Interpreting The Landscape Landscape Archaeology:

Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston, 2002-09-11 Most places in Britain have had a local history written about them Up until this century these histories have addressed more parochial issues such as the life of the manor rather than explaining the features and changes in the landscape in a factual manner Much of what is visible today in Britain s landscape is the result of a chain of social and natural processes and can be interpreted through fieldwork as well as from old maps and documents Michael Aston uses a wide range of source material to study the complex and dynamic history of the countryside illustrating his points with aerial photographs maps plans and charts He shows how to understand the surviving remains as well as offering his own explanations for how our landscape has evolved Interpreting the Landscape M.. Aston, 1989

Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston, 1992 Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston, 2015-09-29 Most places in Britain have had a local history written about them Up until this century these histories have addressed more parochial issues such as the life of the manor rather than explaining the features and changes in the landscape in a factual manner Much of what is visible today in Britain s landscape is the result of a chain of social and natural processes and can be interpreted through fieldwork as well as from old maps and documents Michael Aston uses a wide range of source material to study the complex and dynamic history of the countryside illustrating his points with aerial photographs maps plans and charts He shows how to understand the surviving remains as well as offering his own explanations for how our landscape has evolved Landscape Archaeology Rebecca Yamin, Karen Bescherer Metheny, 1996 As the editors note This volume includes many searching looks at the landscape not just to understand ourselves but to understand the context for other peoples lives in other times to unravel the landscapes they created and explain the meanings embedded in them Interpreting

Landscapes Christopher Tilley, 2016-06-03 This book takes a new approach to writing about the past Instead of studying the prehistory of Britain from Mesolithic to Iron Age times in terms of periods or artifact classifications Tilley examines it through the lens of their geology and landscapes asserting the fundamental significance of the bones of the land in the process of human occupation over the long dur e Granite uplands rolling chalk downlands sandstone moorlands and pebbled hilltops each create their own potentialities and symbolic resources for human settlement and require forms of social engagement Taking his findings from years of phenomenological fieldwork experiencing different landscapes with all senses and from many angles Tilley creates a saturated and historically imaginative account of the landscapes of southern England and the people who inhabited them This work is also a key theoretical statement about the importance of landscapes for human settlement Interpreting the Landscape from the Air Michael Aston, 2002 With the help of 200 colour photographs the chief archaeologist from Channel 4 s Time Team shows how England s changing landscape from prehistoric times to the present day can be interpreted from the air The Routledge Companion to Landscape Studies Peter Howard, Ian Thompson, Emma Waterton, Mick Atha, 2013-02-15 Landscape is a vital synergistic concept which opens up ways of thinking about many of the problems which beset our contemporary world such as climate change social alienation environmental degradation loss of biodiversity and destruction of heritage As a concept landscape does not respect disciplinary boundaries Indeed many academic disciplines have found the concept so important it has been used as a qualifier that delineates whole sub disciplines landscape ecology landscape planning landscape archaeology and so forth In other cases landscape studies progress under a broader banner such as heritage studies or cultural geography Yet it does not always mean the same thing in all of these contexts The Routledge Companion to Landscape Studies offers the first comprehensive attempt to explore research directions into the many uses and meanings of landscape The Companion contains thirty nine original contributions from leading scholars within the field which have been divided into four parts Experiencing Landscape Landscape Culture and Heritage Landscape Society and Justice and Design and Planning for Landscape Topics covered range from phenomenological approaches to landscape to the consideration of landscape as a repository of human culture from ideas of identity and belonging to issues of power and hegemony and from discussions of participatory planning and design to the call for new imaginaries in a time of global and environmental crisis Each contribution explores the future development of different conceptual and theoretical approaches as well as recent empirical contributions to knowledge and understanding Collectively they encourage dialogue across disciplinary barriers and reflection upon the implications of research findings for local national and international policy in relation to landscape This Companion provides up to date critical reviews of state of the art perspectives across this multifaceted field embracing disciplines such as anthropology archaeology cultural studies geography landscape planning landscape architecture countryside management forestry heritage studies ecology and fine art It serves as an invaluable point of reference for scholars researchers and graduate students alike engaging in the field of landscape studies

Interpreting the Early

Modern World Mary C. Beaudry, James Symonds, 2010-10-20 Interpretive archaeology meaning the interpretation social science as opposed to hard science of archaeology and archaeological artifacts has predominantly been the realm of prehistoric archaeologists Many historical archaeologists are participating in this disciplinary shift from processualism to post processualism and interpretation but to date few have called their work interpretive archaeology This volume is based on a session at the Society for Historical Archaeology meeting in 2005 The organizers now editors brought together historical archaeologists from both the UK and the US working in the same areas industrial landscape monuments etc but because of their country based training their work arises out of differing intellectual traditions The chapters in each section do not stand in isolation rather the authors exchange ideas about what each other has written They construct dialogues about theories and practices that inform interpretive archaeology on either side of the Atlantic ends with commentary by two well known names in interpretive archaeology in the UK and in the States      Handbook of Landscape Archaeology Bruno David, Julian Thomas, 2016-06-03 Over the past three decades landscape has become an umbrella term to describe many different strands of archaeology From the processualist study of settlement patterns to the phenomenologist s experience of the natural world from human impact on past environments to the environment s impact on human thought action and interaction the term has been used In this volume for the first time over 80 archaeologists from three continents attempt a comprehensive definition of the ideas and practices of landscape archaeology covering the theoretical and the practical the research and conservation and encasing the term in a global framework As a basic reference volume for landscape archaeology this volume will be the benchmark for decades to come All royalties on this Handbook are donated to the World Archaeological Congress      Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture Simon Bell, Ingrid Herlin, Richard Stiles, 2011-02-20 What have cultural anthropologists historical geographers landscape ecologists and environmental artists got in common Along with eight other disciplines from domains as diverse as planning and design the arts and humanities as well as the social and natural sciences they are all fields of importance to the theory and practice of landscape architecture In the context of the EU funded LE NOTRE Project carried out under the auspices of ECLAS the European Council of Landscape Architecture Schools international experts from a wide range of related fields were asked to reflect each from their own perspective on the interface between their discipline and landscape architecture The resulting insights presented in this book represent an important contribution to the development the discipline of landscape architecture as well as suggesting new ways in which future collaboration can help to create a greater interdisciplinary richness at a time when the awareness of the importance of the landscape is growing across a wide range of disciplines Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture is the first systematic attempt to explore the territory at the boundaries of landscape architecture It addresses academics professionals and students not just from landscape architecture but also from its neighbouring discipline all of whom will benefit from a better understanding their areas of shared interest and the chance to develop a common language with which to converse      Landscape Barbara Bender, 2024-11-01 This book is about the complexity and power of landscape The authors geographers anthropologists and archaeologists explore landscape as something subjective that alters through time and space and that is created by people through their experience and contact with the world around them      Archaeology of Southern Urban Landscapes Amy L Young, 2000-10-18 Amy L Young is Assistant Professor of Anthropology at the University of Southern Mississippi      Interpreting the English Village Mick Aston, Christopher Gerrard, 2013-02-07 An original and approachable account of how archaeology can tell the story of the English village Shapwick lies in the middle of Somerset next to the important monastic centre of Glastonbury the abbey owned the manor for 800 years from the 8th to the 16th century and its abbots and officials had a great influence on the lives of the peasants who lived there. It is possible that abbot Dunstan, one of the great reformers of tenth century monasticism, directed the planning of the village. The Shapwick Project examined the development and history of an English parish and village over a ten thousand year period. This was a truly multi disciplinary project. Not only were a battery of archaeological and historical techniques explored such as field walking, test pitting, archaeological excavation, aerial reconnaissance, documentary research and cartographic analysis, but numerous other techniques such as building analysis, dendrochronological dating and soil analysis were undertaken on a large scale. The result is a fascinating study about how the community lived and prospered in Shapwick. In addition, we learn how a group of enthusiastic and dedicated scholars unravelled this story. As such, there is much here to inspire and enthuse others who might want to embark on a landscape study of a parish or village area. Seven of the ten chapters begin with a fictional vignette to bring the story of the village to life. Text boxes elucidate re-occurring themes and techniques. Extensively illustrated in colour, including 100 full page images.

Remote Sensing and Geosciences for Archaeology Deodato Tapete, 2018-04-27. This book is a printed edition of the Special Issue Remote Sensing and Geosciences for Archaeology that was published in Geosciences.

Geographers Elizabeth Baigent, André Reyes Novaes, 2018-11-15. Geographers Biobibliographical Studies Volume 37 explores the concept of distinction in geography. Through the lives of six geographers working in Brazil, North America, Europe and R union, it investigates what distinction consists of, how we identify and celebrate it, and how it relates to quotidian practices in the discipline. The volume highlights the continuing importance of biography and the International Geographical Union in recording and assessing distinction. It also considers the relevance of personal networks for the circulation and translation of distinguished geographical knowledge and how this knowledge can underpin applied projects and critical appraisal of geographical scholarship both at a national and sub national level. Gendered notions of distinction are also addressed, particularly through June Sheppard, who found limited recognition for her work as a result of gendered expectations within the discipline and society at large. By reflecting on how we locate distinguished geographers and tell their histories, Geographers Biobibliographical Studies Volume 37 makes an important contribution to fostering less canonical work in historical geography.

Landscape and Space Jaś Elsner, 2022. Through comparative case studies from ancient China, ancient Greece, Mesoamerican Maya art and across Eurasia via Pompeii, this book emphasises the significance of models of landscape in ancient art. Notably, it explores questions of space, both actual and conceptual, including how space is configured through form and representation.

Landscape Perspectives Marc Antrop, Veerle Van Eetvelde, 2017-12-19. Climb a mountain and experience the landscape. Try to grasp its holistic nature. Do not climb alone, but with others and share your experience. Be sure the ways of seeing the landscape will be very different. We experience the landscape with all senses as a complex, dynamic and hierarchically structured whole. The landscape is tangible out there and simultaneously a mental reality. Several perspectives are obvious because of language, culture and background.

Many disciplines developed to study the landscape focussing on specific interest groups and applications Gradually the holistic way of seeing became lost This book explores the different perspectives on the landscape in relation to its holistic nature We start from its multiple linguistic meanings and a comprehensive overview of the development of landscape research from its geographical origins to the wide variety of today s specialised disciplines and interest groups Understanding the different perspectives on the landscapes and bringing them together is essential in transdisciplinary approaches where the landscape is the integrating concept     Deserted Villages Revisited Christopher Dyer,Richard Jones,2010 Assembling leading experts on the subject this account explores the circumstances surrounding the disappearance of thousands of villages and smaller settlements in England and Wales between 1340 and 1750 By revisiting the deserted villages this breakthrough study addresses questions that have plagued archaeologists geographers and historians since the 1940s including why they were deserted why some villages survived while others were abandoned and who was responsible for their desertion offering a series of exciting insights into the fate of these fascinating sites
