Tarmac Fred Valdes,2009-08-21 This is one of a thousand stories dealing with the transition from innocence to a maturity stage where unforeseen events forced this change to occur sooner and faster than expected The death of a father forcing an older brother to become the strong figure in a family the absence of both parents often causes the same circumstances In my case it was a sudden change in government brought by a revolution and followed by family separation in exile at an early age I have often heard so many similar stories from older Jewish friends about the fragmentation of families during the Nazi era The name changes to save a life the denials of ethnicity and religion in order to survive The quest for Gods given freedom does not know ethnic background or frontiers My story is no different from those who have risked everything to live in a free society We often associate these stories with Nazi Germany Communist China or the old Soviet Union Its hard to conceive yet a reality that the same circumstances could happen just ninety miles from our shores in a country that was always and I believe still is traditionally and culturally strongly linked to the United States I write this book with dual purpose One is to pour my heart out and leave a written legacy on my experience to my children As much as a father tries to explain verbally time tends to erase the memories The second purpose is to serve as an inspiration to all those who today seek freedom Every human being should have freedom to worship freedom to speak their minds and express their opinions freedom to travel freedom to prosper in abundance and decide who their elected leaders will be through free elections These freedoms still do not exist in Cuba today In spite of some recent cosmetic changes and Castros mummified state his younger brother is still preaching the same lies designed to create an illusion of change After more than fifty years of totalitarian government the Castro brothers along with their puppets in Venezuela and Panama still rule like old dinosaurs from a bygone era

Night Passages Elisabeth Bronfen,2013 In the beginning was the night All light shapes language and subjective consciousness as well as the world and art depicting them emerged from this formless chaos In fantasy we seek to return to this original darkness Particularly in literature visual representations and film the night resiliently resurfaces from the margins of the knowable acting as a stage and state of mind in which exceptional perceptions discoveries and decisions play out Elisabeth Bronfen follows nocturnal spaces in which extraordinary events unfold enabling the irrational exploration of desire transformation ecstasy transgression spiritual illumination and moral choice She begins with classical myths depicting the creation of the world and moves through nocturnal scenes in Shakespeare and Milton Gothic figurations Hegel s romantic philosophy and Freud s psychoanalysis In modern times she shows how literature and film particularly film noir transmit that piece of night the modern subject carries within From Mozart s Queen of the Night to Virginia Woolf s oscillation between day and night life and death and chaos and aesthetic form Bronfen renders something visible conceivable and tellable from the dark realms of the unknown

Threshold Dwellers in the Age of Global Pandemic Eleazar S. Fernandez,2022-05-19 So many lives have been lost now and the death toll still continues to rise because of the COVID 19 pandemic The poor and the marginalized not surprisingly have been disproportionately affected The pandemic has exposed the fault lines not only in our healthcare but also in our political and economic system a system driven by the pursuit of the bottom line profits If we are not only to survive but also thrive as a global society the challenge of the coronavirus pandemic must lead us to explore ways of thinking being and dwelling that promote our shared flourishing It is time to take personal stock about ourselves who we are where we have been and where we are heading What can the pandemic teach us about ourselves What is it revealing about us and our situation How shall we dwell together Do we want to wake up to a new and better tomorrow after this nighttime of pandemic That will largely depend on the way we respond now Who are we becoming in this time of pandemic What daily practices are we doing as embodiments of the new world we are anticipating

Throughout the book rich detailed stories and descriptions are shared based on classroom observations interviews and student learning outcomes collected from three elementary school teachers from diverse backgrounds and various years of experience Classroom observations were conducted using the Culturally Responsive Instruction Observation Protocol CRIOP instrument to assess the practices being implemented in the classroom As I focused on the hard realities that face African American male students in today s classrooms I identified six emerging themes including one overarching emerging theme and three promising practices that surfaced during my research The CRP practices implemented proved helpful toward increasing learning outcomes for African American male students and ultimately closing the achievement gap As an African American educator I have been able to see how the lack of culturally responsive practices creates learning obstacles for African American male students These learning obstacles continue to plague a group that has been historically marginalized in our society The implementation of CRP practices provides educators with an avenue to remedy a social justice issue that has plagued our nation for years The information shared in this book can be beneficial for all those invested in closing the achievement gap and increasing student learning outcomes through the use of culturally responsive practices including pre service and in service teachers administrators caregivers community advocates educational researchers and policy makers
