Interregional Migration:

Interregional Migration Wolfgang Weidlich, Günter Haag, 2012-12-06 In part I of this book a dynamic migratory model connecting the microlevel of individual migration trends with the macrolevel of interregional migration is developed Its derivation makes use of the master equation method Applying a ranking regression analysis the trend parameters of the model are correlated to regional socio economic key factors In part II the model is applied to interregional migration within the countries Federal Republic of Germany Canada France Israel Italy and Sweden In part III a comparative analysis of the results is given In part IV a selfcontained derivation of the master equation and of solutions relevant for the migratory system is given the ranking regression analysis is exemplified and a computer program for the estimation of trend parameters is added

New Frontiers in Interregional Migration Research Bianca Biagi, Alessandra Faggian, Isha Rajbhandari, Viktor A. Venhorst, 2018-04-30 This book focuses on the latest advances and challenges in interregional migration research Given the increase in the availability of big data at a finer spatial scale the book discusses the resulting new challenges for researchers in interregional migration especially for regional scientists and the theoretical and empirical advances that have been made possible In presenting these findings it also sheds light on the different migration drivers and patterns in the developed and developing world by comparing different regions around the globe The book updates and revisits the main academic debates in interregional migration and presents new emerging lines of investigation and a forward looking research agenda

Interregional Migration and Public Policy in Canada Kathleen Mary Day, Stanley L. Winer, 2012 Given Canada's vast geography and uneven distribution of economic activity almost all Canadians have at one time or another faced the question of whether an interprovincial move would make them better off Using a unique dataset based on income tax records authors Kathleen Day and Stanley Winer examine the factors influencing the decision to migrate within Canada paying special attention to the role of regional variation in the generosity of public policies including unemployment insurance taxation and public expenditure the influence of extraordinary events such as the election of a separatist government in Quebec and the closure of the east coast cod fishery is also considered They look at why we ought to be concerned about public policies that interfere with market based incentives to move provide a wealth of information on interregional differences in public policies and market conditions and examine what other researchers have discovered about fiscally induced migration culminating in a discussion of the likely impact of various policy changes on migration and provincial unemployment rates the authors assessment of the lessons to be learned from their own and past research on policy induced migration in Canada will be of interest to students of migration and policy makers alike

Internal Migration as a Life-Course Trajectory Aude Bernard, 2022-06-20 This book responds to growing calls to conceptualise and analyse internal migration as a trajectory that unfolds over the life course of individuals rather than a series of discrete events It combines macro and micro modes of analysis into a cohort framework to explore how individuals transition from one migration to the next The book presents new methodological developments in longitudinal analysis and applies them to internal migration in 27 European countries It demonstrates that the traditional dichotomy between migrants and non migrants conceals a wide range of migration behaviour and heterogeneity among repeat migrants It also reveals a continuity of migration behaviour being exposed to the challenges and benefits of migration early in life predisposes individuals toward migration in adulthood By adopting a cohort approach to migration coupled with state of the art methods and novel concepts this book provides new insights into internal migration for graduate students academics and policymakers interested in understanding migration behaviour in Europe and beyond

Internal Migration and Regional Population Dynamics in Europe Philip H. Rees, Marek Kupiszewski, Council of Europe. Directorate of Social and Economic Affairs, 1999-01-01

Internal Migration Alan A. Brown, Egon Neuberger, 2014-05-10 Internal Migration A Comparative Perspective is the third in a series of publications sponsored by the Committee on Comparative Urban Economics This book highlights the integral migration in several regions of the world and the problems in regions of varying levels of economic development and with different economic systems This text is organized into five parts encompassing 24 chapters The introductory part describes the interactions between migration and socioeconomic development along with the functions and dynamics of the migration process The next part explores the methodological aspects of migration including the models measurements and theoretical reflections of internal migration Other parts discuss the effect of migration on regions and individuals These chapters also present some case studies of internal migration in the West and Eastern Europe The demographic effect of migration on an urban population the ethnicity as a barrier to migration and the influence of social and geographical mobility on the stability of kinship systems are reviewed The concluding part relates a comparative disciplinary and systemic view of migration This book will be of great value to economists sociologists and social workers

Internal Migration in the Developed World Tony Champion, Thomas Cooke, Ian Shuttleworth, 2017-08-16 The frequency with which people move home has important implications for national economic performance and the well being of individuals and families Much contemporary social and migration theory posits that the world is becoming more mobile leading to the recent mobilities turn within the social sciences Yet there is mounting evidence to suggest that this may not be true of all types of mobility nor apply equally to all geographical contexts For example it is now clear that internal migration rates have been falling in the USA since at least the 1980s To what extent might this trend be true of other developed countries Drawing on detailed empirical literature Internal Migration in the Developed World examines the long term trends in internal migration in a variety of more advanced countries to explore the factors that underpin these changes Using case studies of the USA UK Australia Japan Sweden Germany and Italy this pioneering book presents a critical assessment of the extent to which global structural forces as opposed to national context influence internal migration in the Global North Internal Migration in the Developed World fills the void in this neglected aspect of migration studies and will appeal to a wide disciplinary audience of researchers and students working in Geography Migration Studies Population Studies and Development Studies      Analysis of Interregional Migration in Ghana Kwadwo Owusu-Aduemiri,1980      Internal Migration in the Countries of Asia Martin Bell,Aude Bernard,Elin Charles-Edwards,Yu Zhu,2020-07-20 This book explores how population mobility varies among the countries of Asia While much attention has been given to international migration movement within countries is numerically much more significant Coupling innovative methods developed in the global IMAGE project with the contextual knowledge of experts on 15 Asian countries the book measures and explains how people across Asia differ in the probability of changing residence the ages at which they move and the impact of these migrations on the distribution of human settlement within each country It demonstrates how stage of economic development coupled with historical events local contingencies cultural norms political frameworks and the physical environment shape human migration By using rigorous statistics in a robust comparative framework this book provides a clear understanding of contemporary migration in Asia for students and academics and a valuable resource for policy makers and planners in Asia and beyond      Internal Migration Darren P. Smith,Nissa Finney,Nigel Walford,2016-03-09 Over the last two decades there have been numerous profound changes in UK society which have had an impact on the scale geographies meaning and experiences of internal migration Providing a critical appraisal of migration scholarship from the perspective of Geography reviewing theory substantive foci and method this book demonstrates how sub national migration in the UK gives rise to and reflects new patterns of population housing economies and cultures Each chapter is written by a Population Geographer together with a scholar representing another Human Geography sub discipline thus providing a cross disciplinary perspective on a specific aspect of migration Critically reviewing and setting an agenda for internal migration scholarship from a spatial perspective this book will be of interest to academics and students of Geography and other disciplines concerned with migration both within the UK and further afield      Researching Internal Migration S. Irudaya Rajan,R. B. Bhagat,2022-10-31 Researching Internal Migration is a comprehensive guide for researchers and professionals to study internal migration in developing and underdeveloped economies This book Explains key theoretical concepts related to migration Guides students and researchers on how to design surveys and the utility of census data Unravels the complexities of large data sets and their interpretation Includes techniques for indirect measurement Presents methodology for estimating remittances at the sub national and national levels Acquaints the impact of migration during emergency situations or pandemics like COVID 19 Offers perspectives and tools for evaluating the policy impact of migration Accessibly written this book will be an essential theoretical and empirical guide for researchers in development studies public policy population studies human geography and migration and diaspora studies      Minority Internal Migration in Europe Gemma Catney,2016-04-22 Immigration is a major component of population change for countries across Europe However questions remain about where immigrants go after they arrive in a new country What are the patterns of internal migration of minorities immigrants and their descendants and what are the causes and implications of these flows Migration within a nation state is a powerful force redistributing the population and altering the demographic social and economic composition of regions cities and neighbourhoods Yet relatively little is known about the significance of ethnicity in migration processes or how population movement contributes to immigrant and ethnic integration Minority internal migration is an emerging field of academic interest in many European countries in the context of high levels of immigration and increased political interest in inter ethnic relations and place based policies This book brings together experts in the fields of migration ethnicity and diversity from across Europe to examine patterns of residential mobility of minorities and to synthesise key themes theories and methods The analyses presented make important contributions to theories of migration and minority integration and may inform policies that aim to respond to local population change and increasing diversity The conclusions of the book form an agenda for future research on minority and immigrant internal migration in developed societies

Planning for Internal Migration United States. Bureau of the Census, Sally E. Findley, 1977 Literature survey on migration policies relating to internal migration in developing countries covers the effect of demographic aspects and economic conditions and educational level on rural migration patterns and analyses the impact of fertility level on urban development References and statistical tables

Internal Migration Within South Asia Ujjaini Mukhopadhyay, 2022-01-12 This book critically discusses the multi dimensional contemporary issues within the ambit of the driving forces mechanisms vulnerability and opportunities of the intra region human movement in South Asia It covers different dimensions of cross border migration within South Asia as well as internal migration particularly in India reflecting upon both voluntary and forced movements It traces the trajectory and past trends in migration in the South Asian countries It evaluates the vulnerability of refugees and stateless vis vis state policies Issues regarding Rohingya refugees from Myanmar to Bangladesh Nepalese immigration to India the crisis around Sri Lankan Tamil refugees Afghan returnee refugees from Pakistan and Iran resettlement of Bhutanese refugees are explored in the chapters It also analyzes the impact on wage inequality due to emigration the crucial role of social capital in migration decisions and socio economic vulnerabilities of women migrants in India This book provides a clear understanding of international and internal migration in South Asia for students and academics and a valuable resource for policy makers and planners in development studies regional development and South Asian studies

Internal migration and development planning in South Africa (Dr) Ilse Eigelaar-Meets, 2025-02-19 This scholarly book aims to illustrate the importance of incorporating internal migration data into development planning initiatives and processes to gain insight into both short and long term social changes This publication draws on census data pertaining to internal migration flows in the Northern Cape and Western Cape provinces of South Africa The author analyses compares and presents data across three post apartheid periods 1996 2001 2001 2006 and 2006 2011 to illustrate how current forces drive and direct migration flows and how this impacts the social dynamics within the two provinces This book highlights three significant shifts when comparing the two provinces pre and post 1994 internal migration trends First it examines the change in the political context framing mobility Second it explores the change in the types of internal migration flows sustaining urbanisation Third and lastly it analyses the changing profile of mobile migrants in the Northern Cape and Western Cape Internal migration and development planning in South Africa makes a compelling case for a strategic and coordinated approach by governments by demonstrating the influence of political and economic forces on internal migration flows and their impact on community social dynamics Such an approach is essential to address the increasing developmental constraints and challenges posed by internal migration in post apartheid South Africa

Family Planning, Internal Migration and Urbanization in ECAFE Countries United Nations. Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East,1968

The UK Regional-National Economic Problem Philip McCann,2016-03-10 In recent years the United Kingdom has become a more and more divided society with inequality between the regions as marked as it has ever been In a landmark analysis of the current state of Britain s regional development Philip McCann utilises current statistics examines historical trends and makes pertinent international comparisons to assess the state of the nation The UK Regional National Economic Problem brings attention to the highly centralised top down governance structure that the UK deploys and demonstrates that it is less than ideally placed to rectify these inequalities The North South divide in the UK has never been greater and the rising inequalities are evident in almost all aspects of the economy including productivity incomes employment status and wealth Whilst the traditional economic dominance of London and its hinterland has continued along with relative resilience in the South West of England and Scotland in contrast the Midlands the North of England Northern Ireland and Wales lag behind by most measures of prosperity This inequality is greatly limiting national economic performance and the fact that Britain has a below average standard of living by European and OECD terms has been ignored The UK s economic and governance inequality is unlikely to be fundamentally rebalanced by the current governance and connectivity trends although this definitive study suggests that some areas of improvement are possible if they are well implemented This pivotal analysis is essential reading for postgraduate students in economics and urban studies as well as researchers and policy makers in local and central government

Internal Migration In Sri Lanka And Its Social Consequences Robert N. Kearney,2019-04-08 This book probes features of internal migration in Sri Lanka and some of the social and political consequences of these population shifts It examines the aspects of societal upheavals related to internal migration unbalanced sex ratios rising rates of suicide and increased ethnic conflict

International and Interregional Migration: Theory and Evidence Francisco Rivera-Batiz,2018 Global and regional migration flows have exploded in the last few decades Written by renowned migration expert Francisco L Rivera Batiz this book provides a collection of articles offering a comprehensive overview of the economic analysis of migration

A Generation of Change Jacob S. Siegel,1993-02-18 A Generation of Change is an exceptional study of the nation s elderly a population that has undergone profound changes in the years since World War II As modern medicine extends the average life span and the baby boom generation begins to approach middle age the number of older Americans is expected to more than double in the next century Currently 75 percent of U S health care expenditures go toward the elderly But as national trends toward early retirement and low birthrate continue an aging American population could face crises in meeting their financial and physical needs According to Jacob S Siegel in A Generation of Change astute public planning must be informed by an understanding of the demographic social and economic characteristics of the older population as it is today and as it will be in the coming years Siegel employs census and survey data from 1950 through the mid 1980s to describe a population constantly shifting in its ethnic and gender composition geographic distribution marital and living arrangements health employment and economic status Surprisingly there is tremendous disparity in the quality of life among the elderly Although their average poverty rate is below that of the general population there are dramatic levels of poverty among older women who are far more likely than men to live alone or in institutions As the elderly progress from the young old to the aged old those over 85 sharp differences emerge as income and employment decrease and degrees of chronic illness increase In addition residential location influences the quality of health care and public assistance available to the elderly an effect that may account for the marked migration of older people to Florida and Arizona Siegel analyzes the full range of characteristics for this heterogeneous population and through comparisons with other age groups as well as with the elderly of the previous decades portrays the crucial influence of social and economic conditions over the life course on the quality of later life With our elderly population growing more numerous and long lived accurate information about them is increasingly essential A Generation of Change will serve as a valuable resource for policymakers seeking more effective solutions in critical areas such as housing long term health care and the funding of Social Security and retirement programs
