why effective suicide prevention can only be achieved by understanding the many reasons why people choose to end their lives Gathers together contributions from more than 100 of the world s leading authorities on suicidal behavior many of them new to this edition Considers suicide from epidemiological psychological clinical sociological and neurobiological perspectives providing a holistic understanding of the subject Describes the most up to date evidence based research and practice from across the globe and explores its implications across countries cultures and the lifespan Suicide: A Global Perspective Maurizio Pompili, 2012-09-19 In the year 2000 approximately one million people died from suicide a global mortality rate of 16 per 100 000 or one death every 40 seconds In the last 45 years suicide rates have increased by 60% worldwide Suicide is now among the three leading causes of death among those aged 15 44 years both sexes these figures do not include suicide attempts up to 20 times more frequent than completed suicide Suicide worldwide is estimated to represent 1.8% of the total global burden of disease in 1998 and 2.4% in countries with market and former socialist economies in 2020 Although traditionally suicide rates have been highest among the male elderly rates among young people have been increasing to such an extent that they are now the group at highest risk in a third of countries in both developed and developing countries Mental disorders particularly depression and substance abuse are associated with more than 90% of all cases of suicide however suicide results from many complex sociocultural factors and is more likely to occur particularly during periods of socioeconomic family and individual crisis situations e g loss of a loved one employment honour The economic costs associated with completed and attempted suicide are estimated to be in the billions of dollars One million lives lost each year are more than those lost from wars and murder annually in the world It is three times the catastrophic loss of life in the tsunami disaster in Asia in 2005 Every day of the year the number of suicides is equivalent to the number of lives lost in the attack on the World Trade Center Twin Towers on 9 11 in 2001 Everyone should be aware of the warning signs for suicide Someone threatening to hurt or kill him herself or taking of wanting to hurt or kill him herself someone looking for ways to kill him herself by seeking access to firearms available pills or other means someone talking or writing about death dying or suicide when these actions are out of the ordinary for the person Also high risk of suicide is generally associated with hopelessness rage uncontrolled anger seeking revenge acting reckless or engaging in risky activities seemingly without thinking feeling trapped like there s no way out increased alcohol or drug use withdrawing from friends family and society anxiety agitation unable to sleep or sleeping all the time dramatic mood changes no reason for living no sense of purpose in life Table 1 Understanding and helping the suicidal individual should be a task for all Suicide Myths How to Help the Suicidal Person Warning Signs of Suicide Myth Suicidal people just want to die Fact Most of the time suicidal people are torn between wanting to die and wanting to live Most suicidal individuals don t want death they just want to stoop the great psychological or emotional pain they are experiencing Listen Accept the person s feelings as they are Do not be afraid to talk about suicide directly Ask them if they developed a plan of suicide Expressing suicidal feelings or bringing up the topic of suicide Giving away prized possessions settling affairs making out a will Signs of depression loss of pleasure sad mood alterations in sleeping eating patterns feelings of hopelessness Myth People who commit suicide do not warn others Fact Eight out of every 10 people who kill themselves give definite clues to their intentions They leave numerous clues and warnings to others although clues may be non verbal or difficult to detect Remove lethal means for suicide from person s home Remind the person that depressed feelings do change with time Point out when death is chosen it is irreversible Change of behavior poor work or school performance Risk taking behaviors Increased use of alcohol or drugs Social isolation Developing a specific plan for suicide Myth People who talk about suicide are only trying to get attention They won t really do it Fact Few commit suicide without first letting someone know how they feel Those who are considering suicide give clues and warnings as a cry for help Over 70% who do threaten to commit suicide either make an attempt or complete the act Express your concern for the person Develop a plan for help with the person Seek outside emergency intervention at a hospital mental health clinic or call a suicide prevention center Myth Don t mention suicide to someone who s showing signs of depression It will plant the idea in their minds and they will act on it Fact Many depressed people have already considered suicide as an option Discussing it openly helps the suicidal person sort through the problems and generally provides a sense of relief and understanding Suicide is preventable Most suicidal individuals desperately want to live they are just unable to see alternatives to their problems Most suicidal individuals give definite warnings of their suicidal intentions but others are either unaware of the significance of these warnings or do not know how to respond to them Talking about suicide does not cause someone to be suicidal on the contrary the individual feel relief and has the opportunity to experience an empathic contact Suicide profoundly affects individuals families workplaces neighbourhoods and societies The economic costs associated with suicide and self inflicted injuries are estimated to be in the billions of dollars Surviving family members not only suffer the trauma of losing a loved one to suicide and may themselves be at higher risk for suicide and emotional problems Mental pain is the basic ingredient of suicide Edwin Shneidman calls such pain psychache 1 meaning an ache in the psyche Shneidman suggested that the key questions to ask a suicidal person are Where do you hurt and How may I help you If the function of suicide is to put a stop to an unbearable flow of painful consciousness then it follows that the clinician s main task is to mollify that pain Shneidman 1 also pointed out that the main sources of psychological pain such as shame guilt rage loneliness hopelessness and so forth stem from frustrated or thwarted psychological needs These psychological needs include the need for achievement for affiliation for autonomy for counteraction for exhibition for nurturance for order and for understanding Shneidman 2 who is considered the father of suicidology has proposed the following definition of suicide Currently in the Western world suicide is a conscious act of self induced annihilation best understood as a multidimensional malaise in a needful individual who defines an issue for which the suicide is perceived as the best solution Shneidman has also suggested that that suicide is best understood not so much as a movement toward death as it is a movement away from something and that something is always the same intolerable emotion unendurable pain or unacceptable anguish Strategies involving restriction of access to common methods of suicide have proved to be effective in reducing suicide rates however there is a need to adopt multi sectoral approaches involving other levels of intervention and activities such as crisis centers There is compelling evidence indicating that adequate prevention and treatment of depression alcohol and substance abuse can reduce suicide rates School based interventions involving crisis management self esteem enhancement and the development of coping skills and healthy decision making have been demonstrated to reduce the risk of suicide among the youth Worldwide the prevention of suicide has not been adequately addressed due to basically a lack of awareness of suicide as a major problem and the taboo in many societies to discuss openly about it In fact only a few countries have included prevention of suicide among their priorities Reliability of suicide certification and reporting is an issue in great need of improvement It is clear that suicide prevention requires intervention also from outside the health sector and calls for an innovative comprehensive multi sectoral approach including both health and non health sectors e g education labour police

The Routledge Handbook of International Development, Mental Health and Wellbeing Laura Davidson, 2019-06-19 Mental health has always been a low priority worldwide Yet more than 650 million people are estimated to meet diagnostic criteria for common mental disorders such as depression and anxiety with almost three quarters of that burden in low and middle income countries

Nowhere in the world does mental health enjoy parity with physical health. Notwithstanding astonishing medical advancements in treatments for physical illnesses, mental disorder continues to have a startlingly high mortality rate. However, despite its widespread neglect, there is now an emerging international imperative to improve global mental health and wellbeing. The UN's current international development agenda, finalised at the end of 2015, contains 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), including SDG3 which seeks to ensure healthy lives and promote wellbeing for all at all ages. Although much broader in focus than the previous eight Millennium Development Goals (MDGs), the need for worldwide improvement in mental health has finally been recognised. This Handbook addresses the new UN agenda in the context of mental health and sustainable development, examining its implications for national and international policy makers, decision makers, researchers, and funding agencies. Conceptual evidence-based and practical discussions crossing a range of disciplines are presented from the world's leading mental health experts. Together they explore why a commitment to investing in mental health for the fulfilment of SDG3 ought to be an absolute global priority. IJERPH Paul B. Tchounwou, 2020-12-21

Next year 2018 we will be celebrating the 15th anniversary of the International Journal of Environmental Research and Public Health (IJERPH, ISSN 1660-4601). Hence we are currently organizing a Special Issue to commemorate this important milestone. Founded in 2004, IJERPH has experienced a tremendous growth in terms of the number and quality of scientific publications. With a 2016 impact factor of 2.101, IJERPH now ranks among the top international journals in the emerging field of environmental research and public health. As described on our website (<https://www.mdpi.com/journal/ijerph>), IJERPH is a peer-reviewed journal that focuses on the publication of scientific and technical information on the impacts of natural phenomena and anthropogenic factors on the quality of our environment, the interrelationships between environmental health and the quality of life, as well as the socio-cultural, political, economic, and legal considerations related to environmental stewardship and public health. Its primary areas of research interests include: Gene-environment interactions, Environmental genomics and proteomics, Environmental toxicology, mutagenesis and carcinogenesis, Environmental epidemiology and disease control, Health risk assessment and management, Ecotoxicology and ecological risk assessment and management, Natural resources damage assessment, Environmental chemistry and computational modeling, Environmental policy and management, Environmental engineering and biotechnology, Emerging issues in environmental health and diseases, Environmental education and public health. To help celebrate the 15th anniversary, you are kindly invited to submit original articles, critical reviews, research notes, and short communications on any of the above-listed topics. Please also encourage any of our colleagues who may be interested to submit manuscripts. We expect that this issue will attract considerable attention as we prepare to celebrate the excellent scientific contributions and socio-economic impacts of IJERPH over the past 15 years. Landmark Papers in Psychiatry Elizabeth Ryznar, Aderonke B. Pederson, Mark A. Reinecke, John G. Csernansky, 2020-01-22

Advances in the practice of psychiatry have occurred in fits

and starts over the last several decades These advances are evident to anyone long affiliated with the field and are best appreciated through direct experience of living through the times These advances can also be gleaned from historical overviews in textbooks or the recollections of one's teachers and mentors Returning to the original papers that have ushered in these changes is rarely done for various mostly practical reasons Filtering through thousands of articles in psychiatry may prove daunting access to the manuscripts may be limited especially for papers not available electronically and understanding their impact requires a broader context Moreover with so much active research currently occurring in various branches of psychiatry current practitioners or trainees may find their attention focused on the present and this is reinforced by electronic search algorithms which return articles in reverse chronological order Not surprisingly citations for articles in virtually all fields decline precipitously for articles over five years old As scholars and professionals we are losing touch with our academic heritage Yet navigating the future of psychiatry requires a firm understanding of its past This resource serves as a guide for anyone seeking to understand the evolution of psychiatry as a scientific discipline It does so by summarizing over 100 landmark papers in psychiatry and placing their scientific contributions within a historical context An introductory section sets the stage for the major theoretical constructs within the field with chapters devoted to ontology and nosology Subsequent sections examine major facets of the theory and practice of psychiatry such as pathogenesis of psychiatric illness pharmacotherapy psychotherapy and somatic treatments These sections are divided logically into chapters addressing important contributions to the understanding and treatment of specific disorders A final section explores ethical considerations within each field This framework echoes the complexity of psychiatry which cannot be reduced to a single set of diagnoses or subspecialty categories Highlighting the research trajectory of psychiatry this resource will appeal to academics trainees and practitioners who desire a comprehensive easy to read up to date collection of psychiatry's pivotal moments By understanding the challenges inspirations and insights from the past readers will be better poised to address new and ongoing challenges within the field

International Public Health: Diseases, Programs, Systems and Policies Michael Merson, Robert E. Black, Anne Mills, 2006 In this text for graduate students in various disciplines who are studying international public health the author focuses on conditions in low and middle income countries occasionally making reference to high income countries He suggests approaches for fostering public health and discusses future challenges for health promotion and disease prevention around the world The text can also be used as a reference by those working in government agencies international health and development agencies and NGOs

Suicide Danuta Wasserman, 2016-01-14 Approximately one million people worldwide commit suicide each year and at least ten times as many attempt suicide A considerable number of these people are in contact with members of the healthcare sector and encounters with suicidal individuals form a common part of the everyday work of many healthcare professionals Suicide An unnecessary death examines the pharmacological psychotherapeutic and psychosocial measures adopted by psychiatrists GPs and other health care staff and emphasizes the need for a clearer psychodynamic understanding of the self if patients are to be successfully recognized diagnosed and treated Drawing on the latest research by leading international experts in the field of suicidology this new edition provides clinicians with an accessible summary of the latest research into suicide and its prevention The abundance of new literature can make it difficult for those whose clinical practice involves daily contact with suicidal patients to devote sufficient time to penetrating the research and accordingly apply new findings in their clinical practice In light of the WHO Mental Health Action Plan 2013 2020 this new edition is a timely contribution to the field and a vital and rapid overview that will increase awareness of suicide prevention methods
